Round Your Corners.
Obsolete Airplanes.
Cannot Win, Lying Down.
Taking Religion Seriously.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HODGE, Cal., April 9.

IMPORTANT to city governments. Berlin, which makes city rule a science, not a graft, is gradually rounding off corners on streets with heavy traffic. Big omnibuses can turn rounded corners, without pulling out into the street, interfering with other vehicles.

THE used airplane problem already causes anxiety. With constant improvement, passenger planes become obsolete, while still in safe working order. Highly expensive machines they have little second hand value. The problem is to use, profitably, the flying life remaining in them.

MR. WALTER S. MARVIN, of the Curtiss company, suggests the use of planes to bring fresh fish, north, from below the Mexican boundary.

Passenger planes could carry loads sufficiently heavy to make the traffic profitable. It should be profitable, also, to use planes for transporting fruits picked ripe, and delivered within a few hours of picking. Slow transportation by rail makes it necessary to pick strawberries and other fruits green, marketing an inferior product. Airplane refrigeration would be cheap. Watching his thermometer, the pilot would fly up to the right temperature.

THE government should use many planes, obsolete, but safe, to stamp out the boll weevil, and other pests that cost the nation each year 100 times the value of all its airplanes. It has been shown that "dusting" cotton fields, with insect killing poisons at the right time, kills the weevil. Spending a few millions in that work might save hundreds of millions yearly, for all future time. Planes could be used also to replant, with any trees desired, areas denuded by fire, or cut over by lumbermen. The French did that, after the war.

POOR, earnest Mahatma Gandhi gathers salt in the marshes to show his contempt for Britain's government, which exploits the salt monopoly. Seven thousand Hindu railroad workers, devoted to Gandhi, offer to lie on the tracks and let trains run over them to stop British locomotives.

Britain confiscates the salt as fast as Gandhi collects it, saying it isn't clean enough for human consumption, and arrests the railroad workers.

THOSE gentle Hindus should study European and American methods to get independence. When American locomotive engineers had their big strike they did not lie down on the tracks. They loaded a flat car with giant powder, ran it into a round house and blew the locomotives to pieces.

Bad and true, gentleness wins few fights.

AT POINT BARROW, Alaska, natives have been near famine for lack of land game, with mountainous ice choking the harbor and making fishing impossible. Early on Sunday morning the ice disappeared, but no native went out in his kayak until midnight.

They are Christians now and take seriously the good missionaries warning that if they fish on Sunday they will learn, later, something about heat unknown in Alaska. Those Christian natives would be surprised to see prosperous, civilized Christianity, here and elsewhere, playing golf, fishing and otherwise NOT taking religious teachings too seriously.

VARIOUS things. Hunters for the American Museum of Natural History are returning to America bringing three specimens of the long-haired Siberian tiger. You will soon see them stuffed. In Chile, villagers living at the foot of the volcano Orsano flee from great streams of scalding water, gushing from the crater, 7,500 feet high. A big and temporarily important battle between Chinese armies is expected every day. A Genghis Khan or Tamerlane is needed to control that situation.

HOW great is money's power! When the Turkish Sultan lived, to cross the threshold of his harem was death. Now, by Kemal's order, you may enter and look around on payment of 25 cents. For that small sum you see the bed in which the beautiful Sultana Kersem, called for her beauty "Body of the Moon," was strangled, by the Sultan's order, with the cords of her bed-curtains.

MEXICO'S government wisely forbids the manufacture of alcohol or whisky from corn. "Corn liquor" is poisonous stuff at best. The Mexican government says the people should eat corn, not drink it. The best wine and alcohol come from grapes, next best from sugar and various fruits that grow in sunshine, next from barley, then rye, then corn, then potatoes, then wood, yielding alcohol that is deadly poison.

C. A. MITCHNER, Texas candidate for the Senate, has for a campaign motto:

"Give every poor man a cow. And if he's too poor to send for it, let the United States government deliver it to him."

In Texas, where 100 cows for every man should have room, that is a good campaign idea. In Eastern territory, cities especially, the demand of every man is for an automobile. He would not know what to do with a cow, or where to begin. What big city dwellers especially need is low prices for garage space. Many can afford a car that cannot afford $3,600 yearly, to keep a roof over it.

FIRST OF SEX NOMINATED TO SENATE

Majority of 200,000 Swamps Deneen Who Took Senate Seat of Husband in 1924

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 9.—The spectacular victory scored by Ruth Hanna McCormick in Illinois' hotly contested senatorial primary grew like a mushroom today as late returns from down the state swelled the proportions of her victory over Senator Charles S. Deneen, who six years ago defeated her late husband, Senator Medill McCormick, for renomination.

It appeared that her winning margin would exceed 200,000 votes—an unprecedented victory in the history of Illinois primaries. Mrs. McCormick is the first woman nominated for the U. S. Senate.

STATE-WIDE VICTORY

With approximately four-fifths of the state returns received and tabulated, Mrs. McCormick was leading Senator Deneen by the surprising margin of 207,000 votes. From "Little Egypt" to the hard-boiled wards of Cook County, the voters simply rose up and smeared Deneen, a two-time governor and a prominent figure in Illinois politics for 32 years.

Whatever the result in the November election, Illinois will send to the United States Senate a member committed to oppose President Hoover's policy of having the United States adhere to the World Court of the League of Nations.

The League court issue was virtually the only one between Mrs. McCormick and Senator Deneen, the latter having voted for it and defended it in the campaign just ended. And on the Democratic side, J. Hamilton Lewis, who won

BRIDE JAILED IN SHOOTING OF WOMAN

Young Wife Denies Wounding Mother-in-Law in Fight Over Bedspread in Home

CHARLEROI, Pa., April 9.—An 18-year-old wife is being held here today in the shooting of her 65-year-old mother-in-law.

Mrs. Katherine Lacava, 65, was shot in the left temple this morning while in her bedroom at 109 Fallowfield avenue. Mrs. Rose Lacava, a local glass worker, despite her denial of any connection with the shooting, is held in the Charleroi jail on an order of Assistant District Attorney H. R. Stahlman, who conducted an investigation with Acting Police Chief Alex Murray and Patrolman Pete Bege.

In a statement to police, Mrs. Lacava declared that her daughter-in-law shot her as the aftermath of a quarrel over the ownership of a bedspread.

Despite vehement denials, police shortly after the shooting received information that the young wife ran to the home of Patrick Murphy, nearby, with the .32 caliber revolver in her hand.

"My mother-in-law shot herself. Where can I hide this gun?" she is reported to have said to Mrs. Murphy.

OTIS PROXIES RULED OUT IN NEW ORDER

Merger Success Held Up Pending the Final Hearing; Eaton Bitter

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 9.—(AP.)—Tables were turned this afternoon in the fight over merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation when Judge C. S. Turnbaugh granted Myron C. Wick, Jr., one of the anti-merger stockholders, a temporary injunction, restraining the pro-merger committee from voting 51,038 shares of Sheet and Tube stock owned by Otis & Co., of Cleveland.

Up to this stage every indication pointed to the successful carrying out of the merger.

RULING REVERSED

Earlier today, Judge Turnbaugh had refused Otis & Co. an injunction concerning the same block of stock, which is believed large enough to be the deciding factor in the stockholders' vote.

Otis & Co. did not have right to bring the action, the judge said, because they are bound by rules of the New York Stock Exchange.

The new suit was filed by Wick as quickly as it could be prepared.

The question of the voting rights of the stock was left in some confusion, however, due to parts of the judge's decision of this morning, which some attorneys held were contradictory.

EATON'S STATEMENT

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, in a formal statement today concerning the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, said:

"There will be no merger with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation."

The leader of the anti-merger group added:

"We will leave no stones unturned to frustrate the merger in all its ramifications."

Eaton said he had positive proof

Torch Slayer Loses Last Appeal

TRENTON, N. J., April 9.—(AP.)—A final move to save Henry Campbell Close from death in the electric chair for the slaying of Mildred Mowry, of Greenville, Pa., the woman he married while already married to another, failed today when the court of pardons denied an application for commutation of sentence.

Close, who was convicted of the killing and alleged to have burned the body, was sentenced to die during next week. Executions customarily are on Friday, but because "Good Friday" occurs on April 18, indications were that he would be put to death earlier in the week.

Counsel for Close described the man as a "psychopathic personality" and based the plea for commutation on "humane" grounds. The attorney pointed out that Close now was 61, and said he was broken in mind and body. At the time of the crime, he said, the man was "bereft of all sense of calculation."

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen today in Common Pleas Court handed down an order continuing the preliminary injunction restraining the striking taxi drivers from operating their own cab service. The continuance was ordered effective until the final hearing on the injunction is held.

Following the collapse of peace negotiations in the taxi strike, the drivers had attempted to operate their own cars to raise funds for relief purposes. The Parmelee Transportation Company then went into court and obtained a preliminary injunction restraining such service on the grounds that the drivers had not obtained a certificate of public convenience from the Public Service Commission.

Judge Swearingen's order today continued that injunction until a hearing is held on a motion by the Parmelee company to make the injunction permanent.

The extended taxicab service in the Oakland and East Liberty districts which was started yesterday and interrupted by attacks on eight cabs, was to be continued today, officials of the Parmelee

FORD CO. NETS 81 MILLIONS

BOSTON, April 9.—(AP.)—The balance sheet of the Ford Motor Company, as filed with the Massachusetts Commissioner of Corporations today, indicated profit for 1929 of $81,797,861, as contrasted with an indicated loss of $72,221,498 in 1928.

The indicated profit is equal to $473.79 a share on 172,645 shares of stock, all of which is held by Henry Ford and his son, Edsel B. Ford. The sharp upturn in earnings is understood to reflect the going into production of the new models, the cost of which was probably reflected in the 1928 balance sheet.

As the company is privately owned, it is not required to file a detailed financial statement.

HOLD PITT BOYS AIDING RALLY

Three Pitt students were arrested at the Boulevard of the Allies and Grant street, today, charged with passing cards advertising a liberal labor organization meeting in Carnegie Music Hall, North Side, without a permit. The charge is violating a city ordinance by distributing the cards without a permit.

Maurer, former president of the Pennsylvania Federation of labor and father of the old age pension plan for this state, is billed as the principal speaker.

Evangelist Sproul's Radio Station Under Hammer

The radio broadcasting station of Evangelist John W. Sproul, on the Frankstown road, Penn Township, has been listed by the sheriff for sale at 1 p. m. next Monday to satisfy a lien of $7,943.75.

Attorney Kenneth Cunningham avers Sproul owes him this sum for legal services. He at first asked that Sheriff Robert S. Cain place a watchman on the property to prevent operation, but as this would cost the county $15 day, Cunningham finally withdrew his request.

On several previous occasions the evangelist has faced the sale of his broadcasting station, but each time has obtained funds to satisfy liens, according to deputies.

MOTHER SHOT, SON JAILED

A 64-year-old mother was shot four times, police say, by her son in the kitchen of her home at 1206 Orchard way, North Side, today.

An hour later the son was arrested in a Liberty avenue pawnshop while he was trying to borrow a few dollars on his revolver.

The mother, Mrs. Mathilda Wood, was rushed to the Allegheny General Hospital with bullet wounds in the back, stomach, right arm and right leg.

She was able to tell police of the shooting. She said she was in the kitchen of her modest frame home when her son, George E. Wood, 25, who was once a mental patient at City Hospital in Mayview, walked in.

Without provocation, she told police, he fired four shots, each taking effect. Mrs. Wood staggered to the porch screaming and collapsed. Neighbors found her.

The son escaped. All police were ordered to watch for him.

The proprietor of the pawnshop suspected Wood and notified police. There were three loaded shells still in the .32 caliber revolver when he was arrested without resistance.

Wood had not been living at his mother's home, she said. Four times he has been a patient at the Mayview Hospital. Once he escaped. His last visit there ended on December 22. Hospital authorities described him as a mental deficient who had never shown signs of violence. They said moonshine was responsible for his trips to the hospital.

Mrs. Wood is expected to recover.

Coolidge 500-Word Story Of U. S. Told in Part

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—A part of Calvin Coolidge's 500-word history of the United States—beginning "In the year of our Lord 1776 the people declared the eternal right to seek happiness, self government and the divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice"—was made public today by Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, and members of the South Dakota congressional delegation.

The history, to be inscribed in letters that may be seen for miles on the rocks of the Black Hills in South Dakota, continued:

"In 1787, assembled in convention, they made a charter of perpetual union of free people of sovereign states establishing a government of limited powers—under an independent President—Congress and court charged to provide security for all citizens in their enjoyment of liberty—equality and justice."

Only the first two portions of the Coolidge history were made public by Borglum and the delegation after a visit to President Hoover at the White House. The President took under advisement an invitation to attend the dedication of the first part of the memorial in July.

The seven inscriptions to be prepared by Mr. Coolidge deal with the following stages of American history: The Declaration of Independence; the framing of the Federal Government; the expansion of territorial dominion westward; the Louisiana purchase; the admission of the Republic of Texas; the admission of California; the settlement of the boundary questions, with England, of Oregon; and the cutting of the Panama Canal.

The first figure to be carved on the Black Hills granite is that of Washington. Other busts are those of Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt.

TINKHAM ASSAILS CHURCH PROHIBITION LOBBYISTS

ASK SENATE INQUIRY ON ACTIVITIES

Says Methodist Dry Board, Federal Church Council Violate Law on Politics

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Bearded and picturesque, Representative George Holden Tinkham (Rep.), Massachusetts, appeared today before the Senate Lobby Committee to urge an investigation of the Methodist Episcopal Church Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Federal Council of Churches.

He accused both organizations of violating the fundamental principles of the separation of church and state.

Amplification of the broad charge by Tinkham, through a letter read into the record and testimony, was that the boad and council attempted to influence legislation and to interfere with appointments of federal officers and the administration of justice.

ASKS QUIZ ON FUNDS

Tinkham also asserted the temperance board had violated the corrupt practices act by political expenditures. He urged that the Department of Justice investigate this and also receipt of money by the Federal Council during 1926, 1927 and 1928.

He declared that about one-fourth of the income of the council was received from churches and "other sources." He said receipts from "other sources" amounted in 1926 to $254,524, in 1927 to $232,018, and in 1928 to $336,339.

Concerning the denial of the Methodist board that it engaged in lobbying, Tinkham said the definition of lobbying is "an attempt to influence legislation," and reiterated lobbying charges.

DR. WILSON SCORED

He named as a paid servant and agent of the board, its secretary, Dr. Clarence True Wilson and said his duties included appearances before committees, soliciting departments of governments and communicating with members of Congress. He also mentioned a speech by Wilson at Melrose, Mass., on April 12, 1929, in connection with accusations that the board attempted by public attacks to coerce and villify judges.

"I object to a religious organization supporting or opposing appointments," Tinkham asserted. "I don't think a church has any business in politics."

"Do you object to individuals taking this action," asked Chairman Caraway.

"Not as individuals," Tinkham replied, "but as organizations."

Chairman Caraway announced the board and council would be given opportunity to reply to the charges.

Records of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment were subpenaed today by the Lobby Committee, and Henry H. Curran, of New York, president of the organization, was summoned to appear before the committee Tuesday.

Caraway said the association had refused to permit a committee investigator to examine its records.

CURRAN READY FOR QUIZ

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—Informed by the Associated Press he had been summoned to appear before the Senate Lobby Committee in Washington Tuesday with records of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Maj. Henry H. Curran, president, said he will appear. He asserted the committee already has most of the association's records.

Storm Threatens To Isolate Erie

HARRISBURG, April 9.—(AP.)—With three state highways in the northwestern corner of Pennsylvania blocked by drifts, forces of the State Highway Department today were engaged in fighting to keep a snow storm from shutting off the city of Erie.

Despite these efforts, two roads in Erie County and a section of the Lakes-to-Sea Highway between Cambridge Springs and Erie County, in Crawford County, was closed to traffic. Six other roads in the two counties were restricted to one-way traffic.

DRY LAW BILLS DELAYED

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—The House Judiciary Committee today again failed to reach a decision on the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission's legislative program and the Stobbs bill to amend the Jones law. The committee adjourned until next Wednesday.

Chairman Graham had set today for decision, but the committee confined its consideration largely to the Stobbs bill, the enactment of which is opposed by Attorney General Mitchell.

Members of the committee reported the group divided on the commission's bills, as well as on the Stobbs measure. They expressed doubt either would be favorably reported to the House for action at this session.

GANGLAND FEAR GAGS BARREL SLAYING

Fasio Faces Murder Charge As Police Probe Story He Put Gregory on Spot

BULLETIN.

Philip Fasio, suspect held in the "barrel murder mystery," was ordered turned over to the coroner this afternoon in connection with the slaying of William Gregory. The order was handed down by Judge James R. Macfarlane in Criminal Court.

Fear of death—gangland's penalty for the "double-cross" and the "squawk"—has sealed the lips of at least two and possibly five persons who, with a word, might solve Pittsburgh's barrel murder mystery, it was learned today as county detectives combed the underworld for another member of the so-called beer ring which, it is said, decreed the fate of William J. Gregory, whose headless body wa found in a cabbage barrel in Penn Township 10 days ago.

FACES MURDER CHARGE

Phillip Fasio (or De Fazia), alleged Clairton beer baron, is one of those persons, according to detectives. He will be formally charged with murder today, it was said, following a habeas corpus hearing before Judge James R. Macfarlane. Attorney Frank J. Zappala, acting in Fasio's behalf, brought court action yesterday to effect his client's release. The action was opposed by First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who asked for a continuance until today to permit more time for the gathering of evidence aimed to link Fasio with the slaying of Gregory, who, it is said, was "taken for a ride" because he "double-crossed" his bootlegging associates.

BELIEVE PAIR KNOW KILLER

Zappala also announced late yesterday he would make an effort to obtain the release of James Melano, another alleged member of the beer syndicate, who has been held incommunicado by county detectives since Sunday night.

Both Fasio and Melano, detectives assert, could tell considerable about Gregory's associations and possibly could name the slayer if they so desired, but fear of gangland's reprisal has held their tongues, it is declared.

Fasio, reputed head of the syndicate double-crossed by Gregory when he sold a truck loaded with beer, may not have been the actual killer, it is said, but he is credited with knowing the slayer. Detectives are working on the theory that he is one of the ring who put the "double-crosser" on the "spot." Melano, also, it is believed, can name the slayer.

Just Another Mystery, Monastero Murder Verdict

Another murder was definitely listed as unsolved today as a coroner's jury recommended that the unidentified slayers of Sam Monastero, North Side gangster, be apprehended and held for the grand jury on charges of murder.

Monastero, 45, of 39 Perryview street, was found strangled to death with his own necktie off the Jack's Run road, March 13. His brother, Steve Monastero, was slain as he was entering St. John's Hospital from his armored car, last August 6.

100 Planes in Test Of War Air Strategy

SACRAMENTO, April 9.—(AP.)—More than 100 planes of the United States Army were ordered to simulate attacks on each other today over their Mather Field base here, where the annual maneuvers are being held.

JAPAN GIVES IN FOR 3-POWER AGREEMENT

Withdraws Tonnage Demand, Assuring Nations' Accord; French Adamant on Parity

LONDON, April 9.—(AP.)—The Japanese withdrew their request that they be allowed to transfer 20,000 tons from destroyers to submarines this afternoon and thereby reached a complete accord with the Americans and British on all points excepting a minor definition concerning training ships.

This development took place this afternoon at a meeing attended by Secretary Stimson, Premier MacDonald and Reijiro Wakatsuki. It disposed of the Japanese government's tentative reservations to the tripartite agreement recently submitted to Tokyo.

PAVE WAY FOR PACT

Conference circles said today's action meant that the three major naval powers were now in a position to proceed with the drafting and signing of a tripartite pact if the attitude of France and Italy should make a five-power pact impossible.

The minor training ship question is expected to be adjusted tomorrow at another meeting of the three chief delegates.

France created a sensation in naval conference circles today by putting into concrete terms for the first time her attitude toward Italy's claim for parity.

DEMANDS SUPERIORITY

Jacques Dumesnil, French minister of marine, was said in authoritative quarters to have told A. V. Alexander, first lord of the British admiralty, that not only would France never concede parity, but that she demands a superiority of 240,000 tons over her Latin neighbor.

Meanwhile Italy has not budged from her oft-reiterated demand that she must have parity or nothing.

COLLEEN MOORE

COLLEEN MOORE TO ASK DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 9.—(INS.)—Hollywood was startled today to learn that Colleen Moore, motion picture star, and John McCormick, her producer-husband, had decided to separate. They were married in 1923.

Miss Moore will file suit for divorce within the next few days, it was reported after the couple ended a four-day discussion of the matter. They are said to have arranged a property settlement.

Miss Moore and her mother, Mrs. C. R. Morrison, returned recently from a tour of the United States, which was made, the actress was quoted as saying, for the purpose of reaching a decision on the separation. The trial separation, she intimated, had convinced her that a permanent separation was desirable.

PINCHOT HITS AT BALLOT FRAUDS

Ex-Governor Here, Brands Opponents in State Race 'Notorious;' Lauds Harris

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, arriving here today to press his campaign for another term in western counties assailed his opponents as "notorious for election frauds" and urged Allegheny County voters to continue their fight against cheating at the polls.

Pinchot paid warm tribute to the late Senator John P. Harris for his championing of clean election legislation.

The former governor arrived here at 9:20 a. m. and was met by C. F. Armstrong, of Armstrong County, running-mate of Pinchot as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

MEETS LIEUTENANTS

At the William Penn Hotel, Pinchot held a brief conference with Armstrong, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and former Judge Frank I. Gollmar, then left for Butler.

Pinchot gave out this statement:

"I never come to Pittsburgh without being reminded of one of the most courageous fights ever made for clean elections in the state.

"The man who fought it was the late Senator John P. Harris, my friend and one of the most courageous and outstanding champions of the square deal I have ever known.

GAVE LIFE IN FIGHT

"When the Philadelphia organization undertook to kill the bills to clean up elections, Harris led the fight. He not only led the fight, but he gave up his life for it and died in a committee hearing in which he had done everything any man could to put the bills through.

"He died on the field of honor and the people of Pennsylvania should be grateful to him for his superb sacrifice.

"The bills he fought for were opposed by the Philadelphia organization and its allies in Pittsburgh and together they succeeded in killing most of them.

SEES ENCOURAGEMENT

"These very machines which are today the principal backers of my opponent, Francis Shunk Brown, through whom they hope to gain complete control of the state government, have not only been notorious for election frauds, but have been the most venomous enemies of clean election laws in the state. Their record is their condemnation."

Pinchot, in Butler, was to meet his county committee in the Hotel Nixon and will address Camp No. 99, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, at a meeting tonight in the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport.

Butler is the home of Thomas W. Phillips, who is opposing Pinchot on an anti-dry ticket.

MEETINGS TOMORROW

Tomorrow Pinchot will hold conferences in his Magee Building headquarters, address Westinghouse employes in East Pittsburgh at noon, meet his committee in Beaver later and broadcast over KDKA at 8 p. m.

He will leave Magee Building headquarters at 11:30 a. m. Friday to address Westinghouse employes in Wilmerding at noon, proceed to Washington, Pa., for a meeting with his workers and broadcast over WJAS at 8 p. m. Pinchot will leave here Friday night for Lycoming County.

Senator Joseph R. Grundy, seeking to succeed himself, and his leading opponent, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, are expected to visit Pittsburgh before the end of the week.

S. C. Jamison, his local business representative, indicated Grundy would meet W. L. Mellon, who has made no public commitment on candidates, but is believed to be giving moral support to Grundy.

Secretary Davis is expected Saturday to discuss campaign plans for Allegheny County with his principal leaders, County Commissioner Armstrong and Mayor Kline.

Attorney Retires In Assembly Race

British Duchess, 64, Plans Flight to Cape Town

By J. K. SMITH.
International News Service.

LONDON, April 9.—Sixty-four years of age but still one of England's greatest flying enthusiasts, the aristocratic Duchess of Bedford hopped off from her ancestral home, Woburn Abbey, Bedfordshire, today, on the first leg of a projected flight to South Africa and return.

The first leg of the flight was from Bedfordshire to Lympne Aerodrome, outside of London. The duchess plans to take off at dawn tomorrow for Algeria. Accompanied by two pilots, she hopes to make the long trip to Cape Town, South Africa, in mammoth jumps of 1,500 miles each. Her plans call for her to be back in England at the end of 18 days.

With the duchess will be Capt. W. D. Barnard and another aviator, who will act as mechanic and assistant pilot. The duchess is determined, however, to take her turn at the controls regularly.

The flight is to be made in a huge Fokker monoplane which the duchess has used in the past on successful long-distance flights. The plane is equipped with a wicker armchair with a deep upholstered seat, in which the duchess will rest while not at the controls.

Maits Lifts Ban Against Sale of Parrots Here

Parrots bought by Pittsb[urgh] pet shops before the Federal ban on importations, imposed by the outbreak of parrot fever, can now be sold.

This was announced yesterday by Director C. B. Mait[s] [of the] Department of Public Health. Pet shops [were] notified of the lifting of the ban.

When psittacosis, commonly termed parrot fever, assumed epidemic proportions in several sections of the country more than three months ago, Maits co-operated with government authorities in prohibiting sale of the birds. A number of pet shops had parrots in stock when the ban was laid. None has since been sold.

The three-month period has shown that parrots in pet shops here have not been afflicted with any form of parrot fever, Maits said. He added that officials would not permit importation of birds until the federal embargo is lifted.

Westinghouse Man Finds Secret of Uranium

ATLANTA, Ga., April 9.—(AP.)—The age of machines and metals has a new scientific toy—metallic uranium at $400 a pound.

It was announced to the American Chemical Society today in the discovery of a new method to produce this hitherto priceless, steelgray metal, one of the 92 elements of earth, and the heaviest in atomic weight.

The discovery brings the metallic form within reach of experimenting to increase its uses, now confined mostly to measuring ultra-violet light and to x-ray work. Heretofore it has been made in small quantities in laboratory "bombs."

The new method is electrical and was reported by Dr. F. H. Driggs, research chemist of the Westinghouse Lamp Company. He said the major part of the expense is in preparation of the green salts from which the metal is obtained.

PILOT, CIRCLING HOME, SAVES SLEEPING FAMILY FROM FIRE

PLANE ROARS WARNINGS OF BLAZE

Mail Flier, After Arousing Household, Speeds Away; Home Destroyed by Fire

GREENVILLE, Pa., April 9.—(AP.)—An airmail pilot aroused sleeping members of a family whose house was afire two miles east of Clarks Mills early today and was credited with saving their lives. The pilot, Harry Little, eastbound from Cleveland to New York, circled over the farm house with the plane motor roaring out its warning.

Another pilot flying on the same route last Thursday awakened a family at Dubois when their dwelling was afire, but two persons were burned to death despite his efforts.

The fire near Clarks Mills destroyed the home of Carl Billig. Awakened by the airplane motor, Billig, his wife and two children fled through windows. Billig was burned slightly. A small amount of clothing was all that was saved from the flames. Billig estimated the loss at $10,000.

The identity of the mail pilot was not learned.

SOVIET CHURCH RIOTERS SLAIN

BERLIN, April 9.—(INS.)—Many persons were reported to have been killed and wounded in a religious riot in the Russian town of Tyraspol today, according to a Bucharest dispatch to the Berlin newspaper, Tempo.

The riot broke out, the message said, when Soviet troops, aided by the Militant League of Atheists, attempted to prevent residents of the town from entering the cathedral.

Details of the reported riot are lacking. The Tempo declares the majority of the town's population approached the Orthodox Cathedral and found its gates barred by the Soviet troops and atheists.

When they tried to enter the cathedral for services, the message continued, the troops attempted to disperse them by force.

The exact number of casualties is not known.

the Senate nomination virtually without opposition, is equally committed against the court, which President Hoover has promised to re-submit to the Senate at the earliest opportunity.

DRY BATTLE COMING

The result in Illinois probably foreshadows a spectacular wet-and-dry battle in November in the senatorial contest. Lewis is going to the electorate on a wet platform. Mrs. McCormick is dry. The result of that battle will be watched by the entire country. Twice in referendums Illinois has voted against prohibition.

Senator Deneen, after steadfastly refusing to acknowledge defeat last night, bowed to the inevitable this morning, and sent his victorious opponent a telegram of congratulation.

"I congratulate you upon your nomination," said the message, signed simply "Charles S. Deneen."

The senator smiled a little ruefully as he gave out the telegram.

RUTH AND ALICE HAPPY

McCormick headquarters in the Palmer House were the scene of a continuous ovation. Thoroughly tired, but immensely happy, Mrs. McCormick received the congratulations of hundred of people while she busied herself with preparations for departure for Washington late today.

She plans to be in her seat in the House of Representatives in Washington tomorrow. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth will accompany her back to Washington. "Princess Alice" and "Princess Ruth," one the daughter of Theodore Roosevelt and the other the daughter of Mark Hanna, were school-day friends.

Mrs. McCormick learned her politics at the knee of her father, Mark Hanna, and she plotted and carried through her campaign with all the strategy and skill of that master political strategist. She asked no quarter on account of her sex and she was given none. It was as savage a primary contest as two men ever engaged in.

WORLD COURT ISSUE

The McCormick victory furnishes a striking testimonial to the potency of the League Court issue in Illinois. Four years ago Frank L. Smith defeated Senator William B. McKinley for renomination on this same issue, and today it proved just as magical in Mrs. McCormick's case.

Incidentally, Senator Deneen is the nineteenth senator who voted for American adherence to the Court to go down to defeat since the vote in the Senate.

Mrs. McCormick herself attributes her smashing victory to her opposition to America's joining the Court. It was virtually her only issue when she began her campaign early last January.

Steadily, day after day, throughout the 102 counties of the state, she hammered home her opposition to American adherence and Senator Deneen's vote for it. Deneen accepted the challenge and the campaign was fought out along those lines, with occasional lusty attacks on each other's record in Congress.

ANTI-LEAGUE STAND WINS

Mrs. McCormick delivered her anti-court speech more than 150 times, from as many platforms. Deneen made his defense of his vote more than 100 times and published an eight-page pamphlet on the subject as well.

"The decisive vote in support of my candidacy must be interpreted as a vote in support of my position in opposing American adherence to the League of Nations Court," said Mrs. McCormick.

"The people have been awakened to the dangers of foreign entanglements, specifically with relation to the menace to our national independence of action that is involved in this League Court proposal.

"For years I have been opposed to American adherence to this so-called World Court. I have opposed it on the ground the court is a part of the League of Nations and that it is not essential as an instrument of peace and arbitration. I made these simple arguments against the court in my first speech January 13 and I have consistently repeated them since. My chief opponent accepted the issue in his first campaign speech and in view of that fact I believe it is a logical conclusion that the people are against American adherence to the League of Nations Court."

ILLINOIS DRYS IN CLOSE CALL

CHICAGO, April 9.—(INS.)—All of the sitting congressmen from Illinois, both Republican and Democratic, appeared today to have been renominated, although returns in many cases were still incomplete.

Col. Frank L. Smith and Representative Richard Yates will head the congressional slate as Republican nominees for congressmen-at-large. The Democratic nominees were William Dietrich and Walter Nesbit. Col. Smith, who was twice denied a Senate seat at Washington, will replace Ruth Hanna McCormick on the Republican ticket.

There were a number of narrow squeaks. Four leading dry Republicans from the Chicago district had a particularly difficult time, but late returns indicated they will slip through.

Among these was M. A. Michelson, Seventh District, who was tried a year ago at Jacksonville, Fla., for violation of the prohibition law when one of his trunks started leaking while in transit from Cuba. His principal opponent, James C. Moreland, was running him a strong race, however, and it probably will take the final returns to decide.

Oscar DePriest, the only Negro member of Congress, had no trouble about being renominated from the First District.

LEAGUE'S FOES HAIL VICTORY

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—The victory of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick in the Illinois Republican Senatorial race on a campaign against the World Court was hailed today by foes of the Court and the League of Nations in the Senate.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, said the nomination of Mrs. McCormick by Illinois voters "means thumbs down on the World Court and the League of Nations."

The question of American adherence to the World Court will be put before the Senate again at the next session by President Hoover.

LEAGUE BLASTS DEFEAT DENEEN

CHICAGO, April 9.—(Universal)—Ruth Hanna McCormick swept to victory on a platform of opposition to the entry of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations.

Following are excerpts from her speeches:

"I am an American and I am opposed to having our country join either the League of Nations or the League's Court. No good reason has yet been offered to warrant us to disregard Washington's advice to avoid at all cost foreign entangling alliances."

"I insist that we should maintain our American traditions of being friendly to all European nations, but have entangling alliances with none. I am unalterably opposed to the League of Nations and I am unalterably opposed to the League's Court, with or without reservations."

"I never will vote for war unless it is to protect the country. And I never will vote to commit the boys of the United States to fight the battles of Europe. Entrance into the League Court certainly means voting to endanger American lives through European entanglements."

"My opponent (Senator Deneen) says the leaders of the Republican Party are now in favor of our adherence to the Court. I believe in supporting the Republican administration, but on a question of international relations, wherein I see grave danger to American ideals and interests, I believe that my first duty is to avoid sacrificing my own principles."

ASKS U. S. SCAN RAIL BONDS

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Governmental supervision over the issuance of securities by railroad holding companies was recommended to the House Interstate Commerce Committee today by Joseph B. Eastman, of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He asked that a remedy for the present situation in which the commission, while empowered to supervise the issuance or securities by railroad companies, is without jurisdiction over the securities of holding companies. By use of the latter, he said, the commission's jurisdiction has in some cases been evaded.

The witness cited the Pennsylvania Company, a holding company organized by the Pennsylvania Railroad; the Special Investment Company, formed by the Nickel Plate system, and the Virginia Transportation Corporation, organized by the Chesapeake and Ohio, as having issued securities without the commission's approval.

FRAUDS LINK POSTOFFICES IN STATE

Many Pennsylvanians Feared Victims in $150,000,000 Leasing Agency Operations

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The possibility of a large number of Pennsylvania bondholders being victimized in an alleged nation-wide postoffice rental scandal that may involve $150,000,000 loomed today in connection with congressional demands for an investigation of a Chicago leasing agency.

Demands for such an inquiry have been made in the House and the Senate as an outgrowth of revelations revolving around the leasing of a building for postoffice activities at St. Paul, Minn., where, it is charged, the government contracted to pay a rental of $120,000 a year for a structure that has been declared to have a value of only approximately $300,000 at the outside.

LETTER INTRODUCED

In presenting a resolution of inquiry, Senator John J. Blaine (Rep.), Wisconsin, introduced a letter from William B. Beeber, of the First National Bank, of Williamsport, Pa., declaring that "something like $150,000,000 of securities" on postoffice building rentals have been issued to the American public during recent years.

At the same time, it developed today that several Pennsylvania congressmen have received letters from their constituents revealing that they have purchased some of the securities and anxiously inquiring about the values involved.

ADDRESSED TO GRUNDY

These two developments are taken to mean that the alleged Chicago rental ring, headed by Jacob Kulp, has undertaken operations in Pennsylvania.

The letter read by Blaine form the Williamsport banker had been addressed to Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, but found its way into the hands of the Wisconsin senator. Grundy had been asked by Beeber to use his influence in not allowing the investigation to be ordered too precipitately, for the reason that it "might become an unfortunate situation for the entire country."

KELLY TO KNOW FATE SOON

Testimony of character witnesses today closed the defense of James M. Kelly, 28, plumbing salesman, of Rochelle street, Knoxville, on trial in Criminal Court in connection with the killing of Peter McGann, 32, of 2330 Reed street, November 21, in a card room in the rear of a confectionery store at 1334 Fifth avenue.

The case was expected to go to the jury late today.

Kelly took the stand late yesterday and claimed self-defense. He related how he had been repeatedly threatened by McGann, first because he had gone out with McGann's girl, and later because McGann accused him of hi-jacking a truckload of whisky which it was testified, McGann had brought to Pittsburgh from Florida.

Kelly told how after the shooting, he had first called Attorney Louis Little, and not getting him, called Constable "Jack" Snyder, who went with him to the police.

Bridge Cable Snaps, Killing Two Workers

ERIE, Pa., April 9.—(AP.)—Two men were killed and a third gravely injured this morning when a cable being used as a drag line in the hauling of material at the new state highway bridge over Walnut Creek on the West Lake Road snapped, knocking them from a platform to a pile of steel 20 feet below.

The dead are Edward Hawley, 1172 East Lake Road, Erie, and Harley Burch, Waterford, Pa. Fred Burgemeister, R. F. D. 1, Erie, was slightly injured.

Pennington Upheld In Permit Refusal

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington's refusal to grant a medicinal liquor permit to Dr. Zacharias Spanos, 527 Fifth avenue, was upheld by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in United States District Court today. Pennington refused the permit, he said, on the ground that Dr. Spanos had had a previous permit revoked on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Mrs. McCormick Expresses Delight at Nomination

By MRS. RUTH HANNA M'CORMICK,
First Woman to Win Nomination to the U. S. Senate, Victor in Yesterday's Republican Primary in Illinois.

CHICAGO, April 9.

The decisive vote in support of my candidacy in the primary must be interpreted as a vote in support of my opposition to American adherence to the League of Nations Court.

I have been most ably reinforced in presenting my views on the court by Mr. Hearst's newspapers.

The Herald and Examiner and Chicago Evening American have published a series of convincing editorials and cartoons which have done much to awaken the people to the dangers of foreign entanglements, specifically with relation to the menace to our national independence of action that is involved in this league court proposal.

I thank Mr. Hearst for his cordial and effective support and I congratulate the people of Illinois and Chicago on their quick perception of the league court issue.

I have, of course, discussed numerous other problems that demand legislation, but I made the league court a conspicuous issue from the start. I am pleased at the result.

Civil War Veteran Dies at Lone Pine

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 9.—James A. Moninger, 82, pioneer Washington County farmer, is dead at his home in Amwell Township, near Lone Pine. As a young man he ran away from home and enlisted in the Union Army during the Civil War. He was brought home by his father because he was under age, but later re-enlisted and saw service.

Civil War Veteran, 90, Robbed of Pension

William Delaney, 90, a Civil War veteran, spent the night in the Argonne Hotel, Third avenue, and arrangements were being made today by the G. A. R. to place him in a home.

Delaney walked into the Central Police Station last night and told of being robbed of $72 Government pension by pickpockets in Grant street, several days ago. Since then he said he tramped the streets, penniless. Police after hearing his story communicated with the Red Cross and the latter in turn notified the G. A. R. headquarters, with the result that the aged veteran was sent to the hotel.

To police, Delaney, a native Pittsburgher and rather spry for his age, related his experiences with the Union Army which he had joined at the age of 21. He was wounded once.

Until three months ago, Delaney had been staying at the Soldiers' Home in Erie, but he tired of this and came to Pittsburgh. For a time he resided with a daughter but left her home at her refusal to accept reimbursement from him, the aged veteran said.

COURT HALTS MERGER COUNT

that friends of the merger paid from $180 to $200 a share yesterday for Sheet and Tube stock with proxies attached. He added:

"Do they mean to say the stock is worth $200 a share? If they do they admit the Bethlehem terms are grossly unfair and unjust. If they say the stock is not worth $200 a share, they have purchased a vote to the detriment of all other stockholders who were not paid the same price for it."

The claim of the pro-merger group of sufficient votes to approve the deal again was denied by Eaton this afternoon.

Until this afternoon's court action, the billion dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation today appeared a certainty.

The supposedly closing skirmish in the bitter struggle between many of the industry's greatest captains ended in Common Pleas Court this morning when Judge C. S. Turnbaugh refused to enjoin the voting of a block of 51,038 Sheet and Tube shares for the merger.

Stockholders of the big Youngstown company cast their ballots last night. The block on which Judge Turnbaugh ruled this morning was counted in favor of the merger, and Attorney L. A. Manchester, general counsel for Sheet and Tube, said the total vote, when the count was completed, would show 870,000 votes for the merger. Only approximately 791,000 were needed to approve it.

EATON IS BITTER

Eaton was smiling as the vote ended last night, but his comment was bitter. "I have never seen such deceit in big business," he said.

The leading financier of the merger opposition declared counsel for the merger forces had advised him at 5 p. m. that no action would be taken at the meeting; that he was "caught unprepared;" that there was a breach of faith;" that the acts were "gross injustice."

Attorneys for the Eaton anti-merger forces immediately made plans for a new attack on the merger deal.

Inspectors counting the vote of proxies on the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation said today that they hoped to announce the exact result at a meeting of stockholders at 8 o'clock tonight.

Reports of all sorts circulated through the crowd. One was that Charles M. Schwab, chairman of Bethlehem, went to Pittsburgh over the week end and acquired proxies at $180 a share that previously were believed Eaton's. Another was that the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada had decided to vote 20,000 shares in favor of the merger which also had been considered in the Eaton column.

Another was that agents from the Department of Justice were on hand closely watching the proceedings.

WORKER COLLAPSES

An indication of the strain which the opposing workers have been under in the last three weeks was seen in the collapse of Lucien Fowler, of Cleveland, salesman for Otis & Co. and a teller for the opposition committee. Fowler, faint from overwork, was taken from the proxy checking room under guard when pro-merger workers contended he would be able to divulge progress of the fight.

Attorney General Fails To Act on Merger

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Attorney General Mitchell today withheld comment on the proposed Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube merger, but there were no indications at the department that action was contemplated at this time.

Company announced. The cabs will be run as they were yesterday and police will continue to be on guard and to keep the cabs on the move.

Only one report of violence marked the service downtown last night. John R. Fedor, 37, of 1611 Boulevard of the Allies, a Yellow Cab driver, was cut on the head when the windshield of his cab was shattered by a pop bottle while he was driving in the Boulevard of the Allies near Ferry street. Fador told police the bottle was hurled by one of four men who ran away.

In Central police station today, Paul McClure, a taxi driver, of 919 Federal street, identified Thomas Hoover, 28, of 1216 Irwin avenue, as one of three men who threw bricks at his cab yesterday. One brick crashed through the rear window of the cab and almost struck McClure.

Hoover was held for court under $500 bail on a charge of assault and battery.

EXAMINING NEW VOTING MACHINE

FRANK M. ASHLEY — Ashley, one of the inventors of a voting machine now being tried out, with Armstrong, ex-

COMMISSIONER JOSEPH G. ARMSTRONG — amining the paper tape on which the result of the baloting is printed after the polls close.

VOTE MACHINE RECEIVED

Another voting machine has been set up in the County Commissioners' office. It is electrically operated and so designed that the human element, except for John Voter himself, is entirely eliminated in balloting on it.

Fifteen seconds after the polls close, the result of the balloting can be determined with this machine, and with no other on the market, is the claim of Frank M. Ashley, of Syracuse, N. Y., who has been fighting the battle of the voting machine since 1915 when he became associated with James C. Garrett, the inventor, who died several years ago at the age of 81. The election result is printed on a wide paper tape and cannot be altered.

This machine was first used in Waltham, Mass., in 1919 and one of the questions was whether Waltham should be wet or dry. It voted dry. Garrett completed his first machine and set it up in his backyard in San Francisco in 1895. His widow, now living in New York, owns the basic patents for the machine. One of the largest manufacturing concerns in the world has recently modernized the machine and electrified it.

Name of the purchasers will not be made public until completion of the transaction, May 10, following confirmation of the sale in Federal District Court in New York, April 18, Mumford said.

ANTI-DRY TRICK LAID TO GRUNDY

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—(AP.)—Batteries of the wet and dry forces are roaring along the Pennsylvania Republican battle front.

Assertions that Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., backed by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, has been "planted" in the contest for the gubernatorial nomination by Senator Joseph R. Grundy, were made yesterday by State Senator Samuel W. Salus, member of the Philadelphia organization "war board," supporting the ticket headed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for senator, and Francis Shunk Brown for governor. Salus declared the maneuver was designed to take votes away from Brown, who favors a popular referendum on the prohibition issue.

At the same time Senator Salus announced that he would introduce a bill in the next session of the Legislature calling for a referendum of the character suggested by Brown. He took issue with Gifford Pinchot, seeking the gubernatorial nomination as a dry, who maintains that Brown's proposal was an "evasion," and that it would be necessary to amend the state constitution before a referendum could be held, thus delaying the action until 1935. Salus said a referendum could be authorized and held while the Legislature is in session next year.

Salus' charges that Phillips had been "planted" by Grundy brought vigorous denials from Phillips and the campaign manager of the wet ticket, Randolph W. Childs.

HERE 30 YEARS, 24 IN JAIL

Rocco Cerrullo, 55, pardoned wife murderer who was to embark at New York for his native Italy today, did not find America "the land of the free." He landed in this country less than 30 years ago and during that period spent nearly 24 years in prison.

He lived in Altoona and was employed in the Pennsylvania railroad shops. While suffering an injury to his head in 1906 he seized a knife and cut his wife's throat and immediately afterward surrendered to the police. U. S. LIQUOR BUY APPEAL FILED

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Attorney General Mitchell urged the Supreme Court, in a brief filed today, to hold that a person ordering liquor shipped to him is guilty of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The brief was a government appeal brought against the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals which held that Alfred E. Norris, a New York banker, was not guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in having liquor shipped to him.

Mitchell contended that when a bootlegger delivers numerous shipments of liquor to an express company, as in the Norris case, and the purchaser causes its shipment and delivery to him, there is illegal transportation for which the purchaser is equally guilty with the seller.

FALSE CHARGES TRAP DRY AIDE

SPOKANE, Wash., April 9.—(AP.)—A two-year-old mystery cloaking a series of "scandal letters" was believed cleared up here today in a confession of Miss Lelle Jourdan, 37, secretary of the Spokane County Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Miss Jourdan's statement Deputy Prosecutor Del Cary Smith announced, said she had written numerous letters telling officers of fictitious gambling and liquor law violations. She admitted officers said, that a federal grand jury indictment of James Rainey and his son, Arthur, was the result of letters she had written to herself, containing indecent references and proposals. She testified before the jury to obtain the indictments.

Postal authorities refused to believe the two men were guilty. She was held in $500 bond.

Minister, Run-down in Health, Gains 7 Lbs. in 3 Weeks

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes, "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run-down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironized Yeast a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again.

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny" tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blemished skin clears.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, your money back from manufacturer.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—A signal flash caused by an overturned telephone led to the discovery early today of the slain bodies of a physician and a young woman in the doctor's office-apartment in the fashionable Sutton Place section along the East River.

The body of the physician, Dr. Maxwell B. Allen, 35, was found on the bedroom floor. He had been shot through the right temple. A .38 calibre revolver lay near his side.

The young woman, who was tentatively identified from a slip of paper in her pocketbook as Miss Florence Lapelle, 25, his nurse-secretary, was lying on a bed, shot through the neck.

Powder marks on both the man and woman indicated to police that the shots had been fired at close range. They expressed the belief that the physician had shot the girl and killed himself.

WILBUR DODGES POWER QUIZ

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Mrs. Minnie L. Ward, who threw eggs at a chief clerk in an encounter growing out of alleged tampering with secret records of the Federal Power Commission and was suspended, appears to have commission officials up a tree."

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, acting commissioner, has turned over the whole matter of charges of insubordination against her, and her charges of removal of records to F. E. Bonner, executive secretary. Wilbur "is not taking any part in it," his office declared with emphasis.

Bonner said:

"We are investigating it, and have not reached any conclusion as yet."

Mrs. Ward in fighting mood told Universal Service:

"Unless I hear from Attorney General Mitchell shortly about the charges I have filed I plan to follow them up with a personal call. I am going to fight for my rights."

"When the chief clerk, F. W. Griffith, complained against me, the executive secretary of the commission, F. E. Bonner, acted promptly enough. I was formally suspended within four days.

"Since then, released from any previous obligation of loyalty, I have charged Mr. Griffith with gross malfeasance in office—the removal and destruction or multilation of important official records.

"Moreover, I charged a collusive intent between them to evade questions of a Senate investigating committee and to mislead that committee."

JURY TO BEGIN BOMB INQUIRY

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., April 9.—(AP).—Witnesses have been summoned to appear before the grand jury here tomorrow and Friday in connection with that body's investigation of the New Year's Day bombing at Seat Pleasant.

The bomb, contained in a package made to represent a Christmas gift, arrived at the home of John Hall January 1 and exploded while it was being opened. A woman was killed instantly and a boy and girl injured fatally.

Prince George's county authorities are holding Lawrence Brady, 26, brother-in-law of Mrs. Leona Hall Brady, 18, bride of a few months, who was one of the victims of the explosion. The woman's husband, Herman Brady, was arrested as a state witness and released under bond of $1,000.

Among the persons summoned are Baltimore and Washington detectives who aided local authorities in the investigation of the crime.

Pattern 1879

Sun Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Small capelets smartly placed over each shoulder proclaim your frock "new." The charming model shown today has other interesting details of the spring mode: bodice tucks accenting the normal waistline, pointed vestee and pointed skirt yoke creating slender and youthful lines. OPPOSE STREET VACATING

A recommendation against vacating Shingiss street, from Locust to Bluff streets, was submitted to a councilmanic committee yesterday by the City Planning Commission. The committee affirmed the ordinance.

No objection was made by the commission to ordinances relocating the street, but the report stated all plans so far prepared for the crosstown thoroughfare, connecting Liberty Bridge with Bigelow boulevard, include a major part of the property on which Shingiss street is now located. Plans showing the connection between the Boulevard of the Allies and the thoroughfare, according to the commission, use the remainder of the street.

A public hearing on the proposed vacating plan was to be held today.

OWNER OF RUM STOCK SOUGHT

The owner of a liquor-laden automobile which was seized last night at Crawford street and Wylie avenue, was being sought by prohibition agents today. The car, containing 60 gallons of moonshine, was parked at the time.

Another still of a 200-gallon capacity, was confiscated at the home of Sam Adain, 52, of Baden, it was reported.

MORALS COURT WORK LIGHTER

Mayor Charles H. Kline today issued new orders governing the hearing of cases in Morals Court. His action was taken to relieve congestion in the court, which last year had before it 15,000 cases.

In a general order to all police magistrates, the Mayor countermanded instructions compelling the magistrates to send all cases involving women to Morals Court for hearing.

Unless they are under 21 years of age, are accused of abuse of children or of delinquencies, women arrested hereafter will be given hearings by the magistrate in the police district in which they are taken into custody.

For some years the custom has been to send women to Morals Court for a hearing, regardless of the offense for which they were arrested. The new order will go into effect tomorrow.

Other cases to be tried in Morals Court hereafter will be those involving minors.

Police Chief Admits Guilt in Rum Plot

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 9.—(AP.)—Chief of Police G. C. Pike, who is under suspension, pleaded guilty before United States Judge Reeves to charges of conspiracy to violate the national liquor laws. At that time he was convicted of having illegally transported confiscated liquor from police headquarters.

Spanish Exiles Face Citizenship Relief

MADRID, April 9.—(INS.)—A decision by the Council of Ministers to extend a general amnesty to all political prisoners was interpreted today to mean that separatist leaders of Catalonia, in prison or exile, and not included in previous amnesties, will now be restored to citizenship.

Since the fall of the dictatorship there has been considerable ill feeling in Catalonia. Recently the women of Barcelona carried a petition to Premier Berenguer demanding the release of their men.

Lord Birkenhead, Ill, Shows Improvement

BIARRITZ, France, April 9.—(AP.)—The Earl of Birkenhead, former Secretary of State for India in the last British Conservative government, was said today to be progressing, though slowly. His doctors say there is no serious apprehension for his condition. He is suffering from a broken blood vessel.

At noon his physicians said Lord Birkenhead's condition was "satisfactory." There was no fever.

RANSOMED MAN STILL MISSING

SAN ANGELO, Tex., April 9.—(AP.)—The San Angelo Times today said J. E. Bristow, San Angelo oil man, had not returned to Ahucatlan, Nayarit, Mexico, despite the payment of 3,000 pesos gold ransom paid to an emmissary of bandits who have held him captive since March 10.

Word from Ahucatlan was received here by the Times from its correspondent who is with Gordon Obie Bristow, son of the prisoner. The younger Bristow, a former football star at the University of Oklahoma, entered Mexico soon after the kidnaping was reported, and since has been attempting to negotiate for his father's release.

THIS NEW CURTAIN DYE TRANSFORMS FADED CURTAINS SAFELY

Now an amazingly easy way to make old curtains "look like new" .... right in your home

Home dyeing of curtains has now been made thoroughly practical and easy—as well as economical. Uncertainty of results has been entirely removed. Success is guaranteed.

In an almost unbelievably short space of time you can have bright, fresh-looking curtains in your home, no matter how faded they are now. A new-type curtain dye makes this possible. Try at once.

What It Is

Perfected by Fred W. Welti, renowned Swiss chemist, who is responsible for the famous Gypsy Liquid Dyes, this new discovery is different in compound and results from any dye you have ever used.

No mussy straining is necessary. Rinsing has been entirely eliminated. And because this dye dissolves instantly and completely there is no danger of ugly spots, caused when dye granules fail to dissolve and touch the fabric.

That is why this dye is so amazingly easy and safe to use. Why results are so certain and beautiful, even in the hands of the most inexperienced person.

Obtain this new Gypsy Ecru Curtain Dye at your drug or department store. Accept no substitute if you want a true Ecru shade and beautiful results. 15c the package (enough for 8 to 12 pairs), 2 packages for 25c.

Your druggist now has improved Gypsy Powder Dyes in Black—Navy—Brown—Cardinal and Green (and Bleach for removing color). 15c the package, 2 packages for 25c.

Famous Gypsy Liquid Dyes for tinting lingerie, dainty wear and blouses may be obtained at all drug and department stores. 25c the bottle. Gypsy Dyes, Inc., Chicago, Illinois.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

WHEN the toastmaster at Chicago's Better Business Bureau dinner introduces Gen. Charles G. Dawes tonight as the principal speaker, the voice of the ambassador to Great Britain will come from London, England, via radio. The National Broadcasting Company will undertake the first banquet speech to be made in this manner, using the short wave system between London and New York. KDKA will have Dawes' speech at 10:30.

Milton Tully

Horton Smith, the 20-year-old who defeated Bobby Jones in a recent match at Savannah, will tell Grantland Rice something about himself in the Coca Cola Sportcast, WCAE at 10:30.

Van Heusen WJAS at 9, will spot Vee Lawnhurst, Columbia's own blue singer.

Milton Tully, tenor on the Oilomatic program from KDKA at 7:30, has a legion of loyal admirers. Tully's voice is one of rich timber pleasantly adapted to broadcasting.

"I Hear a Thrush at Eve," will be sung by Adele Vasa, soprano, for the Voice of Columbia, WJAS at 10.

Eliot Shaw, baritone, will do "Lonesome Road," "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time" and Foster's "Beautiful Dreamer" during the Mobiloil concert on WCAE at 8:30.

Pittsburghers are perfectly right in demanding a showdown for WJAS in the 1020 channel fight.

The pioneer city in radio is entitled to ideal reception.

Letters to Ira Robinson, Federal Radio Commission, Washington, D. C., will do the most good.

FORTY-LOVE!

E. B. Landon, chief operator at the hill transmitter of KDKA, anticipates a big tennis season. He is secretly drawing up a challenge to all engaged in the radio profession—men in singles and girls—oh, my!—in doubles only. Games to be played on a court in front of the KDKA Building.

Spring has also seized Percy Boyd, who exuberantly declared that he will defend his golf Laurels against Walter Myers "or anybody."

"Dick" Bower, at WCAE, again claims the checker championship

He "moved" through a successful season.

Reporter's Discovery.

That the average stage drama based on conflicts of human lives often has many parallels in everyday life is illustrated in a story about Donald Evans, reporter; Jean McCauley, his girl friend, and Edgar McCauley, playwright.

Evans is down on his luck when Edgar McCauley greets him in the Press Club. The dramatist tells Evans that he has written a new play, but that the characters and circumstances involve so many intimate personalities that he can hardly afford to lend his own name to the piece.

McCauley promises that he will pay Evans a fat weekly salary if Evans will give his name as author and to all writers not on the responsible creator of the production.

The play is produced and failed as a success but Evans finds himself in an unexpectedly complicated situation.

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

You Can End All Pile Misery Without Cutting or Salves

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting results?

Why cutting often fails?

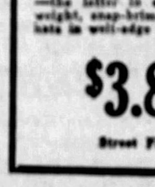
Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Mayo & Liggett's, Mayflower, and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. These easy to take tablets have an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting results, and save the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why they should not do the same for you.

High Blood Pressure Shortens Life



Remarkable results are being obtained from the use of Blood Cell Protein Serums in the treatment of such disorders as Diabetes, Gout, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Hardening of the Arteries (with its attendant High Blood Pressure), and Biliary (Gall Bladder) and general Gastro-Intestinal Maladies. 35,000 people who live in Pittsburgh have tested these valuable Serums and have been permanently benefited. Patients pay for the Serums only. No Doctor Charges. One Serum will convince you. Come and talk with the patients.

Save Cost and Bother of Re-Decorating

YOUR walls and ceilings, your window shades can be made as clean, bright and fresh as new at far less cost, and with much less inconvenience and bother if you will clean them with Climax instead of re-decorating.

Climax cleans wall paper, flat tone finishes, sanitas or painted canvas, tapestry, and antique or textured plaster—quickly, safely, thoroughly. Climax Cleaning is far better and less costly than washing of textured plaster walls.

Underneath the grime, the original color and beauty is still there, waiting for Climax to restore it. Good decorations can be cleaned time and time again.

It is the perfect dry cleaner for the many types of rough and textured plasters—and is recommended by the manufacturers. Plaster walls should never be washed.

Insist on Climax. Follow the simple, clear directions on the blue labeled can.

2 NEW SCHOOLS HELD FAULTY

ALLIANCE, O., April 9.—Three Lexington Township school buildings, two of them erected little more than a year ago as a part of a $350,000 building program, may be ordered closed as the result of a state and county investigation. The new Bolton building, housing 120 pupils, is in danger of collapse, Lexington School, a new brick structure, leaks in a score of places and the Science Hill School is a fire trap, according to State Building Inspector Thomas H. Nichols.

O. H. Summers, Stark County health commissioner, has condemned sanitary conditions in the three schools.

Big Gasser Struck Near Nemacolin Club

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 9.—A gas strike is reported on the Cleaver lease, near the Nemacolin Country Club, 260,000 cubic feet being reported from the Big Injun sand. Jesse L. Phillips and associates drilled the well. Much drilling is under way in that section.

IOWAN'S STOCK SUIT SHIFTED

DES MOINES, April 9.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey ruled that notices of suit filed by Iowans against Henry L. Doherty Company of New York to recover funds invested in Cities Service and other stocks should have been filed in New York instead of Iowa.

The ruling sustained a motion by the company's attorneys, who held that personal service on Henry L. Doherty must be made in New York.

The motion was part of the defense action in the case of M. N. Goodman, who asks return of Cities Service common stock. He contended the stock was sold to him before it was registered under the laws of Iowa.

Contests Extradition On Fraud Charges

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 9.—County officers are awaiting the return to Greensburg of S. B. Sklar, 35, of Minneapolis, who is opposing extradition on charges of obtaining $2,000 by false pretense.

Sklar is alleged to have victimized Samuel Miller, a banker, in March, 1929, by representing himself as a cousin.

BYRD MOVIES ARRIVE IN U. S.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP).—The first passengers ever to reach this port from Little America landed here last night with a film record of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition.

They were Joseph T. Rucker of San Francisco and Willard Van Der Veer, of Bronxville, N. Y., cameramen with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who returned on the Grace liner Santa Cruz after 18 months with the band of explorers.

Rucker and Van Der Veer, who are affiliated with the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, brought with them 110,000 feet or more than 20 miles of film, which is to be released for exhibition in June, when the rest of the Byrd party is due to arrive.

The cameramen were jubilant over the achievement of the expedition, attributing the success of the venture entirely to Admiral Byrd. The radio, they said, had made Little America "just around the corner from home."

The film they made of these achievements will give millions of motion picture spectators an opportunity to see first hand the icy wilderness which rims the South Pole and on which the camera recorded the daily life and activities of Byrd and his comrades.

'Abie's Irish Rose' Star Slain By Holdup Man

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP).—Brooklyn police disclosed that Edward Whitmore Morgan, 42, who for several years played the role of "Abie" in "Abie's Irish Rose" when the show was on the road, died Saturday night from injuries presumably inflicted by holdup men.

Morgan was found lying in a gutter on Friday night, his skull fractured. Police believe he was robbed of about $10.

His stage name was Ted Gibson.

Plan Receivership For Coal Company

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 9.—(AP).—An operating receivership for the Gilbert-Davis Coal Company, one of the largest operations in this section, will be asked in Monongalia County Circuit Court here Saturday as a result of chancery proceedings instituted by the Bank of the Monongahela Valley of this city. Liabilities were said to exceed $700,000 with $70,000 owed the bank. The mine property includes 800 acres of coal lands in the Scott's Run district. The company's annual output is 400,000 tons.

TEXTILE WAGES CUT IN BRITAIN

BRADFORD, England, April 9.—(AP).—The first notice of a cut in wages posted by the employers in the great Yorkshire woolen industry took effect yesterday at Manningham. Some of the workers immediately replied by staying away from work.

This marks the beginning of what threatens to become a widespread stoppage in the woolen industry. Several more notices are effective, though the majority do not operate until the end of the week.

The employers have rejected suggestions by workers that the proposed reductions be cut in half and declined to change in any way the working of their notices. It was announced after a meeting of the Textile Trade Union executive with a delegation from the British Trades Union Congress that union workers will quit whenever and wherever the old rates of wages cease to operate.

Legion Auxiliary Gives Vets Cabin In Poconos

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 9.—(AP).—A gift of 16 acres of land and a cabin in the Pocono Mountains near Mount Pocono, Pa., was accepted formally by the executive board of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Pennsylvania. The retreat is for the use of invalid veterans of the World War.

The cabin will be erected by Henry H. Houston Unit No. 3 and the money was obtained from "Gold Star" mothers and relatives of soldiers who were killed in the war. The cabin will be named the "Gold Star Cabin."

Tomorrow the auxiliary board will be received by Governor Fisher.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Prepared For Anything Now

"I can't imagine anything more discouraging than to suffer every time you eat a meal," says Geoffrey D. Luck of 330 West 95th St., New York, N. Y. "It keeps a fellow upset and so shaky he isn't good for much of anything. You should see me now, though. The simplest thing has straightened me out fine. I take a dose of Acidine whenever a meal doesn't sit right. Before I know it everything is all right. I am not afraid of anything now."

Mr. Luck is absolutely right. Such a simple thing as a stomach which fails to digest starchy food and sweets can break down a person's resistance until even his confidence is undermined. The excess acids cause thin blood because your food doesn't nourish you. By sweetening your stomach with Acidine, you can eat and grow strong. Get Acidine at any drug store.

GIVE BABY HIS CHANCE TO GROW

Mothers Must Build Up Their Strength of Body.

Every baby has a right to be well born. It has a right to a healthy parent. No woman has the privilege of neglecting her own body and permitting her blood to be polluted by the absorption of waste products. She should be clean inside as well as out.

No person is clean who suffers from constipation. The waste products of the body must find some way of getting out. If the natural channel is closed the skin, lungs and kidneys are all overworked. Even then the blood becomes foul. When it does, the stomach gives way, or some other part of the body suffers.

A bad situation deserves plain speaking. Every woman who expects to become a mother should have two or three normal bowel movements a day. So should everyone else. Nature never intended that waste matter should remain in the body to be reabsorbed into the blood stream, and Nature punishes everybody who allows that condition to exist.

Most constipation is catarrhal in character. Often it is caused by catarrh; sometimes it causes catarrh. No amount of violent purges will relieve this catarrhal condition. They only aggravate it. A treatment of the entire system so that Nature herself can overcome the trouble is the right way. That is one of the reasons why so many people say World's Tonic works wonders in cases of constipation. It not only relieves promptly in most cases, but it helps Nature to remove the cause of the trouble.

Expectant mothers can take World's Tonic without danger, and it is intended to help purify the blood, remove catarrhal manifestations and aid the kidneys in throwing off poisons. When these are done, the baby has many more chances of health than it can have when the mother herself is diseased. Give the youngsters their chance by using World's Tonic, which can be obtained at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or any other first class drug store. (A-2)

HOOVER SPURS ENGINEERS

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Insistence upon the obligation of engineers to make their contributions to public service was expressed last night by President Hoover.

Accepting the first award of the Hoover medal instituted by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers to commemorate his achievements, the President voiced his views at the banquet of the fiftieth anniversary of the Society's founding. Of the organization itself he said that "during its span of life it has contributed a great part in the development of an art into a mighty profession upon whose capacity and fidelity rest so much of human progress."

After outlining the development of "our great national tools, our engines, our railways, our automobiles, our airplanes, our steamships, our electric power and a score of other great implements," Mr. Hoover said the engineer, through them, has added vastly to the problems of government.

The government must see to be added, that the developments are not misused to limit liberty and freedom, but that they advance equality of opportunity.

To solve these problems the President said, "we have need for a large leavening of the engineering knowledge and engineering attitude of mind and engineering method."

The President made clear that he did not advocate "that all public services be turned over to engineers."

The presentation of the medal to President Hoover followed the award of the Daniel Guggenheim medal to Orville Wright, "for design and construction, with his brother, now deceased, of the first successful engine-propelled airplane."

ASK INJUNCTION IN COAL STRIKE

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., April 9.—Application for an injunction was made to Judge James S. Shipman, of the Marshall County Circuit Court by the Glendale Gas Coal Company, subsidiary of the J. A. Paisley interests of Cleveland, to prohibit interference with the operation of its mines in Marshall County.

The defendants named in the application are Mayor Jess D. H. Sullivan, Chief of Police Herman J. Kidder, J. C. Peck, former physician and surgeon for the coal company, the National Miners Union and others. The hearing is set for Saturday morning.

A strike has been on at the mine for several months.

Kelley Again Named Greene School Head

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 9.—Kent Kelley of Waynesburg, county superintendent for the past two years, was re-elected for a term of four years. Prior to his appointment as county superintendent to fill the unexpired term of H. D. Freeland, Kelley was assistant superintendent for 13 years. Kelley announced that he would retain his present assistants, D. C. Longanecker and Frank Nyswaner.

Hempfield Man Held In Garage Robbery

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 9.—Andy Enrico, 22, of Hempfield Township, has been arrested by state police in connection with the robbery of the garage of Bennet Pantoni near here. Police recovered a number of stolen articles, they reported.

TOWN CLOSES EATING PLACES

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., April 9.—(AP.)—Boarding house dwellers in this city and those obliged to rely upon restaurants for their meals, went prospecting for their bread yesterday after an order of Chief of Police James McCarthy closed every eating place in the city.

The police order was a result of factional dissention on the Board of Aldermen which has prevented that body from obtaining a quorum to act on renewal of victualers' licenses, which expired March 31. The chief, who recently resumed office after suspension on charges of graft that were not substantiated, said that the law left him nothing to do but prevent the operation of unlicensed victualers.

More than 120 establishments were affected. These included the dining room of the two local hotels. Drug stores which dispensed food were not closed, but were warned against serving food.

As a result of the order, workers and others who ordinarily depend upon restaurants for their noonday meals were obliged to rely on their wits and their resourcefulness or go hungry. Many went hungry, while others were grateful for what means of sustenance they could find at drug store soda fountains.

AIR LINE OPENS NEW ROUTES

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—Western Air Express announced here that beginning tomorrow its planes will increase their daily flying mileage from 12,000 to 14,500, making the company the largest in operation in the field.

The mileage increase will be effected through the opening of three new routes. One of these routes, operated by the Mid-Continent Air Express, a subsidiary of Western, will be from Pueblo, Col., to Amarillo, Tex.

The other two routes, to be operated by the parent concern, will be from Amarillo to Fort Worth and from Amarillo to Tulsa, Okla., through Oklahoma City.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Don't fool yourself!

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Get rid of halitosis—it may get you fired

What kind of people do employers like to have around them? Certainly not people with halitosis (unpleasant breath). You can't blame a man for firing an employee with halitosis to hire one without it.

Don't fool yourself that you never have halitosis. It's impossible for you to know when you are a victim. Don't take the chance. Keep yourself continually on the safe and polite side by daily rinsing the mouth with Listerine, the safe antiseptic.

Being an active germicide capable of killing 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, full strength Listerine checks mouth fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then it gets rid of the odors themselves; it is an instant deodorant.

Thousands who used to be unwelcome because of halitosis are now acceptable anywhere. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

FIVE MEN SEIZED IN BOMB PLOT

MARION, Ind., April 9.—(AP.)—A ruse whereby Cincinnati detectives "hired" three members of an alleged Chicago bombing ring to plant explosive in a hi-jacker's automobile, led to their being lodged in the Grant County Jail today charged with three bombings which took five lives in Marion labor circles in the past six months.

In addition, a sheriff's posse in a raid at Elwood, Ind., arrested two other men, said by police to have arranged for the bombings with the Chicago men and with a gang at Newport, Ky.

Police also arrested for questioning Mrs. Erma Legos, widow of Andrew Legos, victim of one of the bombings, but refused to indicate her possible implication.

The Marion bombings charged against the men are: Marion Labor Temple, wrecked October 3, 1929, fatally injuring Charles Humes and William DeDan, of Marion, and Fred Dickens, of Pittsburgh; Andrew Legos, corresponding secretary of the union, fatally injured October 28, by bomb attached to starter of automobile, and John Ashcraft, mold works employe, killed February 26 by bomb attached to starter.

City Election Tie Decided Through Golf Match

SCHUYLER, Neb., April 9.—(AP.)—Politicians should brush up on their golf if they would be successful like K. M. Folda, who won the position of city treasurer here, yesterday, 9 up and 7 to go.

When ballots failed to produce a winner at the recent election because Folda and Joseph M. Rogers were tied with 371 votes each, they agreed to let a 36-hole golf match decide the issue.

Folda won on the twenty-ninth hole.

He was tried particularly for his part in alleged abuses in connection with gambling concessions granted to a Greek company at Eleusis. His former cabinet minister, Vosopoulos, was sent to prison for two and a half years for his share in the same affair.

CANADIAN ENVOY TO U. S. SCORED

OTTAWA, April 9.—(AP.)—Criticism of Canada's foreign legations, including that at Washington, was voiced in the House of Commons last night before approval was voted appropriations totaling $610,487.

T. L. Church, Conservative, protested against the policy of opening legations abroad, and also criticised Vincent Massey, Canadian minister to Washington.

He asserted the net result of Mr. Massey's efforts in Washington was that the United States increased her tariff against the Dominion.

"What is going to be the net result of all this?" he asked. "It will simply mean that Canada will be a separate country, independent of the motherland."

School Director's Auto Stalls in Snowdrift

NEW CASTLE, Pa., April 9.—N. E. Sampson, of Wilmington Township, had his automobile pulled out of a snowdrift near the Shepard School, on the road from Fay, while en route to New Castle to attend the meeting of the county school directors.

The snow was drifted almost as high as the fences.

The farmer who came to his assistance hauled the machine more than a hundred feet.

ADMITS CUTTEN ROBBERY

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP.)—Confession that he participated in the $20,000 robbery at the country home of Arthur W. Cutten, multi-millionaire grain dealer, in 1922, was made today, Police Commissioner Russell said, by Simon Rosenberg, alias Charles Davis.

Rosenberg made his confession in the presence of Deputy Commissioner John Stege and Cutten, the police head said.

Rosenberg is the fifth of six men who, according to Cutten, invaded his suburban home in March, 1922, seized jewelry, $500 and several cases of fine liquor, then locked the family and servants in a vault and fled. In his relentless pursuit of the robbers—one a former servant—Cutten has sent two to prison, two confessed and are on parole and only Rosenberg's brother, Casper, is still sought.

NON-POISONOUS COOLER SHOWN

ATLANTA, Ga., April 9.—(AP)—Fumes of a new refrigerant flowed without poisonous effect in the crowded main auditorium of the American Chemical Society meeting here.

A score of chemists even put their faces in the white steam the stuff made and breathed it. It was tasteless, but slightly heavy.

Dr. Thomas Midgley, Jr., discoverer of the ethyl lead anti-knock process and also of the refrigerant, explained the new substance. General Motors sponsored the development.

Dr. Midgley said the discovery probably will extend mechanical refrigeration in the cooling of homes, of unbearably hot enclosed places where men must work, of ocean steamships and all places where accident or wreck might make a poisonous refrigerant inadvisable.

He put the substance, a liquid exactly resembling water, in a deep, uncovered glass pail on the stage. Alongside in a similar glass he set a lighted candle. Through a rubber tube he exhaled into the bottom of the candle dish to show that human breath alone would not extinguish the flame.

Then he placed his face on the top of the steaming refrigerant pail and took a breath lasting three to four seconds. This he exhaled through the tube as before into the other pail. The candle flame went out as if pinched.

He put a lighted match in the fuming dish to demonstrate the non-explosive qualities. The match was extinguished at the top rim of the glass.

CUBA TO HONOR CLARA BARTON

HAVANA, April 9.—(AP.)—The memory of Clara Barton will be honored at special exercises to be held by the Patriotic Society, Institution Nacional de Patriotas, which has appointed a special commission to pay tribute to the American woman for her work in Cuba during the War of Liberation. The exercises are to be held as soon as the ceremony program has been arranged.

Clara Barton during the Cuban War of Independence did much to alleviate the plight of the Cuban civil population interned in Spanish concentration camps.

Clara Barton was born in Oxford, Mass., a century ago. She organized the American Red Cross Society in 1881 and was its president for 23 years. She died in 1912.

"Clear up your skin, dear, and you will be popular, too"

If you desire a clear skin you must keep your blood in good condition. You owe it to yourself. Your friends expect it of you.
Skin troubles and sallow complexion speak of body weakness—a deficiency in the red-blood-cells.
A lovely, clear skin, is within your reach
WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.
First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.
A lovely, clear skin, is within the reach of all. To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.
Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.
The natural way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.
This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.
S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.
Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.
If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.
S.S.S.
may be found in every good drug store in America. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

"IT IS not known," the Better Traffic Committee confesses, "how far all the pedestrians would reach if laid end to end, but the reckless drivers are doing their best to find out."

The keen editor of one of Pittsburgh's weeklies recently published an editorial lamenting the younger generation. What, asked the editorial, is the younger generation coming to? . . . Young people today are keeping late hours . . . Parents are lax in disciplining their offsprings . . . And so on and so forth . . .

The editorial excited comment in a half dozen sections of the city. Other periodicals reprinted it, said it was a just, if critical presentation of today's conditions.

But the editorial had been written in 1870. The current editor had clipped it from his files and reprinted it verbatim without explaination of its age. Which proves conclusively enough that even in those days the younger generation was a problem.

JOHN BLACK, the well-known director of very public relations, is sad and apologetic. In all his lively years of promoting this or that, John has always kept faith with his public. John is a believer in, and exponent of, truth. He has called a spade a spade, and not two spades.

But on the Black escutcheon there now appears a blot. Unwittingly, John has deceived the people. And he is sad. It all began in Pittsburgh a few weeks ago when Dr. Davenport appeared at the Gayety Theater with a wild-life picture and, in person, the well-known cannibal, Maluba. John has promoted many things in his years, including whales and auto racers, and when Dr. Davenport sought a capable director of exploitation, his eyes fell upon Mr. Black.

John agreed to exploit the Davenport entourage, but first he satisfied himself that Maluba was a genuine cannibal. "Are you a cannibal?" John asked Maluba and when Maluba was unable to understand John's clear, grammatical question, John was satisfied that Maluba was one of the very best cannibals.

With typical zest John took up the business of exploiting his newfound friend Maluba. They even went to the Y. M. C. A., where Maluba made a sort of speech in cannibal language. Maluba saw and heard a piano at the Y. M. C. A. and John hurried to our desk with the scoop that when Maluba returned to wherever cannibals return, he wanted to take a piano back with him. Jazz, John pointed out, was finally to be introduced to cannibals in general.

But enough of that. Now, after all these weeks, John has discovered that Maluba is not a cannibal at all, for in Boston, where Dr. Davenport is appearing, Maluba has sued the doctor's troupe for $990 back pay. Maluba says that his real name is Firpo Jacko and that by profession he is the janitor of a Harlem apartment house. And John is sad, not because he, too, might sue for back pay, but because he has disappointed his public.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. April 9.

THE Senate argued all day as to whether Raskob is a Democrat or a Republican; a dry or a "wet;" a business man or just a politician; and if any of these, why? If he is rich and a Democrat, there must be a catch in it somewhere, and they want to find out what it is. He gave $64,000 to the "wet" lobby (which went to buy liquor for the drys.) These gifts to various causes and campaigns is what makes him of such interest to both political parties. They want to find out where he stands, so they can get in on his side. He is too good an angel to lose, even if you have to change your party to be with him.

Yours,

WILL.

Boy Friend Causes Ardeth To Be Late for Meals

CHAPTER I.

"KISS me honey!"

"No! No, Neil . . ."

A silent struggle in the dark hall. Fear fluttering in the girl's heart—the thrilling fear which Neil could always inspire. His arms pinned her close, but she managed to twist her head so that his kiss fell on her cheek rather than her mouth.

It was exciting to have Neil want to kiss her, but the actual feel of his lips crushed on her own woke tumult in her mind, a surge of emotions which she was not sure were all pleasant.

The light of the street lamp, slanting thrpugh the glass panels of the front door did not reach this space under the stairs. Ardeth could barely make out Neil's face poised above her. A white patch . . . two dark holes—those were his eyes burning down into her own . . . a dark slash of mouth.

Something leaped in the girl's heart — something which was not all rapture nor yet all fear.

She began to struggle. 'Neil, let me go! They'll wonder where I am!" she whispered frantically.

"Kiss me again, then."

"No! Neil . . . please!" Twisting helplessly. "You shouldn't do this—waiting here for me—every night like this!"

"Why not? You like it. You are my girl, aren't you? Go on, say it, Ardeth, say you're my girl."

She had begun to struggle wildly, but in silence. Fighting herself now, because it was exciting and pleasant to have Neil's arms about her.

"Please let me go! Neil, they'll wonder . . . somebody'll come out and find us"——

"Sh-h-h!"

Teases Neil

Ardeth Questioned About Her Company

The warning stilled her. She ceased to struggle, and Neil's arms grew tense about her as footsteps scraped on the wooden steps outside. The front door opened. Heavy footsteps going up the stairs over their heads.

The girl smothered a nervous giggle, and in the dark Neil grinned.

A door upstairs opened. Shut.

"It's Tom!" The girl's whisper. "I've got to go!"

The spell was broken. He did not resist when she drew out of his arms, but he hung on to one hand and asked softly:

"Want to go to a movie tonight?"

"Can't." She was groping for the banister. "Have to wash out some things for tomorrow."

"Why?" came his quick, suspicious whisper. "Who you going out with?"

She laughed teasingly. Snatched her hand away and ran lightly up the steps.

He thrust a quick hand through the spokes of the banister and caught one slim ankle.

"Who you going out with?" he repeated darkly.

She squirmed. Smothered a laugh. "You! Foolish! Now will you let me go?"

"I'll be up in the morning—" He freed her and she fled up the stairs.

Waits for Her

Disapproves Meeting Him In Hall at Night

In the dark upper hall she stopped for a moment to collect herself, pressing fingers against her hot cheeks to cool them. Sharp eyes were waiting beyond that door which showed a yellow streak of light at the threshold.

Ardeth pulled her hat straight. Tucked the ends of her hair under. Smoothed her bloused crumped by Neil's embrace.

Neil shouldn't do that—wait each night for her to come home. He reached the house a whole half hour before she did. At the sound of her footsteps he would slip out of his own flat and meet her in the hall.

The dark space under the stairs had seen many such silent skirmishes as it had witnessed tonight.

Of course there was nothing really wrong . . . After all she was Neil's girl. Some day, she supposed, they'd get married. That was the way marriages happened in Ardeth's circle of life. You saw a boy you liked . . . or sometimes you didn't even like him—but there was no one else around at the moment. You went to a party with him—or to a movie. You went again. Pretty soon people began to expect you to be always together. Pretty soon you found people expected you to get married. So you did.

Ardeth was Neil's girl. For three years she's been called his girl—before then, in fact—he'd gone with her. Ever since she'd come to live with Aunt Stel and found Neil Burke in the flat below.

But Neil shouldn't stop her at night like this. It made her late for dinner and—and she wasn't sure she liked it.

Something leaped in her heart at the memory of his arms about her there in the dark. But she wasn't sure she wanted Neil to kiss her like that . . .

A shrill voice lifted behind the door and Ardeth hurriedly entered.

The blaze of the room was dazzling after the dark hall. For a moment the girl stood leaning against the door after she had shut it, blinking.

Ardeth Scolded

Late Arrival for Dinner Angers Aunt

She could dimly see the others look up from the dinner table. But they could see her and though none of the five could have expressed it in words, there was something vital about the girl as she stood there which turned her to a flame dancing across the common grey of their lives.

Long after she had passed out of their sphere each of them could recall Ardeth as she stood against the door. A golden girl—not even the blaze of unshaded electric light could dim the radiance of her. Youth and dawning passion had kindled a fire which played in her eyes. The hair which escaped from her hat shone with vitality and the cheek it caressed was the golden pink of a ripe apricot. Tender and lovely—as she stood there, her eyes touched with dreams, her lips tipped with a smile.

But dreams and smiles had nothing to do with Stella Harrison. From her place at the end of the table where she was carving the potroast, Ardeth's aunt relieved her mind.

"It's a wonder to me you wouldn't try and get here to your meals on time for once! Of all the inconsiderate people! Here I can cook my face to death over a hot stove for you and you think you can come in like a lady when you please, with never so much as a thank you—!"

Accused

Tom Orders Girls to Keep Quiet

The flame died down in Ardeth. She had the startled look of one rudely awakened.

"Oh . . . I'm sorry Aunt Stel. I—I had to stay a little later. Mr. Hugeson wanted us to check some new stock—"

She was checked by a snort from Bet, Aunt Stel's elder daughter, a girl a year younger than Ardeth.

"That's a hot one!' jeered Bet. "I suppose you think we don't know you were down there in the hall necking with Neil Burke! Honestly, I should think you'd be ashamed! I'd die with shame if anyone opened the door and walked in on you!'

A hard, prim little line came around Bet's young mouth when she said this. You saw, in that moment, how like Aunt Stel she would be in a few years' time.

Ardeth flushed hotly.

"You—you nasty little spy!' Her voice was low and it shook.

"Spy!' Bet leaped to her guns. "A person doesn't have to spy to see what a fool you make of yourself—you boy-struck thing!"

"Boy-struck!' Ardeth was stung into defense. "You're the boy-struck one! Hanging around the phone every night hoping—"

"Stop it!' Aunt Stel leaped into the breech. Pointing the carving knife at her niece to emphasize her words "Let me tell you one thing, my girl. If you—"

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" Tom's bellow drowned them all out. "Shut up, can't you? How'd you expect a guy to read his paper

FLOOD AREA JOBS TO BE RUSHED

Million Building Program Awaiting Completion of Street Improvements

It is important that the street improvement program in the North Side flood district be completed as soon as possible, so that a number of large warehouses can be built in that section, a councilmanic committee decided at its meeting yesterday.

Several manufacturers plan the erection of warehouses costing more than $1,000,000 as soon as the project is finished, the committee was told.

Money for the improvements was provided by bonds issued in 1928. The total of the bond issue was more than $600,000.

Last year three of the jobs, streets between Stockton and Manchester avenues, and part of General Robinson street, were finished, according to a report sent council by Edward Lang, director of public works.

Part of General Robinson street, between Federal and Dasher streets, as well as part of Alcor street have yet to be finished, according to Lang's report.

So far $306,393 has been spent, leaving a balance of $293,307. All damage claims, he said, have been taken care of except $28,000. An ordinance covering this amount will receive Council's attention next Monday.

Work on the 300-foot stretch remaining to be improved on General Robinson street will cost $70,000, according to Lang.

TOWN HALL CITY'S GREATEST NEED, CHAPLIN DECLARES

PRESTIGE LOST BY DELAY TO PROJECT

ation Head Asserts timent Has Veered From Oakland as Site

Pittsburgh's greatest and most pressing need is a properly located Town Hall, James C. Chaplin, president of the Allegheny County Town Hall Association, declared yesterday. No other enterprise is more important to secure Pittsburgh's position as a major city, he said.

For many years, he added, Pittsburgh has been regarded in the sense of an "ugly duckling," a dirty, smoky and noisy city. A gigantic American industry, the convention, is knocking at the city's door, he said, but Pittsburgh, with no suitable place to entertain it, is unable to bid for its entrance.

"Proper location emphatically means in or adjacent to the transportation, hotel, theater and retail center of town. Any other location would be disastrous—money wasted—and would mean just another monument," he continued.

"Unfortunately, a 'synthetic sentiment' in favor of building the Town Hall in Oakland was developed some time ago by a small group of citizens. Nothing has so blocked the early building of the hall as the tenacity with which this group has blindly held to its campaign for mislocation. The recent campaign of education conducted by Mr. Eppley and others, however, has demonstrated the colossal folly of such a site and today I do not believe there are a dozen people who aggressively favor the Oakland site, and several of these, of course, are actuated by self-interest."

LEAGUE URGES TUBERCULAR CLINICS

Help of Parents Enlisted In Drive for Examination Of Underweight Children

Dr. C. H. Marcy, medical director of the Tuberculosis League, appealed to parents today to have a physical examination made of children who are underweight and pale, tire quickly and have poor appetite.

These may be symptoms of incipient tuberculosis, he said, and the League is making a special effort this month, as part of a nation-wide campaign, to save children from the disease.

Dr. Marcy pointed out that tuberculosis usually begins in childhood, and while it may lie dormant during the first few years of growth, often breaks out as an active disease in early youth, when the strain of life begins to wear down resistance.

He asserted that girls are more vulnerable than boys and that one-third of deaths from all causes of girls between 15 and 19 are from tuberculosis. Early examination and prompt treatment will cut down the death toll in later years, he said.

Physicians, public health officials, the Council of Churches and civic organizations are co-operating in the campaign.

Helen Oriuk

HELEN O RLUK, Fifth avenue. "Modern civilization is no worse than it has ever been. Sex doesn't mean much in plays or pictures to most people, because they are too intelligent to let themselves be degraded in any way by such activities on the stage."

H. Spiropoulos

HARRY SPIROPOULOS, Diamond street: "There is too much sex in our dramas today. However, it is not so serious that a downfall of civilization is anticipated. Children, though, should not be allowed to see such plays."

John Patikas

JOHN PATIKAS, waiter, Hotel Henry: "Too much pessimism is apparent in the United States today. It is silly to think that a few sexy plays, seen at the most, by a few thousand people, can break down the morals of the nation."

G. Nestrionni

GEORGE NESTRIONNI, Fifth avenue: "I can't see how sex in plays and movies can do much to bring about the downfall of modern civilization. On the contrary our civilization is going forward rather than downward."

Erma Billard

ERMA BILLARD, Hotel Henry: "There are too many upright people in the United States, who possibly never see a sex drama. This fact is argument against any statement that such plays are weakening our civilization."

An original appropriation of $500 had been made, but this was exceeded by the amount submitted. The carfare was entailed in inspections of city property.

Members of the committee recommended that in the future employes pay one-half of the cost of car passes.

CITY PLANNERS WILL RENEW OBJECTIONS

Board to Lead Opposition When Dispute Is Aired on April 16; Disputed Months

Although the councilmanic committee on public service and surveys has recommended the advertising of ordinances providing for the vacating of Hays street and Supreme way for school purposes a public hearing will be held April 16 on the question.

The property vacated would be used to provide an athletic field and other improvements for Peabody High School. The City Planning Commission opposes the contemplated move and submitted a report to the committee yesterday.

Previously more than 2,400 students and faculty members of the Peabody school, along with a number of business men and property owners in that district, presented petitions asking that the streets be vacated.

EXCEPTIONS FILED

The ordinances were originally introduced to Council last December, when the Planning Commission took exceptions. With their reintroduction the commission has repeated its action.

The commission charges that the vacating of the thoroughfares would be an injustice to small home owners having properties facing on Hays street, and would cut off the connection with North Highland avenue. To provide adequate traffic facilities to and from the Morningside district it is necessary to keep these streets open, the commission contends.

BOARD FAVORS IT

It was decided by the School Board to seek the vacation of the thoroughfares in order to co-ordinate the school properties and make the athletic field and playground site possible.

Should the measure pass Hays street would be vacated from North Beatty street to North Highland Avenue and Supreme way from Hays street to a point 105 feet northward.

SITE FOR POOL REJECTED

Requests to condemn properties of R. A. Fey and T. F. Hartman in the Twelfth ward, to make room for a swimming pool were denied by the finance committee of council yesterday.

When plans were drawn up, according to the petitioners, it was found the site was not large enough to erect the pool, as stipulated. Should the present size be constructed, the baseball park and the athletic field there would be damaged, they charged.

"Council wants a swimming pool built in that location. Go back and draw another plan, making it conform with the original allotment of land," Councilman John Herron said. "We cannot appropriate any more money for this purpose."

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Sees College Boy Players

EVER so many of the older set went to see the Mask and Wig's presentation of "John Faust, Ph.D.," and many old grads, too, last night in Syria Mosque. And at the end of the musical comedy the actors and the men in the audience joined in giving cheers and songs for the University of Pennsylvania.

The boxes were filled with women whose gowns were as varied in color as spring flowers. As the out-of-doors becomes warmer, and summer dresses have taken on brighter hues, I've noticed.

Talking with friends in the foyer during intermission I noticed Mrs. H. Allen Machesney wearing a gown of black velvet with a border of gold lace, and a rope of pearls. Mrs. Machesney will be at another student play on April 28, too, when the Civic Club of Allegheny County will sponsor the University of Pittsburgh Cap and Gown show "Manhattan Preferred." In the Nixon Theater. Mrs. Machesney, who is a prominent member of the Civic Club, is general chairman for the first night.

AMONG the early arrivals last night was another member of the Civic Club, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., who looked distinguished in a gown of dahlia satin. I also caught a glimpse of Miss H. Marie Dermitt and of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Sherrill.

Society Attends

Among the younger set there was Jewel Jarvis looking distinctive in a gown of pirate blue chiffon, sparkling with sequins, fashioned with a deep border of blue tulle giving the popular below-the-knee fullness.

Among those having boxes were the C. D. Scullys, Dr. S. A. Chilfant, Dr. A. W. Sherrill and Mrs. Sherrill, whom I've already mentioned; Dr. C. F. Bowman, Dr. G. L. Hays, Dr. W. M. Lilley, Dr. J. D. Donovan, Dr. Frank M. Braden, Edward H. Moore, Dr. L. H. Landon, John A. Scott, Jr., W. H. Jameson and Dr. J. S. Baird.

COMPLEXING SIMPLICITY CHARACTERIZES THE MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, April 9. — The mode at present reveal themselves, on the mode at present appear tremely complicated strategically placed and some dresses "piecings" that they problem

The "pieceful" aspect of ent is very exciting. Gar- the essence of simplicity close inspection, as ex- affairs. Set-in pieces are to create exquisite lines, have so many of these resemble somewhat a in geometry with its angles, rhomboids and lines. Such dresses and coats rarely have any other embellishment, and indeed they do not require it, for intricacy of cut creates that very desirable complex simplicity that is such a feature of the mode at the moment. If one's wardrobe is, of necessity, limited, such a frock, despite its initial cost would by all means be included, for it never outwears its welcome and like a true aristocrat will always look well whatever its condition. We have observed many of these intricately designed frocks lately, and have noticed that they have invariably attracted more favorable attention than the elaborately embellished gowns.

BOTH of the sketches shown illustrate in a very definite manner the charm of unembellished intricate simplicity. The first is a frock from Lucien Lelong and is in his best manner. It is of sea-green crepe and the bodice is fitted in princess manner at the sides and back, but bloused in front. The shoulder straps, in one piece with the underarm sections, end in two small tabs at the back of each shoulder. The skirt has superimposed pieces at either side, sloping down in front and flaring in ample rippling godets. The back is slightly longer than the front, as to hemline.

THE other sketch is of a coat from the fine old house Redfern. It is of lightweight black woolen fabric with a double postillion collar. The lower section of the collar passes under the arms and slopes up to the lapels in front.

A STITCHED piecing at the waistline follows the edge of the second collar and also slopes up in front. A slight circular flare gives balance to the lower part of the coat. Such a coat is indispensable to the wardrobe, for it will look equally well worn with or without furs, and as fur scarfs are such an important item this season, an unfurred coat will provide abundant opportunities for the frequent display of the ubiquitous fox that keeps its place as the most popular pelt of the moment.

WATCH, CLOCK TARIFF UP

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(INS.)—Although the Senate voted two to one against any increase in the present duties on watches and clocks, the tariff conferees today adopted a new schedule of rates halfway between the present law and the sharply increased House schedule.

The compromise was turned over to experts to incorporate in technical language, and the conferees were unable to explain in detail just what they had done.

The Senate rate of 25 per cent ad valorem on printing, bookbinding and paper box machinery was retained. The conferees also agreed on the Senate rate of 40 per cent for machines used to knit full-fashioned hosiery and approved a similar House rate for the basket clause on machinery.

Harold Lloyd May Make Film Aboard Liner Honolulu Bound

By DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.

HAROLD LLOYD trailed to San Francisco last week to inquire about and investigate the possibilities of shooting his next comedy, "Feet First," aboard a ship Honolulu bound. Said ship being the Malolo. Harold did have his doubts set at rest concerning the use of a sound truck aboard ship. A sound truck weighs around 17,000 pounds. It could be deck shuffled all right.

Whether or not Lloyd and company will set sail for Honolulu and locations the end of the month remains to be decided in conferences. The trip is highlighted with dollar marks. Boxing half a ship, paying for its flicker background use, taking a troup of actors, cameramen, electricians et al and cameras, lights, film, etc., some 2,000 miles is no cheap proposition.

Harold Lloyd

HAS COMPLETE SCRIPT

INCIDENTALLY, Harold has in "Feet First" a complete scenario with written gags and dialogue. 'Tis the first time in 12 years he hasn't written a funster day by day on the set. The last being when T. A. (Tad) Dorgan, the W. K. cartoonist wrote four stories and scripts especially for him. And Hal Roach produced 'em. Lloyd is experimenting with a completed script again. Talkies may be the reason.

THE MOON TRAGEDY

NOT to return to Harold Lloyd, but Gloria, his small daughter who will celebrate her sixth birthday May 1, wandered forth to moongaze and ran in great excitement to her mother.

"The moon has had an accident," she wailed.

Mildred (Mrs. Lloyd) couldn't imagine what the dickens had been going on so out she traipsed with the skipping Gloria and saw half a moon. Naturally, it had had an accident.

EARLY BARRYMORE

JOHN BARRYMORE has never agitated himself over the need for promptness. Sometimes, in the course of a picture, he'd wander in late or very late, and that was that. But with his current effort, "The Sea Beast," the Barrymore has been a regular alarm clock minute man. The late scholarship record is being cared for by his leading fem, Joan Bennett. 'Tother lunch hour, Joan meandered back to the outdoor set an hour and a half late. By this time, airplanes were circling overhead and stunting around in leisurely fashion. The company had to abandon the set and return the next day. But folks now John never commented.

John Barrymore

In Western

Regis Toomey goes out into the wild, wild West as a ranch foreman or something in "The Light of Western Stars," opening Friday in the Stanley.

Which is the epitomy of stoicism or something.

STARS MR. MORRIS

ROLAND (director of "Alibi) West has decided upon a story and goes into production shortly with his "boy," Chester Morris, starred. Morris is under contract to the director. Mr. West refused details about the yarn, but, after all, this is a small matter. That he is going to work is interesting, for here's a chap who says uh-uh unless he has a story to his liking. He will produce one picture this year. He'll produce another next year. That one will be "Death Takes a Holiday," a present hit show in New York. Chester Morris will bring to the screen the role Philip Merivale created on the stage. Concerning Chester, Roland has decided he will emote in only four flicks for 1930's 12 months. Morris is a box office familiar, now. Hence, this decision.

MASK, WIG CLUB SCORES HIGH

Syria Mosque overflowed last night with alumni and friends of University of Pennsylvania. They had come to see the forty-second production of the Mask and Wig Club, this year's most elaborate musical effort, "John Faust, Ph. D."

The show is presented with apologies to Goethe and Gounod, but as a lover of good music, I can not understand why these young authors should feel worse about their performance than Gounod did about some of the simpering tunes he wrote about Goethe's world drama. There was much of today in the re-written "Faust," a lot of healthy propaganda for some of the good things we are missing, and against the "pseudos" and "psychos" we so gullibly accept. The score lifted much from the opera, and now and then leaned towards Saint-Saens and Grieg, but the arrangements were always marvellously clever, and an occasional solo singer showed a good voice.

The cast was excellent as these shows go. Beaumont's heavyweight "Marguerite" was as funny a caricature as one could expect from Marie Dressler. Bliedung's "Mephisto" was quite picturesque, and this fellow has a real gift for posture. Craven's "Faust" was almost as grotesque as the opera stars try not to make it. Down the entire line of burlesqued characters there was an astonishing show of talent.

Specialty dances by Kelly and Clegg, Sheldon and Atwater, and a solo dance by Jordan was in the professional line. The choruses were well drilled, and did many a pretty step. The costumes were exceedingly well planned for color and design throughout the show, all had a fantastic touch that was irresistible.

THE CHOIR.

The Mendelssohn Choir, with Ernest Lunt directing, sang its last concert for this season in Carnegie Music Hall last night. Instead of an oratorio, Mr. Lunt offered a miscellaneous program of dignified hymns with a short cantata, and a very gifted pianist as soloist.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Hours afterwards, the two hymns of Holst were still ringing as if the last chord had just been intoned. This Englishman has used a magnificent device for his stirring music, holding the male voices consistently to the fore, and employing the sopranos and altos for shadows and background. The choir has seldom sung such imposing music, nor has it ever seemed more certain of intonation as in those fortissimo passages.

Member of the choir sang the solo parts throughout the program; especially musical was the work of Irene Cramblet in a lovely declamation with choral background.

Leonora Cortez played two groups of piano music, seldom heard works from Bach to Liszt. Arrangements are the undoing of Bach's piano compositions, for they invariably lose their traditional flavor when others tamper with them, and always become poorly romantic. That is no fault of the pianist; the mistake is in choosing such disguised classics and neglecting the real stuff. Miss Cortez may boast of her technique, and played those fine variations of Mendelssohn with unusual appreciation for their subtleties.

WISH

NEW YORK, April 9.

I HOPE the time that you have spent with me
Has left no drear deposit of regret,
I do not feel that there should ever be
Unhappy memories because we met.

I know I take my final leave of you
Indebted in a hundred different ways,
And as words I have are all too few
To lavish blessings on your future days.

I hope the fairest flowers fill your room,
The gayest laughter crown your revelry;
I trust your most fantastic dreams assume
The living semblance of reality—

And may your Knight with charger, plume and spear,
Be all the things I could not be, my dear?

WHY COLUMNISTS DIE YOUNG

DONALD COLMORE, of 29 Broadway writes:

"Your statement that Allan Edwards was the original Collar Man and that Leyendecker, the artist, is all wet. The original model was Jack Peterson. The artist was F. Graham Cootes. Peterson is now on the Stock Exchange. He posed for it 18 years ago."

And D. M. Hobson makes it clearer with:

"Wrong again, you dope! The original Collar man was Donald Lovejoy, of New Rochelle. He and his brother Harold posed for J. Leyendecker, their friend and neighbor. The first ad was made 12 years ago. Lovejoy is now a broker at 52 Broad street."

FORM OF CRITICISM

ONE of the better known theatrical clubs was frequently the scene where an obnoxious member threatened to pull a gun on his tormentors. He was most unpopular and tried to bulldoze the crowd with a quick gesture for the hip pocket. The other day he shot himself to death after a series of sour breaks, but he wasn't mourned at his club.

"Well, I see where Joe Doakes killed himself."

"Yeah, he finally pulled his gun on the right guy."

OOP!

There are other locals, it appears, who can make just as flip cracks as Texas Guinan. The other midnight the ho-ho hostess waddled into the Club Abbey, which was formerly her own starring night club, and, after being kidded by the kidders, remarked:

"There should be more light in here. It's too dark!"

"You shouldn't complain, Tex, it makes YOU look younger!"

NIFTY

La Guinan's newest wisey, however, concerns Peggy Joyce, viz.:

TEE, HEE

"THE energetic Mr. Vizetelly, editor of Funk & Wagnalls' dictionaries," says a New York Times editorial, "has put 'whoopee' into his new volume as an accredited synonym for 'a gay frolic or lark.' An attempt is made to take the word centuries back under the guise of 'whoope.' To non-lexicographers that seems like straining the point, for the dramatists who used the word in 1622 had the new-found Indians on their mind and obviously meant the battlecry. As presented in New York by Walter Winchell the extra 'e' or two have been slangily added, and 'making whoopee' has come to be the standard description given by light-minded persons of their efforts to be joyful.

"Purists may be disturbed by the inclusion of this argot, but the editors of the Oxford Dictionary liberalized the rules of recording current speech, and Mr. Vizetelly follows that distinguished lead. It is not likely that creators of pure literature or masters of phrase will ever be obliged to employ Mr. Winchell's foster-child. But it is a fact that any author seeking to give the normal dialogue of Broadway for the past few years will have to insert the phrase. If it give such pleasure to have dictionary backing, the indorsement should not be begrudged. New slang will come along soon, and 'making whoopee' will (thank Heaven!) rest frogotten in the lexicons."

Is my face red?

OH, MR. VIZETELLY

WITH all the words they have tried to cram into the unabridged dictionaries, it is surprising how many they miss. Almost everybody knows that a glossy print of a photograph, sometimes referred to as an "oilcloth finish," is a squeegee. But try to find it in the new or old Century, the Standard, or the Oxford Dictionary. In any of these you'll discover squeegee to be "an instrument with a rubber edge, used for washing windows," or "a rubber roller used in photography." For over thirty years a photograph with a shiny finish has been called a squeegee. It is a photograph printed on glossy paper, and dried on ferrotype tin. Photographs printed for reproduction in half tone are squeegees.

WHAT THE BABY SAID

The favorite silly of the Times Squarefarers is the one about the mother who was giving her four-year-old daughter a scolding.

"I'm surprised at you," grumbled the mother, "you go right upstairs and wash your face, and NECK!"

"Who?" asked the child.

BY WAY OF REPORT

THE only genuine matinee idol in New York today is a furriner named Maurice Chevalier, who autographs from two to three hundred programs at every performance for women theatergoers. They crowd each other waiting for him to exit from the Fulton stage door, and Chev-al-yay, as it is pronounced, says:

"I'm glad to do it, too. I'm a stranger in this country, and if they think that much of me I feel honored to give them my autograph."

The American actor who wonders "what is wrong with the theater today?" might follow Chevvy's common sense. The American has discouraged the stage door fan by being aloof and sneaking out the front way.

NOT NEW, BUT CLEAN

Arthur Brown heard it again in Palm Beach. A tourist in California asked a towner the way to San "Josie."

"You mean San Jose (ho-zay)," said the towner, "the Spanish pronounce their "J" as "H."

"Oh, I see," said the tourist. "How long do you expect to stay in California?" asked the towner.

"Oh, I dunno," was the reply terrible, "until maybe Hune or Huly."

Question. How are you to know what homes are offered for sale? Ans. Read the Sun-Telegraph Classified Ads.

FERNALD BURLESQUE IS HARD NUT TO CRACK IN "Y" PLAYHOUSE

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Somewhere in the third act of "The Mask and the Face," which was produced last night in the "Y" Playhouse, B. Iden Payne as an Italian count has the line: "I seem to do nothing but gallop about and close these doors."

The line is a very good characterization of the play, which is burlesque rather than comedy, and tries to graft Oscar Wilde dialogue upon a plot and a technique that belong to the author of "The Cat and the Canary."

Chester Bailey Fernald's play is a misfit, and the talented players of the "Y" had to struggle hard to make anything of it.

There is a good idea in the piece, but it would take a Molnar to work it out. And that sort of play also takes a Holbrook Blinn or a Leo Ditrichstein to make it plausible—and both are dead.

STILL IT MIGHT HAPPEN

It is all about a Count who hears his wife has been indiscreet and proceeds to kill her. Relenting, he sends her away to London, but lets his friends think he has strangled her and thrown the body into Lake Como. He is tried for murder, but acquitted and becomes a popular hero. Then the living corpse returns to take part in her own funeral, and at the end the deception is discovered, and the sham hero is exposed as a fraud. But he doesn't mind that, because he has discovered that he loves his wife.

This story is played in the living room of Count Grazia's villa on Lake Como, a magnificent setting with a back drop of the Alps that must be accounted Frank Stout's masterpiece.

The "Alpengluehen" was the best thing in the play.

COST HEROIC TOIL

But the players worked very hard to make something of the straggly scenario. B. Iden Payne and Alfred E. Smith did notably clever acting, while Florence Callomon and Helen Tenney distinguished themselves among the women of the cast. But their heroic toil could not redeem the play from palpable absurdity.

Amusing situations and witty lines could not cover up its fantastic futility. Effective decorations and lighting, with some beautiful gowns, could not put life into the nondescript offspring of farce and social satire.

ALWAYS WORKING FOR YOUR GOOD WILL

Every Statler employee is instructed to work for good-will harder than he works for sales.

An errand may take longer, an order be more difficult to execute, a guest harder to please — but every service rendered in a Statler is to be in the spirit of expressing and winning good-will.

That is the basic — if, indeed, it is not the determining — reason for the popularity of these hotels. That is behind all the liberal Statler policies, from "news and cigar-stand sales at street-store prices" to "satisfaction guaranteed."

All travelers know that it isn't easy for a hotel to either win, or hold, good-will. Travelers who visit Statler cities will tell you that these hotels, besides trying to keep ahead of the times in matters of equipment, of extra conveniences and comforts, also try to go farther than you expect in the personal service rendered you by employees. Everybody in these houses is always working for your good-will.

Klondike Fur Crop

INDIANS of the Klondike district reported a scarcity of fur bearing animals this winter.

CHICKIE

CHAPTER LV.

THE next evening Chickie helped with the dishes hovering about the mild Jennie. She watched the hair falling in thin strands from the amber comb. She saw little beads of perspiration on her mother's neck. It made her sad.

Then Jennie stooped and mopped some water from the floor. As she did this Chickie saw the silk stockings she had ordered thrown out. Jennie was wearing them.

A pang shot through her. Jennie wearing her discarded finery. Jennie too must like the feel of silk next to her skin. She felt a sudden overpowering tenderness for her mother.

They were alike—loved the same things—had the same weakness. She had never thought of this before—never worried much about Jennie's longings.

Noon the next day she bought a gift—two pairs of gray and two of black. Jennie stammered and didn't at all want to take them. When Chickie insisted she blushed like a girl. "Why, whatever made you think of this, Chickie dear? And for an old woman like me? Yet she was so touched tears ran into her eyes.

Chickie said gayly: "Jennie, darling, why I never thought you'd like them so. Why didn't you say something about it? Why, after this I shall buy sweet Jennie a lipstick and she shall go a-waltzing with me!"

Jennie cried.

Doing little things like this was a kind of absolution Chickie gave herself. It freed her as the clasp of his arms or as his laughter.

She loved him most when he was happiest, when he grew daring and said: "Chickie, let the world go hang! We should worry! Only thee and me!"

It was like that one Sunday when she had left the house in a state of nervous unrest because Jonathan said: "Chickie, I don't like this. It's not you. It's the kid or to yourself. You see too much of each other."

The slightest thing distressed her. She said: "Barry—if Jonathan should know"——

Enchanting Song

But he shrugged and whistled. Then he pulled her down and rattled in her ear the childhood song from Coleridge: "Chickie, listen"——

"'Do you know what the birds say? The sparrow, the dove, The linnet, and the thrush say, "I love and I love!"
In the winter they're silent—the wind is so strong,
What it says I don't know, but it sings a loud song.
But green leaves, and blossoms, and sunny warm weather,
And singing, and loving, all come back together.
And the lark is so brimful of gladness and love,
The green fields below him, the blue sky above,
That he sings and he sings, and forever sings he—
I love my love and my love loves me!'"

She laughed and forgot. In these moods he dominated her. Oh—he had only to glance—only to speak, she would follow wherever he led. She would give and give and give. Her spirit was no longer her own.

They were plunged into these endearments—more than half helpless—he as well as she. A kind of wild love—young, unreckoning. All they did drew the bond between them tighter, more relentless.

They were going to the Abbots'. Bess was giving a house party. They entered the road winding upward over the slope into the cool retreat of pine and oak. Autumn peace that seemed half sadness settling quietly on the trees.

Chickie felt it with an undue sensitiveness. She moved a little nearer, touched his arm. "Barry, remember last year when we came up here? Oh, how we felt! So merry! What a long time a year is!"

Memories

He stooped swiftly and kissed her. "What a sweet time a year is! Melancholic, frail? Why?"

She answered laughing: "You kissed me like that then—oh, it startled me!"

"It was farther down, before we hit this road—out in the open."

"Yes, Barry, are you as happy as you were?"

"Only more so."

"All the time? Sometimes you're quiet. Then I keep wondering what you are thinking. And perhaps you're sorry?"

She watched his face achingly. She did this often now. If he were tired or silent she thought with a stab of fright: "Does he love me now? Does he care as much? Oh, maybe he wants it all ended!" With the cruel, pathetic independence of the woman who loves, she fancied each change in his expression due to some shortcoming in her.

He was aware of this. It troubled him. Now, he said: "I'm not sorry, Chickie. You imagine things. Don't do that. It's only you that keeps harking back. You're doing it now. Why, Chickie? How can you feel so? Can't you see how that hits me? As though I'd robbed you—taken what you don't want to give—"

"Oh, no! It's just that I haven't enough—I wish I had more and more to give you! You don't know how I wish that—"

This was true. Having given, she would have poured herself out like a wine for him to drink.

It was also true that she could look back to the time when she had not given, with a regret that made the tears rush. Often she saw herself as she had been—blithe, careless thing with a "Pooh, I should worry!" coming so flippantly to her lips. She looked to that other Chickie often and with an infinite envious yearning.

Especially now, coming here, where a year ago she had been so gayly confused, so thrilled to her finger tips by the happy abandon of all these bright young people so like and so unlike herself.

Nance Greets Couple

She was in this mood of piercing wistfulness when they came up the driveway and Nance, the irrepressible twin, bounded down to meet them, flinging her arms about Chickie's neck with an effusive "Oh you honey dear. I've been waiting to see you! And you're nice, Red—same one. My, aren't you constant! Every one else has a change."

Barry said: "Well, Nance, how about it? Would you change an' you had the best what was?"

Nance squeezed Chickie's arm. "That's nice, Barry, but a silver [illegible] like Chickie and I have much to converse of. She may tell me a few things I've need to learn!"

She led Chickie to the room with the French windows and the deep balcony with its ladders of red and white roses—last bloom of the year. She said gayly: "Such a much as I've to tell you. And I want to ask things, too. I've planned this conversation, honey love, for quite a while. Nobody can talk to Bess. Poor thing—she's so tired and so delicate. And of course Marge doesn't register above the neck. Did you know that? It's my conclusion——"

As Chickie dressed she rattled on in this strain, half eager—half pathetic. "Well, you know Marge is engaged again—the third time since you were here before. Now, that isn't right, do you think? I told her so. We had a big fight over it. Because, you see, we're getting old enough to have sense now, going on eighteen. Marge said she was a free soul. She grabbed that from Janka—only Janka knows what she means and Marge doesn't! And Marge is writing free verse now about love and the grand passion and what she has discovered of men. Oh, it's awful rot. Marge says that's because I don't understand what she talks about. But I do. Anyway, I'm pretty worried—now what would you do?"

Nance Is Worried

Chickie was bending down putting on her slipper. Nance sat on a low stool, her slender arms wrapped about her knees; the brown, curly bobbed head raised appealingly. The young girl radiance of her touched Chickie as it might a much older woman. She said, laughingly: "Do you mean about Marge and her loves?"

"Yes—because it's not love at all—and it's much worse than petting or flirting. I do that a little myself, but I don't think Marge ought to go in for things like this. She's getting sulkier and sulkier and it's awful having a twin like this. But she says it's still a man's world we live in, and the only way for a girl to get by is to be free, like men, and do the things they do and not care a snap about any little things. She says she means to know and taste everything because that's life. And I should do the same or I'll find myself hanging on a withered hickory tree. But I don't believe that, do you? Now you ought to tell me, because I'll bet all kinds of men have made love to you. So what do you think?"

Chickie said, regarding her with nervousness and amusement: "Well, it's not true at all, Nance. You just keep your own ideas."

"And I won't find myself dangling from an old, dead tree?"

"Indeed, you won't. But Marge may, because she's trifling with love, and we shouldn't do that. And she doesn't know what she's talking about."

IT is true that many things once hushed up entirely or discussed in bated whispers are now printed and talked about a great deal.

Youngsters read hectic fiction, go to see spicy plays, and wisecrack about this and that, which seems quite shocking. But one has only to look at their eager, bright faces to see that they are not different from the wholesome youngsters of more conservative past generations.

Although some would have us think that all youth is joy riding and hip-flask hoisting, more young men are not drinking today.

Youth is thinking straight for itself these days. Many a young fellow who would have thought it manly to out-drink a father or friend sees its folly today.

Madge Starts With Mother Graham for Larches

THE final words of my mother-in-law's question were a joyous relief to me. I was loath to tell her the real reason for my abstraction, for I felt that my conjecture of Marion's old sandalwood box with its secret compartment and hidden envelopes being the object of the burglary at the farmhouse was too fantastic for revelation.

"No, mother, no," I assured her emphatically. "I am sure that Junior was not in their minds at all, except that they used him as an effective means of protecting their escape."

"But they knew just where to find him," she said tremulously. "That proves—"

"That someone concerned in the job had been in the house before and knew just where everyone slept," I said as steadily as I could. "He knew also that no one would interfere with anything he did if he only would spare Junior. But that proves only how clever the men were in planning for a possible getaway. Remember, they did not even go into Junior's room until father confronted them and they shot the revolver out of his hand. If they had not been disturbed I do not believe they would have gone near him."

"It sounds reasonable," she conceded. "I hope you're right. But if it wasn't Richard Second who was worrying you, what?"

"Oh, mother," I exclaimed, contriving to give the impression that her query was unheard instead of ignored, "I have just thought of something. Mrs. Tiger has a key to The Larches and is authorized to show it to people. Don't you think it would be a good idea to get her and look at the place first before we see the agent? Perhaps it's in such a condition that it wouldn't do at all. And do look at those fuchsias in her window. I wonder how many blossoms it has."

"No matter how many it has, it can't equal mine," she said. But whatever are you driving past for? I thought you wanted to have her go with us to The Larches."

"I'm sorry," I said meekly. But I didn't know whether or not you wanted to stop, so I thought I wouldn't waste any time by turning in."

"Not having lost the senses with which I was born, as you seem to have," my mother-in-law commented caustically, "of course I want to stop. Can you turn around in this road without upsetting?"

"I don't know," I returned, "but I can back the car to the driveway very easily—there isn't another one in sight—and turn in."

"Well, do it then and don't spend so much time talking about it," she commanded.

I did her bidding as if I were Patient Griselda in the flesh, and in another minute Mrs. Tiger's comely face above her amply-cushioned figure was smiling a welcome from her porch. My neighbor, who is my valued friend as well as my efficient helper when there is emergency work at the farm, would think it the quintessence of rudeness to stay inside of her door until visitors knock. Her vine-covered cottage has so many windows that she can see anyone driving in, and rare is the occasion when she fails to greet an incoming guest.

"Hello, stranger," she greeted me cheerily. "I was just starting to come up to your house. I heard you had a burglary up there last night."

I started with astonishment tinged with something more intriguing. Katherine had told me that my father, by virtue of his position in the government secret diplomatic service had been able to impress the police with the necessity of absolute secrecy concerning the job for a few hours.

"How—how did you know?" I asked.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Men Girls Don't Forget

"AND now, will you please tell us what kind of men women like," writes H. . . R. . . . "I hope that's not too big an order."

It IS a pretty large order. Because, like most women, I have spent most of my life trying to find out what MEN like. That is a more profitable study for any woman—and a far easier one than the psychology of the restless sex.

Nobody can tell what makes a woman love a man—not even the woman, herself. No woman loves a man just because he is good or handsome or successful—or even because he is in love with her.

Neither does she love him because he is brilliant or wise or learned—or because he is weak or wild or appealing. She loves him "just because!"

BUT—all women like a modest man, the kind who does not try to grab the center of the stage and turn the limelight on himself. The kind who is willing to "star" the woman. A conceited man or an egotist must be either a hero or an Adonis, to get by with women. Lindbergh and the Prince of Wales have the irresistible charm of modesty, which makes young women sigh for them and older women croon over them.

Women like quiet, reserved men. Not the glum, gloomy, morose or cynical kind. But even the cynic is preferable to the loud-speaker, the wisecracker, the marathon-talker or the "life-of-the-party" boy. No woman can feel any real romance for a clown.

Women like a masterful man. Not a bully or a cavem n or a roughneck; but a man who knows his own mind and does not let any woman bully him. There is nothing b fore which the feminine heart c umples so quickly as masculine strength—mental, physical or moral.

Yet women like a GENTLEman. Not necessarily one who goes in for silk hats and a high polish and always uses the right spoon; but one who knows how to be tender and thoughtful and protecting. Even the most independent woman likes to be "Little-gi ted." Many a selfish weakling has won out over a better man, because he knew how to make the graceful gesture at the psychological moment.

Women admire a capable man; one who knows how to do things—how to run an office, drive a car, orde a dinner, handle a situation, meet an emergency or get out of a jam. Success adds much to a man's charm for women, simply because it proves that he is capable.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By GLADYS JOHNSON

with a pack of women yelping about?"

Crushing silence followed, for Tom was czar here. Though only 26 years of age, he was the elder son and had been the mainstay of the family since Uncle Ed had died.

He transfixed them with a glare before he returned to the sporting page.

Feels Depressed

With an air of injured innocence Bet subsided. Pan and Paul, the twins, who had brightened up at the promise of a quarrel, turned in disappointment to their bread and gravy and resumed their efforts to kick each other under the table, undetected. Aunt Stel set her face and grudgingly craved another portion of potroast.

Ardeth went into the bedroom and pulled off her hat and coat. She hated these scenes coming at the end of a hard day's work. The depression which she always felt in this shabby house was creeping over her again.

She hated this room, which she shared with Bet. Hated the "golden oak" bed and dresser, scratched and warped with the years. The worn carpet. The broken-armed rocker.

All the little softening touches the room owed to her. The pinkshaded lamp on the dresser—Neil had given her on her last birthday. The cretonne curtains—three Sundays had gone into their making. The pink bedspread—that had taken the savings of a month.

About the frame of the mirror, little photos of her Sunday outings. Pictures Neil had taken. One of herself feeding the swans in the lake. She was looking up and laughing, her hair a light-touched tangle. That was her last Easter dress . . . She'd sewed on it for a month and she had saved for it for three.

Ardeth's bitter eyes looked back at her from the mirror.

So much struggle for so little . . . This ugly room. That cheap dress. And there were girls who had everything they wanted. That girl she'd talked to in the store today—Jeannette Parker. Would the time come when she too would have everything she wanted, Ardeth wondered.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Managing a Difficult Fruit

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am grateful to you and your column. I have gotten a lot of information from other people's questions and now I would like you to answer my question.

I have seen people eat prunes with a fork. My friends tell me this is incorrect, and I think it is, too. But I'll let you decide whether it is right or wrong.

C. V. O.

THANK you—and I am glad that you have become an "active member" of my column.

The correct way to eat prunes is with both the fork and the dessert spoon. This seems to be the easiest way to separate the fruit from the stone, and this must be done so that the stone will not be taken into the mouth. With the spoon held in the right hand, and the fork in the left, the fruit is separated from the stone, and conveyed to the mouth with the spoon.

This "double service" is gaining in popularity enormously, as people realize its great convenience. It quickly and effectively improves one's table manners.

If you do not use the double service of silver the prunes may be eaten with either the spoon or the fork, whichever you find more convenient in separating the fruit from the pit.

A Charming Announcement

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My daughter is going to announce her engagement soon and expects to be married in a couple of months. Would it be proper for me to invite some old neighbors and friends to an afternoon tea and announce her engagement before she makes it public, or would this be too suggestive as a request for a shower?

A READER.

THIS would, if your daughter agrees, be a charming and friendly thing for you to do. But it must be what your daughter wishes. And first she should have told her closest friends the news, and she should have written the notes to those friends who do not live near enough for her to tell the news by word of mouth. In other words, her part of the announcing should be over before you do your part.

I see no reason why this informal party would in any sense mean a suggestion that a shower be given or that a shower is even contemplated.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Why Centenarians Are Fewer Today

THERE is a great deal said these days about the wonderful progress made by medical science in the last half century. That we have increased the average expectation of life by adding 14 years, is true, but it is also true that there are fewer old people living today than there were 50 years ago.

DR. COPELAND

Fifty years ago there was a population of a little more than 50,000 people in the United States, 4,000 of whom were centenarians. At the present time, with nearly twice the population of 50 years ago, there are only 2,841 people who have reached the age of 100 years.

Many people are not well who may appear well. Very many of the deaths from heart trouble occur in persons who did not know they had the disease at all.

"Preventative measures for good health" is the watchword now. There is many a person who, if he would have a physical examination regularly at least once a year, would live to a good old age. He would have a most useful life because the beginning of some disease was taken in time and cured.

A well known physician said that, in his opinion, the evidence of widespread premature physical decay is shown by our vital statistics. It is confirmed by actual examinations of large groups of supposedly healthy young people.

The most important work facing the medical profession today is to bring cases like this as early as possible under medical guidance and proper methods of living. This necessitates help from the individual himself.

Mr. Edison, at 80, has said, "Diet is the chief secret of health. . . . People eat too much and drink too much." Americans are prone to eat too many things at one meal. We eat many highly seasoned foods, and this leads to overeating. Overeating is one of the chief causes of disease.

The Bulgarians are one of the healthiest of races and their long life is probably due to the simple foods they eat. We should get back to the simple and wholesome foods of 50 years ago.

You cannot afford to pursue the wrong course if you wish to have a long and useful life. The young person must realize that the foundation laid in youth determines the span of life.

The average young person of today should learn to live more temperately. He must eat and drink properly and temperately, exercise moderately.

Your doctor can only advise you and it is for you to plan your life so that by a proper diet, temperate daily living, and an understanding of your own physical needs, you can successfully build for good health and long life.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

NERVOUS women burn up their energy uselessly. They bustle and hustle and hurry. This state of affairs may not be due to foolish impulses, but to physical causes—a digestion that is working properly, lack of restful sleep, poor elimination of the body's waste materials. How we behave depends very much upon the health and vitality of the body, and how we feel. The woman who nags, who gets wrinkles early, who drives her family frantic with her complaints or criticisms is, quite often, a woman who is not up to standard health.

UNDERWEIGHT doesn't necessarily mean that a girl isn't healthy; as long as she feels well, she shouldn't worry. But when underweight gets down to scrawniness, it detracts from good looks. The girl with the beanpole figure should take cod liver oil, a teaspoonful three times a day. After each meal she should drink milk and cream, half and half.

CURLING irons for eyelashes are among the novelties displayed in the beauty marts. In some shops they are used. Trouble is that, because of the moisture of the eyelids, the lashes won't stay curled very long. However, the irons are nice for the young fry to play with and to talk about.

POOR sleepers wrinkle early in life. The body repairs are not going good. Tissues wear out, and sleep makes new ones. There is such a thing as getting so exhausted that one can't rest comfortably. Every woman should, on one night a week, go to bed at an early hour, read a nice drowsy book, and click off 10 hours of sleep.

Adversity

WHERE Earth assumes her gentlest mien
And on her children smiles,
On tawny beach, in woodland green
Or verdant, sun-sweet isles,
Fair skies, soft winds and fertile lands,
Shores lapped by tropic seas
Breed feeble will and idle hands
Through dream-filled days of ease.

For Nature, where she seems most kind,
Most lavish of caress,
In truth veils cruelty behind
Her mask of loveliness.
Her sunrise glow, her twilight gleam,
Her moods of smiles and tears
Hold man content to drift and dream
Through all his futile years.

Always man gains by means despised;
His greatest works must be
Through that strange friend who comes disguised
As foe, Adversity!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, April 10

A DAY of excitement and probably friction and unrest is forecast from the stellar mutations of this day, although there is the prospect of the breaking up of a long-congested condition which may clear the way for future substantial progress. Nonetheless, it is admonished that funds should be handled conservatively, and speculation and possibilities of litigation avoided. Loans and extravagance should also be shunned, as rash and impetuous moves would complicate matters. Calm and cool deliberation might offset difficulties.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to meet some perplexing conditions during the year, which may best be manipulated by restraint, cool judgment and wise deliberation, as friction and tumultuous conduct would prove perilous. Speculation, extravagance and litigation should be shunned. There is some promise of future progress by the removal of some old obstruction or congestion.

A child born on this day should be diligent, patient and persevering, but may complicate its affairs by a tendency to rash and impetuous conduct, as well as extravagance and speculation.

PINCH MAKES M'GRAW CHANGE PLANS

THOUGH Eddie Roush, at his home in Oakland City, Ind., yesterday, expressed the opinion that he would not be able to come to terms with the New York management and would be required to quit baseball in consequence, the betting is better than even that the Giants' veteran outfielder will at least be wearing the uniform of a McGrawite when the season starts next Tuesday if he doesn't actually play in the opener. The Giants are to play in Indianapolis today and in Fort Wayne tomorrow, and the tip comes that before the club leaves the state of Indiana Roush and Manager McGraw will be brought together for a conference. Don't be surprised if existing differences are adjusted and Roush ends his long holdout by signing a contract.

Eddie Roush.

Eddie has demanded $20,000 for the season and the club has offered $5,000 less. McGraw said recently that he would not raise the ante and did not care whether Roush reported or not, but there has been a change in the Giant outfield situation since that time. Johnny Mostil's weak leg has caused him to slump after a promising start, Chick Fullis is out with an injury and the team may be left in a bad way for a centerfielder. Under the circumstances, it looks as if McGraw will need Roush, and the chances are that he will change his plans and coax him back within a day or two.

McGRAW'S predicament draws attention to the fact that this spring has been a record-breaker for outfield troubles in the major leagues. Hardly a club in the fast set has escaped worry over the condition or absence of some star fly-chaser. The Pirates suffered the first blow when Lloyd Waner showed up under weight, and the doubtful list has since become an unusually long one.

Babe Ruth is out with a case of charleyhorse. Taylor Douthit had to be lifted from the lineup because he wasn't hitting. Al Simmons' ankles have been bothering him to such an extent that he did not go to Florida with the A's and may not be ready for the opener. Charley Jamieson's poor form caused him to be replaced by a younger man. Harry Rice crashed into a bleacher wall and is unlikely to start Tuesday. Fred Bennett, counted upon as a regular, failed to come through. Smead Jolley caused a lot of worry for a time by failing to report, and Goose Goslin, Chuck Klein, Lefty O'Doul and Heinie Manush figured in prolonged holdouts.

ONE of the gamest as well as one of the most unfortunate players in the big show is Tommy Thevenow, Philly shortstop. They said he was done when one of his legs was broken in June, 1927, but he came back eventually as good as ever.

During the spring training period of 1929, after a deal had sent him from the Cardinals to the Phils, he was severely injured in an automobile smash-up and again it was thought his playing days were over, but once more he fooled them.

Tommy Thevenow.

LAST winter Thevenow entered a hospital for an operation and remained there two months, being released only two weeks before practice started. A poor season was feared for him in his weakened state, but for the third time he has overcome his handicaps. He has been one of the sensations of the Philly camp and is on a better edge right now than any other Quaker infielder. Burt Shotton calls him the greatest shortstop in the game. Certainly there is none with a stouter heart.

THE fact that Rogers Hornsby is expected to be in the Cub lineup for the opener, whereas first reports said he would be out for six weeks, is not the only late instance showing how the extent of spring baseball injuries is exaggerated. Rumors have reached some of the training camps that Pie Traynor's eye trouble is so serious that the Pirate captain will have to wear spectacles while playing third base this spring.

Rube Bressler, of the Dodgers, is one player who fell for the yarn, and on the strength of it he predicts the Bucs cannot finish higher than third. "If Traynor has to wear glasses he will be under a big handicap," he said, "and the Pirates will miss his best services. I can't give them a better position than third."

IF THE possibility of Traynor's having to wear glasses while on the field is the only thing that stands between the Bucs and a higher berth than third, they could be counted in right now for first or second honors.

For Pie's ailing optic continues to improve at a rate that leaves little room for doubt that he'll be on the job in the Redland lid-lifter six days hence—and without spectacles. Traynor has changed his plans, incidentally, for the trip to Cincinnati. Instead of leaving Pittsburgh Sunday night, he will defer his departure until Monday morning, reaching Cincinnati the night before the opener.

GABBY STREET, Cardinal pilot, never tires of singing the praises of former stars in comparison with those of today. "Take Ty Cobb, for example," he says. "He has no equal among the present-day players. Babe Ruth, with all his home run hitting, does not equal the Georgian in the latter's prime. Ty worried catchers to early graves, and pitchers just hated him. Now that the old days are but a memory, a fellow can look back and see just what Cobb did.

Gabby Street.

"I REMEMBER that Ty always took particular delight in running wild when I was catching. He seemed faster than ever one day when we were playing a doubleheader in Washington. He ran crazy on me in the first game and made me sore, but that did no good. Between games I went to the clubhouse, and there was Cobb, being rubbed down. Two ugly blisters were on his hips.

"On seeing me, he sent for some tape, and said: 'Gabby, those are two pretty sore looking hips. You know, I hope to get a day off soon, for I can't stand sliding into the bags. You fellows will have it easy with me for the remainder of the day. I insisted on catching the second game, for I felt sure that Cobb was suffering and would look bad on the paths, giving me a chance to get back in the good graces of the fans.

"WELL, the game narrowed down to a point where one run meant victory. Up came Cobb. He singled on the first pitch and stole second on the next. I felt sure I'd nail him, but I got ruffled.

"The following pitch found him heading for third. I made a gra too quickly and he beat the throw, and when the next ball came to me from the pitcher there was Cobb sliding under me with the run that meant the ball game. Just think! A run on four pitched balls And imagine my embarrassment."

YOU never can tell what Maxie Rosenbloom is likely to do when he has a stake. A brand new automobile rolled up in front of a New York theater the other night, and out stepped Maxie in a dazzling sartorial array that was topped off with a Prince Albert coat and a tall silk hat. Boxing men were discussing Rosenbloom's latest stunt during a fanning bee at Madison Square Garden, and when one of them began to speculate as to what Maxie would be doing 10 years from now, Wilbur Wood was led

SEVEN EVENTS ON INAUGURAL PROGRAM

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 9.—The bangtails go here today, and will continue to go for 16 days to come, their hoofs pounding what gives all sorts of promise of being a splendid meet as the Wheeling Driving Club puts on its Golden Jubilee meeting, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the historic West Virginia Fair track.

Sport of Kings enthusiasts from all parts of the tri-state district, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Youngstown, Clarksburg, Johnstown, Altoona, Parkersburg and Cleveland have invaded this city for the meeting. Despite the cold weather of yesterday and the possibility of a continued frigid attitude on the part of 'ole man weather today, a fine opening day crowd is anticipated.

RECORD BROKEN

A record number of horses are stabled here for the better than two weeks of competition. Not only in point of numbers has a record been established, but also in point of class. Six special features are programmed, with purses ranging from $1,500 to $5,000. The first of these, the Inaugural handicap, will feature today's card, a six furlong event with a purse of two grand for the victor.

Other features include the West Virginia Handicap, to be raced April 12, with a $2,000 purse; the Ohio Valley Stake, prize $1,500, booked for April 16; the Fourth Estate Handicap, April 19, with $1,500 added; the Preliminary Trials, April 23, worth $1,500 to the winner, and the Golden Jubilee Handicap, $5,000 added, a mile and one-sixteenth test, the banner event of the closing day's program.

17 IN INAUGURAL

Today's Inaugural Handicap has drawn an entry of 17 horses. Extreme, a J. D. Demarest stable entry, has been assigned top weight, 118 pounds. San Carlos, winner of two handicap events at Havana during the past season at the Cuban track, will tote 116 pounds, and Stampdale, of the H. W. Mills stable, will have 113 pounds up at the post.

Dopesters like Extreme, Smouldering, carrying only 108 pounds, and Stampdale in this race. Old Kickapoo, O. L. Foster's veteran handicap runner, and Western Light also are well thought of in the advance reckoning.

Seven races are on the inaugural program. In the first, a five-furlong claiming race. Breakaway, Thelma L and Vladimir, are first choice. The second event, over the same distance for 4-year-olds and up, brings A. B. Beninger, Arrowhawk and Jibe into the limelight, with Pequeto considered a good long shot.

DOC CONNOR FAMED

The jocks will pound over six and one-half furlongs in the third, another race for 3-year-olds. Checkmate, Pill D and Seventeen-Sixty are one, two and three choices. The 3-year-olds will go six furlongs in the fourth, with Doc Conner and Marshall Seth pre-post favorites.

The sixth race, a mile and 70 yards for 3-year-olds and up, brings the enduring Wrack Maid, Twelve-Sixty and Warfield together, considered the class of a field of 11.

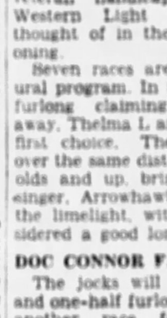
The sixth is the Inaugural Handicap, and in the seventh, closing event of the day, the pounds will go another mile and 70. All purses save the Inaugural are 600-smacker affairs.

N. Y. A. C. POLOISTS LOSE

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP.)—The Illinois Athletic Club last night dethroned the New York Athletic Club as National A. A. U. water polo champions, upsetting the Easterners, 6 to 2, in the I. A. C. pool.

Nick Altrock Says:

HEADING HOME, April 9.—Now the papers say Rogers Hornsby's heel is all better again. It must have been a tack in his shoe.



Nick Altrock

I guess the whole matter was just a publicity stunt to get as much advertising for the National League as the other circuit was getting from Babe Ruth's charley horse.

The next thing you know the press agents will be getting out bulletins when Dazzy Vance develops a pimple.

Say, did you see the nifty one Connie Mack pulled? He brought his Athletics back to Philadelphia 10 days before the season so they would have to buy their own meals. When Connie gets too old for baseball he can still manage Harry Lauder.

ANSWERS TO YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOONS — A CREOLE IS A PURE WHITE ARISTOCRAT—It is totally erroneous to apply the appellation "Creole" to a person of mixed blood. All over the world persons of the purest white descent are so designated. In the United States, the French speaking native whites of Louisiana are so termed. DAN DONNELLY COULD BUTTON HIS KNEE BREECHES WITHOUT STOOPING—The fame of Dan Donnelly, the Irish champion, survives in the famous ballad of Ireland "Donnelly and Cooper who fought upon Kildare." One of his arms is preserved in a glass case at McInerney's in Belfast, Ireland. His arms were of abnormal length, and the Irish cherish the memory of the man who could button his knee-breeches without stooping. THE BOTTLE THAT DRIFTED 9,000 MILES—The record drift of the bottle covering more than one-third of the distance around the would—9,000 miles—was accomplished in exactly 674 days. Second Officer R. M. Stall, of the tanker W. S. Miller, set the bottle adrift off the West coast of Central America on July 13, 1927. It was recovered in the Jolo Sea among the Philippine Islands on May 17, 1929. Very valuable information was procured by this drift concerning the direction of ocean currents.

N. Y. STRIKES AT WRESTLING

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—Wrestling, that highly entertaining, but much abused sport, took a pummeling yesterday from the New York State Athletic Commission.

Taking the attitude that all wrestlers were guilty of hippodroming until proved innocent, the solemn solons decided that the term "match"—indicating "contest"—could not be applied in the future to grappling carnivals within the New York state limits, when the big thunder and thud men gather, the proper terms are "shows and exhibitions," and promoters must so label the ballyhoo.

Commissioner William Muldoon, whose 85 years of wisdom include a complete understanding of wrestlers and their customs, led the attack that coincides with the recent agitation against wrestling within the 32 states and territories of the National Wrestling Association. The ancient Muldoon, a heavyweight wrestling champion, manager and promoter many years ago, has been conducting a one-man investigation himself at recent bouts here.

While no official statement of explanation was made, the commission indicated that stronger action against suspected "hippodromes" awaited only stronger and more definite evidence of collusion between combatants.

"Knowledge is one thing," one official said, "and legal proof another."

Action of the commission was the second setback professional wrestling has suffered within 10 days.

RECORD ENTRY IN SHOW

Record entries in all breeds which give promise of a five-point showing in nearly all classes gives rise to the belief that the second annual bench show, to be staged by the Washington County Kennel Club in the Coliseum at Washington, Pa., April 18 and 19, will be the biggest affair of its kind in the country this spring.

Joe Sekera vs. Otto Von Porat, 10 rounds, Dayton, O.

BY HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

With the boxing show scheduled for tonight at Duquesne Garden called off yesterday afternoon because the card was riddled by cancellations and the promoters could not line up capable substitutes on such short notice, the local ring fans today turned their attention to the Moose Temple show Friday night, featuring Mickey Solomen, of New Castle and Young Saylor, of Charleroi, in the 10-round main bout, and the duel between Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, and Vincent Hainbright, of Cincinnati scheduled at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Two of the boxers on the card planned for Duquesne Garden, Soldier Dombrowski and Tiny Groves, both of Detroit, left there yesterday before word could be sent them that the show was off, and arrived today to learn the news.

MONROE BOXES JONES

Promoter Francis Flem, of the Moose Club, completed his show for Friday with the signing of Frank Monroe, veteran middleweight, of Fair Haven to box Amos Jones, Negro, of Harlem, New York City, in the opening six-round bout. BALTIMORE, April 9.—(AP.)—Invitations to attend the annual spring meeting of the Maryland Field Trials Association, to be held at Loch Raven today and Saturday have been extended to President Hoover, his secretary Lawrence Richey, Governor Ritchie and other officials, it was announced here yesterday. Some of the best bird dogs in the Eastern part of the United States have been entered in the events.

P. WANER OUT OF PIRATE LINEUP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

MOBILE, Ala., April 9.—The big Pirate squad arrived in Mobile about 1 o'clock this afternoon after the long ride from Dallas. The much traveled athletes are beginning to show signs of the wear and tear of daily diamond action in the heat and railroad jumps. The Buccos have not been deprived of a single contest since the team left Paso Robles.

In line with his announced decision to rest his regulars a bit, Manager Ens stated this morning that Paul Waner, the willing worker of right field, would be on the bench.

Ervin Brame will start the game on the mound and it is likely that he will work at least five frames. Jim Mosolf will be in right in place of P. Waner.

BUCS BEAT STEERS

Before bidding farewell to Texas yesterday, the Freebooters handed the Dallas Steers a defeat. The game was deadlocked at five-all in the ninth when the big leaguers, aided by an infield error, pushed over three tallies. The score was 8 to 5. Jim Mosolf's single in the ninth scored George Grantham with what proved to be the winning run. But Rolly Hemsley made the verdict safe after two were out by pushing two of his mates over with a ringing double to left.

Skipper Ens went through with his idea of resting his regulars at intervals. Gus Suhr and Stewie Clarke were told they could enjoy the game from the stands, while Mosolf and Ben Sankey went into action.

Sankey performed in the shortfield, the hard-working Charley Engle moving to the hot corner, where he continued his sparkling play.

Remy Kremer lived up to his reputation of failing to fool bush leaguers. Frenchy can make the major-leaguers jump through as a rule, but the boys from the tall and uncut have a habit of teeing off on the veteran. Kremer was nicked for four runs and five hits in the first inning.

LIEF STOPS DALLAS

Lief Erickson, the durable Dane, relieved Kremer in the sixth. Lief burnt a hole right through the Steers' offensive. The big southpaw held them runless for the remainder of the contest.

The reliable Engle put the Pirates in the game in the third when he whacked one of those cleanup doubles into the left-center hole with the bases packed. All three of his buddies scampered over on the blow.

A little lefthander named Gene Moore made the Pirates look bad through part of the game. The wee southpaw was given poor support in the clinches, he operating through the nine sweltering rounds.

The weather did not appear to be quite as warm as on the previous afternoon in Forth Worth, but it was hot enough.

SUKEFORTH BATS SECOND

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 9.—(AP.)—Manager Bob Sukeforth of the Cincinnati Reds appears to have added considerable punch to the Red-leg batting order by placing Clyde Sukeforth, young catcher, in second place in the batting order.

Smilin' George Underwood, Alcoma's popular professional, is another local golf product. He has played most of his life in Western Pennsylvania, and played well. Underwood is a cousin to the Loefflers, the noted golfing family, and he inherits the love for the game. He started getting interested in golf as a caddie at the Westmoreland Country Club. In 1918 he was made caddiemaster, and in 1919 he was elevated to professional at the Montour Heights Country Club.

He stayed at Montour Heights two years. Then he went to the Butler Country Club, where he instructed until 1925. In 1926 he worked in Jamestown, N. Y., coming back the next year at the call of Alcoma. He has been with Alcoma since—starting his fourth season. Smilin' George had the distinction of playing with Bobby Jones in the recent National open at Oakmont, and last year was paired with Harry Cooper in the qualifying round for the same event. His outstanding achievement last year was winning the United States Rubber tourney. Underwood holds Alcoma's course record—a 67. He's another chap who has little to say about his game, but when he's in there he's a menace to any other contender.

THREE TEAMS ENTER LOCAL TENNIS LEAGUE

DAVIS ELECTED P. T. A. PREXY AT CONFAB

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Western Pennsylvania tennis took a tremendous boost at the P. A. A., last evening when 28 enthusiastic racquet moguls, representing no less than 14 clubs of the district, convened in annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association in session that lasted till the clock was winding up to chime a dozen. The gathering was the largest and most fruitful staged by the local net body in many years. Numerous old-timers of the sport turning out in response to special invitation and taking part in discussion that resulted in admission of three new teams into the P. T. A. Inter-Club League, as well as signal advances in junior court plans and a flock of similarly important bits of legislation.

Additions to the Inter-Club circuit are Sam Keller's Duquesne Library squad, John Ferrick's Washington Heights array and a West Penn Power crew to be led by C. D. Lyon, the entire trio of newcomers being listed for competition in Section Two of the loop to bring that wing up to a total of eight and possibly nine entrants. The Librarians had actually been assured of a place in the association at the winter seance of the governing group, but formal adoption of an official club name was required before final inscription on the rolls. Washington Heights, with home lot on Mount Washington will, like Duquesne Library, make its bow to league contesting this summer. West Penn Power, however, is an old soldier re-enlisted after several seasons out of action. The Lyons aggregation will entertain visitors at Point Breeze and will shape up as a strong combine, as, indeed, will Duquesne and the Washingtonians.

MAY REVIVE TOURING

Capt. Keller, of the Library host, further announced that the Monongah organization is eager to sponsor a revival of the famed old Allegheny County championships. This event was a yearly feature until about 1924 when the McKeesport Y. M. C. A. under the auspices of which it was customarily staged, permitted it to lapse. Duquesne Library aims to re-establish it as a Labor Day feature and hopes to add men's doubles and women's singles to the man-to-man jousting which was formerly its lone division. Ultimate decision on the county tournament is reserved for the schedule committee, which this season will join tourney development and sanction to its usual function of drawing up the Inter-Club League card, but no doubt of hearty approval of the Keller project exists.

Ed Seitz, Trafford veteran was appointed to the chairmanship of the forty-fourth annual Western Pennsylvania championships to be held in the latter part of June —very likely the week of the twenty-first—and probably at the Stanton Heights Golf Club, where the 1929 affair was put on with signal success. Seitz will be assisted by Jack Beattie, Stanton Heights; Toots Davis, University Club; Jack Lauler, P. A. A., and Frank Smith, Edgewood. Further dope on the West Penn melee, premier attraction of the Steel City campaign, will be forthcoming after a pow-wow of the Seitz quintet before the middle of the month.

Most important to future expansion of the court pastime here is the move, definitely ratified at last night's seminar, to establish a P. T. A. Junior League fashioned after the senior Inter-Club circuit. David I. McCahill, donor of the McCahill Trophy, symbolic of the Western Pennsylvania men's single title, was chosen to head a committee of five to work out details for the juvenile loop. Julius Boise, Allegheny County Club professional, voiced opinion that squads can be formed both at A. C. C. and at the Pittsburgh Golf Club, while Harold Mortlock, youthful tennis and squash instructor of the P. A. A., promised Winged Head representation in the milling, and Jack Moore, Russ Unger, George Bawin and Frank Smith held forth high hopes for entries from Rosslyn Farms, Mt. Lebanon, Westinghouse and Edgewood, respectively. A six or eight-team league is thus assuming shape, with likelihood of initiating several scores of ambitious youngsters into the delights of competitive play. Needless to remark, the ancient custom of sending the victors in the Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' championships to the national tournament as guests of the P. T. A. will be continued.

SMOKER SCHEDULED

Upon recommendation of Chairman J. Howard Moore of the Annual Dinner Committee, the previously determined idea of an association banquet on the eve of the opening of the inter-club titular drive was revised to allow for substitution of a smoker and light luncheon with entertainment and general get-together. This soiree will be reeled off at the P. A. A. on Tuesday, May 6, and if advance cheering by such eminent court celebrities as Walter Flood and Wilbur Parshley counts for aught, it ought to prove a highly popular and diverting occasion. All racqueters . . . not racketeers . . . are invited.

The annual election was productive of a partially revised slate of officers. J. Phillips (Toots) Davis, late of Stanton Heights and at present of University Club [illegible] George A. [illegible]win, Westinghouse captain, as association president. Davis ran the West Penn tourney a twelvemonth ago and a very good job of it he made, even unto the extent of showing a substantial credit financially. His regime should measure up to the prosperous and productive tenure of office of his predecessor who incidentally retains a place on the Executive Committee of the Middle States Lawn Tennis Association by unanimous P. T. A. vote.

Frank S. Smith, Edgewood ace and former Pitt luminary, holds to the first vice presidency, with Austin Famariss, slashing College Avenue southpaw, acceding to the post of second vice president to follow up Howdy Campbell, genial College Hillman. Don Mattern of University Club and Paul Sullivan of P. A. A. remain as treasurer and secretary in the order named.

SPLENDID ATTENDANCE

NO. 11—FIELDING A GROUND BALL

Eddie's chief trouble in fielding, like most young fellows, was that he fought the ball. And he tried to be fancy rather than sure.

Some one had told Ed once that in fielding a ground ball it was best to take the ball at the side, so that he would be in better position to throw.

"How many real infielders have you ever seen who took a ball on the side when the just as well could get in front of it?" I asked him.

He admitted that he didn't know any one who did that.

"All right," I told him. "Rule 1 in fielding a ground ball, then, is to get squarely in front of the ball. Rule 2 is to keep your glove well in front of your body when fielding."

"But I don't get that," he protested.

"That's so that if the ball misses your glove or if you only stop it a little bit, it can hit your body," I told him. "If you keep your hands close to your body in fielding, when you miss one it goes right on past. Fielding out front you're playing safe. Your body stops the ball and you still have a chance to pick it up and get your man."

"Another thing about fielding. Take the ball on your gloved hand as much as possible and use the other hand as a sort of cover to grab the ball after it hits your glove."

In fielding a ball, too, as in hitting or throwing, you have to be on balance. Your feet must be firmly planted, your weight evenly distributed. Good infielders are fellows who can kick a ball and still get their man. When the good infielder boots a ball he at least knocks it down in front of him so he can reach it. The bad infielder lets it get past him. Watch Frankie Frisch some time. You'll find that Frankie fails to handle a lot of balls cleanly, but when he boots one he always boots it out in front so he can recover it and get his man. That's the test of a good infielder.

"But when I field that way I can't straighten up to throw," Eddie said.

That made me laugh.

"The good infielder," I told him, "doesn't straighten up to throw. The good infielder learns to throw from any position. Stopping the ball is the thing. You've got to make the throw fit the stop—not the stop fit the throw."

TEXAS LEAGUE FINE LOOP

By Staff Correspondent.

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—That the Texas League is the best circuit of baseball outside of the majors in the opinion of more than one Pirate. The intense heat of the Class A wheel seems to enhance the grade of play, especially from the standpoint of pitchers. Curve-ball pitching is being helped by the heat which is often humid, and where you find good curve-ball twirling, the batters are up against a big handicap. The Western League, on the other hand is known as a "hitters league" on account of towns like Denver. The rarified air makes curve-ball pitching difficult.

Chillysauce

All of the Texas cities visited by the Pirates have high-grade ball parks with stands that will care for crowds up to 20,000, and the playing fields would make some of the big league magnates think about their own.

The Texas League will jump off today. Dallas and Fort Worth always open against each other owing to the natural rivalry existing between the two progressive cities. The towns are all of 30 miles apart and the opening festivities are almost like a continued festival in that they last two days. The inaugural today is at Fort Worth, with the league standing at Dallas tomorrow. The league gives a prize for the biggest opening day attendance.

Lefty Leifield, one of the greatest left handers of the Pirate history, had a peace and two bouts with some of his old cronies while the Buccos were in Fort Worth. Lefty is manager of the St. Paul club of the American Association. When he was a youthful star with the Pirates he was a defeated hero in one of two 1-to-0 games played at Exposition Park between the Cubs and the Pirates on a Fourth of July more than 20 years ago.

Leifield and Mordecai Brown tangled in the morning game. But let Lefty tell it.

"Brownie and I each pitched a no-hit game in the meeting," said Lefty, "and the strange thing was that each of us made the hit credited each team. Jimmy Slagle scored the only run of that game. I was sitting in the club house after the fight when Harry Pfeiffer entered.

"Harry was president of the league. He came over, shook my hand and remarked:

"'Young man, you will never lose another game like that.'

"The same day Vic Willis lost by the same score to Ed Reulbach."

ONLY one, Jack Britton, is still boxing. He is 44 and has been barred from boxing in many states on account of his age, but has enlisted in the National Guard of New York and soon will be fighting in the New York armories for a few hundred dollars. Jimmy Wilde owns several movie houses and dance halls in Wales and is writing for an English sporting paper. Pete Herman is in New Orleans, almost blind.

Johnny Kilbane, well-fixed, is in Cleveland. Benny Leonard has no financial problems and probably never will have any, not on account of the fact that he owns the Pittsburgh hockey club but rather in spite of it. Johnny Wilson hangs out in New York a well-known Broadway figure. Georges Carpentier is doing well as an actor and dancer, and Jack Dempsey is planning a comeback against Primo Carnera.

Jack Britton.

EVEN though he was not defending his welterweight championship in his bout with Tommy Freeman at Cleveland last night, the weight conditions being such that the title was not at stake, Jackie Fields added quite a bit to his prestige by beating the Erie boy so severely that the referee stopped the fight in the fourth round to save Tommy from further punishment.

Freeman is an able fighter and had been looked upon as certain to give Fields a much harder battle. Stopping him in so short a time would have stamped Fields a real champion, even if Jackie had not previously demonstrated his right to that rating. The proposed title tilt between Fields and Jimmy McLarnin ought to be one of the year's fistic standouts.

BOSTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Thirty-two amateur boxers remained in the National A. A. U. championship tournament today with the original field of 94 reduced to the semi-finals stage. During five hours of boxing last night, 30 bouts were put on, 14 ending in knockouts. Two other contests were settled by defaults.

WEST'S BID STRONG

Seven of the qualifiers for tonight's battling traveled across the country from California, six from San Francisco and the other from Los Angeles. The California team was the most successful of the twenty-odd that started the quest for eight undefended national titles Monday.

Three other teams were strong enough to place four competitors in the third night's action, Boston, New York and Buffalo. Cleveland, Washington and Grand Rapids each had two survivors. Sixty-two bouts were spread over two nights.

The other seven boxers remaining in the tourney represent Pittsburgh, New Orleans, Uniontown, Pa., Philadelphia, Chicago, Worcester and Portland, Ore.

Each of the eight divisions contains one or more youths with a punch.

Corbett Asks N. B. A. For Fields Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—(AP.)—Notified by the Illinois Boxing Commission that it was unable to force Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, to defend his title, Young Corbett, of Fresno, carried his grievances to the National Boxing Commission yesterday. Through his San Francisco representative, Larry White, the Fresno southpaw's check for $25,000 was mailed to the president of the National Association in Cincinnati as evidence of his readiness to meet Fields.

Corbett won a 10-round decision over Fields in a non-title bout here, February 22. Since then he has tried to force the champion into a title fight in Chicago or New York.

on that basis . . . There are a number of persons who like their wrestling the same as others go in for boxing and other sports and there is no reason why they should not get it . . . Hand Starting Blocks Year's Trial Asked

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., April 9.—(AP.)—Robert L. (Dink) Templeton, Stanford track coach, today had a letter from Maj. John L. Templeton, commenting upon the letter, declared the N. C. A. A. rules committee, meeting in St. Louis last summer, had sanctioned both hand and foot blocks, but that Griffiths, earlier this year, had written him declaring the hand blocks illegal.

Templeton said he was at a loss to interpret the second letter from Griffith.

GOLF
As Champions Play It

TO INSURE A STRAIGHT LEFT ARM AT IMPACT—

Should the left arm be straight all the time in making a stroke, or may it bend?

Answered by

EDDIE LOOS

Former California Open, Shawnee Open, Illinois P. G. A. Open, Missouri State Champion.

The idea of the straight left arm originated in the fact that it absolutely must be straight both up and down until it reaches a point a little below the shoulders. The idea is this—unquestionably it must be straight when the club connects with the ball. The safest way to accomplish this is to keep it straight as long as possible.

Keeping the left arm straight all through the backswing is simply insurance that no damaging bend will find its way in at the wrong place.

I advocate the straight left arm throughout for the majority of players. The thing to avoid is rigidity. A simple way to insure a straight left arm without rigidity is to feel a little pull at the left shoulder socket throughout the backswing and at the top.

Forbes K. Wilson, of York Harbor, Maine, former Maine state amateur champion, and George J. Voigt, of New York, defending champion, tied for third place, each with 152. Both Wilson and Voigt had rounds of 76 both days.

COAST OPENERS DRAW CROWDS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—(AP.)—Old Sol beamed down on California today as 50,000 to 60,000 fans turned out in four cities of the state for the opening games of the Pacific Coast League's 1930 baseball season.

Many of the movie prominents from Hollywood has boxes in the big $1,000,000 Wrigley Field at Los Angeles where Mayor John Porter tossed the first ball of the Portland-Los Angeles contest.

Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, dropped politics long enough to hustle out to Recreation Park and pitch the first ball, thus starting the Seals and the Seattle Indians off in the 1930 race.

HEINIE BOLL SIGNS WITH HOMEWOOD CLUB

VETERAN STAR JOINS DALY OUTFIT

By TOM BIRKS.

Heine Boll, leading third baseman of the Pittsburgh sandlots, has agreed to terms with Manager Hank Daly of the Homewood-Brushton club of the West Penn League and again will lead the East Enders on the playing field this season. This news will probably make the sandlot followers of the East End feel good, as the presence of the popular Lawrenceville man in any lineup means fight and punch.

Heine Boll.

Manager Daly had quite a long talk with Boll regarding the makeup of the club for the coming season's campaign. And while the retrenchment policy is going to be carried out, it will also find a good ball club playing around Boll when the season opens.

GOOD HURLERS

The battery Daly and Boll expects to win many games in the West Penn will be Bimmy Steele and Bill Schulties, with Stauffer as the relief man. Despite rumors to the contrary, Bierworth will not be catching with the East Enders. Schulties has been a faithful worker and has much ability, and while he never had speed to burn, that hard-hitting war club will give the opposing pitchers in the West Penn plenty over which to get excited.

Boll will be at third, Kestner at short, Wago Anthony at second and possibly Dick Goldberg on the initial sack. The outfield will find Brown, of St. Johns, Gibson, and probably Ollie Carnegie playing center field. That appears to be the makeup of the club as agreed upon, but, of course, something might crop up to stop negotiations.

TOUGH CIRCUIT

Daly realizes that the West Penn is going to be tough and Boll backed up that idea by stating that the younger players never quit trying.

"Last season we had to go nine innings to nose out the Homestead Aces by a single run, and had a fight on our hands all the way," he said.

Whittaker, Verona Community, Wilmerding with the famous Eddie Artmann coaching; Universal, North Bessemer and Dormont all are good baseball towns, and the makeup of these clubs is unknown.

Daly insists many of the younger boys around the East End, from the Lincoln Civics, East End Cardinals, Hermitage Pirates, and other clubs will get a chance to step into faster company. And under the coaching of Heine Boll should learn lots of baseball.

Bunts

Walter Walts, former star shortstop, will coach the Lincoln Civics in the Central League this season. The Civics will hold a dance at the Masonic Temple, Wilkinsburg, tomorrow. The Civics are booking independent games for the season. Write John Dotterweich, 1319 Alvarez street, or call Hiland 3680-J.

The Dan Heep Baseball Club will hold its first practice session Saturday afternoon at Graham Field. New players will be included in the Heeps' squad this season, including Sadoff, from Homer City, and Grim, now coach at Wilkinsburg High School. The Heeps are booking games. Write E. M. Courage, 1209 Sherman street, Wilkinsburg or call Penhurst 1729 in the evening.

Eddie Imhoff, who has been working in the Etna Bowling Alleys during the winter, has started to work with the Bellesby company and will pitch in the Philadelphia Company League games. Imhoff, however, will work one game a week with the Etna Furnitures in the Central League. The Etna boys are expecting much competition in the Central and Imhoff is going to help them try to cop the title. Etna expects to book an extensive independent program.

There is a vacancy for a good club in the 19-year-old class with Honus Wagner's Minor League. Managers wishing to get in touch with a real organization should call Home at Grant 5080.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BOXING

For another season Spike Webb's Navy boxers have won all their dual meets only to see the Penn State team outscore them in the championships. There is no question about Penn State's class. Leo Houck's proteges certainly passed the mustard when the big test came. However, considering the immaturity and youth of his material, due to the age regulations at the Naval Academy, Spike Webb certainly works wonders with his lads in teaching the art of self defense.

Intercollegiate boxing in the East is a major sport and has the interest of the student bodies. The competition is put on a very high plane both from the point of view of ethics and the behavior of the crowd. This sport seems destined to grow from year to year both in interest and popularity.

WARNER'S HIGH FOR QUARTER PROBABLE

Estimate $2.17 a Share In Period Ending May 30; Economies Now Evident

NEW YORK, April 9.—Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., has completed one month of the third quarter of its fiscal year, and from advance bookings it is probable that net will make a new high record for any three months period in the history of the company. Profits in the curernt quarter ending May 30 will probably approximate $6,000,000 equal after estimating preferred dividends, to about $2.17 a share on 2,725,000 common shares.

In the first quarter of the fiscal year, which ended November 30, Warner reported a net profit of $5,629,109, equal after charges to $2.07 a share on 2,645,864 shares of common stock then outstanding.

GOOD SIX MONTHS

The report for the second quarter, which ended February 28, has not yet been made public, but it is likely to show a net profit of approximately $4,500,000, a new record for any second quarter, equal to about $1.65 a share on the common stock, after preferred dividend requirements. The decline from the first quarter earnings is partly seasonal, but is mainly due to the fact that no outstanding successes were released during the period, most of the year's leading films being released in the first and third quarters.

Thus in the first six months of the fiscal year Warner will report a total net profit of around $10,100,000, which is equal, after preferred dividend, to around $3.67 a share on the 2,725,000 shares of common now outstanding.

PROGRESS STEADY

A net of $6,000,000 in the third quarter will bring the total for nine months to above $16,000,000, or $5.40 a share. Profits in the final quarter are normally the smallest, since it includes the three summer months, and probably will not exceed $4,500,000. This would give Warner a total net profit for the 1930 fiscal year approaching $20,500,000, against a total net of $17,271,806 earned by the company and all of its subsidiaries in fiscal year ended August 31, 1929. The per share comparison would be $7.52 against $6.34 in 1929, on present common share basis.

Steady progress is being made in consolidating the various properties acquired last year which was Warner's greatest year of expansion, and the whole system is now running smoothly with importing operating economies beginning to take effect.

Stocks Turn Strong — Broad Trading Here

STOCK MARKET PRICES TURN STRONG

Long List of Shares Show Gains in Load Buying Movement in Afternoon

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP.)—The stock market turned strong today after an early period of irregularity. Early declines of 1 to 3 points in a rather long list of issues were cut down or converted into gains, and a number of stocks marked up 1 to 10 points in the broad buying movement which developed in the early afternoon. Trading showed a tendency to turn dull on the declines and to increase on the rallies.

Early selling was inspired largely by the reported falling off in steel mill operations. Bear traders tried to capitalize this development by a series of attacks against the steel shares and specialties, but they failed to dislodge much long stock. Meanwhile pool operators brought forward new leaders and apparently succeeded in attracting an outside following.

A reduction from 4 to 3½ per cent in the call money rate helped to stimulate bullish operations. The recent decline in commercial borrowings disclosed in the weekly Federal Reserve Bank statement, in contrast to the usual seasonal increase at this time of the year, was stressed by some observers as an unfavorable factor.

BUILDING PERMITS

Bradstreet's reported that the total value of building permits in 193 cities in March was $149,781,491 as contrasted with $104,205,106 in February and $361,006,272 in March of last year.

Iron age stated that "with tendencies mixed and in many instances neutralizing one another, the iron and steel market lacks a definite trend." Operations of the U. S. Steel Corporation are reported to have declined from 81 to 77 per cent of capacity and for the country at large from 78 to 76 per cent. One of the other weekly trade journals, however, reports an increase in operations.

J. I. CASE SOARS

J. I. Case was again a spectacular feature in today's market, soaring 10 points to a new high at 300, which contrasts with the year's low of 192¼.

U. S. Steel Common, after selling down 1⅛ points to 193¾, rallied to above 196. Bethlehem Steel and Ludlum also were heavy in the early trading.

A late buying movement in American Telephone lifted the shares to 274, duplicating the year's peak and representing an overnight gain of 6 points. Other investment utilities also advanced briskly, Brooklyn Union Gas climbing 6¾. Public Service of New Jersey 4½ and Consolidated Gas and Standard Gas and Electric 3½. Auburn Auto rose more than 9 points and Air Reduction 5½. The close was strong. Sales approximated 5,200,000 shares.

Bernhard, vice president; C. A. Marsh, vice president; Richard J. Blum, secretary and treasurer; Bernard Freeman, assistant secretary.

The directors elected were: R. E. Bernhard, Richard J. Blum, Louis Caplan, Bernard F. Gimbel, Daniel Gimbel, Richard Gimbel, J. Oscar Greenwald, James Hammond, Michael A. Hanson, Henry C. Link, Charles A. Marsh, John J. McGowan.

Justice Bailey Hits Oil Conservation

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Justice Bailey, in Supreme Court of District of Columbia, today said he would grant writs of mandamus to compel Secretary of Interior Wilbur to reinstate the oil and gas prospecting permits of Richard Vedder, of California, and Roy Barton, of New Mexico, on public lands under the act of February 25, 1920. The court holds that the Secretary of Interior has misconstrued the intention of Congress in passing the act, which was intended to encourage development of lands instead of suspending prospective operations.

Australians Refuse Wool Pool Offer

SYDNEY, N. S. W., April 9.—A conference of sheep grazers today adopted a resolution in favor of establishment of empire wool control, turning down a proposal for an Australian pool.

Sir John Higgins, chairman of the Commonwealth Central Wool Committee, was quoted as saying it would be possible to handle an empire pool on £50,000,000. It was proposed that the pool be formed in Australia with Africa and New Zealand joining later.

Central Ohio Steel Earns $3.13 Share

Central Ohio Steel Products Compan reports for year ended December 31, 1929, net profit of $100,277 after depreciation but before federal taxes, equivalent to $3.13 a share on 32,000 shares of capital stock. This compares with $83,195 after taxes in 1928 equivalent to $2.76 a share on 20,000 shares of common stock after deducting dividends on $400,000 of preferred stock.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 9.—Cotton opened steady today unchanged to a decline of 11 points on the active positions selling about 6 to 13 points net lower during the first few minutes under a renewal of near month realizing or liquidation and some scattered selling brought in by the unsettled ruling of yesterday's market. Spot buyers were keen on May against sales of July or later deliveries, however, and prices stiffened right after the opening.

May advanced to 16.47c or 5 points net higher and increased its premium over the later months with the new October selling at 16.37c or a point above yesterday's closing quotation. The market was nervous and irregular at the end of the first hour.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau appeared to attract very little attention during the early trading with interests evidently centering in the old crop positions.

Liverpool cables said that continental buying and trade calling had been supplied by liquidation with speculative interest lacking.

Prices held fairly steady during the middle of the morning, but eased later under another flurry of realizing or liquidation with May selling off to 16.26c and the new October to 16.22c or about 8 to 9 points net lower. Trading was quiet and prices within a point or two of the lowest at midday. The May position held a premium of about 35 or 36 points over New Orleans.

LIVERPOOL, April 9.—Cotton—Spot in fair demand; prices lower; American strict good middling, 9.81d; good middling, 9.29d; strict middling, 8.91d; middling, 8.66d; strict low middling, 8.31d; low middling, 7.76d; strict good ordinary, 7.21d; good ordinary, 6.81d. Sales, 7,000 bales, including 3,300 American. Receipts, 7,000, American, 2,500. Futures closed steady: May, 8.39d; July, 8.85d; October, 8.27d; December, 8.29d; January, 8.30d; March, 8.360.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 9.—The curb market once more turned emphatically upward today under the influence of heavy buying of selected issues. While speculative sentiment remained somewhat cautious, there was a feeling that the market's position had been improved by the moderate reaction yesterday.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Unpopular Head Makes Company Unprofitable

By B. C. FORBES

MANY successful business men take time to do disinterested things for others. A friend tells me that H. M. Warner, one of the Warner brothers of motion picture fame, has been taking great delight in fitting up a unique home and talkie for a New York hospital which contains a large number of patients who cannot sit up but have to lie flat on their backs.

Cots are trundled into this unique "theater," and the picture is thrown on the ceiling. Thus the invalids can see and enjoy each show in comfort.

Mr. Warner is quoted as having declared that he has derived more satisfaction out of this little hobby than in anything he has ever achieved in the workaday, money-making world.

PROBABLY a larger percentage of big bosses are popular today than was the case in the old days. The reason is that the most intelligent executives today realize the infinite importance of winning the good will of their own people. Instead of sitting coldly aloof from the workers, in solitary grandeur, like a king on a throne, the typical modern executive mingles at every opportunity with his co-workers, making frequent trips through factories.

Grover Whalen, who was general manager of Wanamaker's before becoming the police commissioner of New York, has succeeded in earning that cordial loyalty of the city's vast police force. An ordinary policeman gives me this incident:

"We were sitting around eating lunch in our quarters one day when who should come in but the Commissioner. You can bet your shoes we were all taken aback—some of us were in our shirt-sleeves and all of us were taking things easy. The first crack from the Commissioner was 'Hello boys. Have you a spare plate?' And the Commissioner, without any fuss, sat down with us and ate the same lunch that we were having. He is a real fellow, all right."

The day is coming when an unpopular chief executive will mean an unprofitable organization.

THE latest figures show that California's oil production is being curtailed. This doesn't mean, however, that oil producers are getting less money for their week's output. What has happened is this:

Last fall, when all efforts to cure gross overproduction had failed, the leading refiners made a very drastic cut in the price of crude oil in the flushfields. That did the trick. A curtailment program, to last until February 1, was promptly arranged.

Then President Kingsbury of the Standard Oil of California announced a substantial increase in the price he was willing to pay for crude. The curtailment plan worked so well that it was renewed, with changes found desirable, and now the situation is more satisfactory all round than it was when cut-throat competition which flooded the market sent prices to unprofitable levels.

The American public would benefit in the end were there brought out of the ground only sufficient oil to meet all requirements, and reasonable prices charged. Our oil is too precious a national asset—and too vital a war-time weapon—to be criminally wasted.

THE suggestion made in this column the other day by Lee Marshall, president of the Continental Baking Corporation, that the best cure for current over-production of wheat would be for Americans to consume something like as much wheat as Europeans consume, evoked prompt responses. One poultry-raiser, who says "something like 30 per cent of hens' food is wheat," declares that if poultry farmers could get GOOD wheat, instead of the screenings they now get, it would pay them to use a great deal more at a price satisfactory to growers.

The most popular idea apparently is that America should feed starving Chinese. C. Nesbitt Duffy writes from San Rafel, California:

"Suggest American people buy 120,000,000 surplus bushels and ship to China to feed starving Chinese, especially those under missionaires. American Chinese consul could be distributor—or, better still, convert wheat into flour and ship to China. I will pledge purchase of one thousand bushels wheat or its equivalent in flour to start the movement. Suggest you get Hearst newspapers to sponsor this proposition."

THE solution of the long-drawn-out Fox battle is a peculiarly happy one. The new interests are capable, responsible, progressive. The best men in the Fox organization are being retained. William Fox, a genius in his way, will be available for consultation, but he will not be in a position to get the enterprise into trouble by overrapid expansion regardless of financial ways and means.

HIGH-UPS in the financial world still counsel caution. Stockmarkets rise. But they are bearish only on the nearby outlook, not the longer outlook.

EXPERTS SEE YOUNG PLAN CHANGES

Economists of Europe Express Skepticism on Form as It Now Stands

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Sentiment is growing in Germany to put its real ability to pay reparations to a test, instead of continuing to borrow in New York to pay out indemnities to the Allies.

The German government, which supervises foreign financing, has shown a disposition to discourage borrowing. This situation is of direct interest to the American investor, in view of the probable attempt to do reparation financing in the United States after the newly formed Bank for International Settlements has been set in motion.

Frankly European economic experts are by no means certain that the Young plan can be carried out without further revision. Hartley Withers, former editor of the Economist, London, in contributing to a symposium on the subject, reflected the prevailing skepticism, saying:

"The question 'How long will the Young plan last before it needs revision?' depends for its answer much more on the power of the world demand to absorb German goods and services, than on the power of Germany to produce them. As to this latter end of the problem, there seems to be little or no doubt. With her industrious and disciplined labor, and her careful, hard working and highly intelligent management, Germany should easily be able to deliver the goods, if other countries will absorb them.

CAN PAY EASILY

"The fact that she did fulfill the requirements of the Dawes plan, by which $125,000,000 had to be paid, and that in a year in which she was not only unable to borrow abroad, but funds were being withdrawn from her for use in Wall street, makes it at first sight apparent that the lighter burden imposed by the Young plan can easily be met.

"Considerations into which I have no space to enter make this doubtful; but if world trade expands as it might if it were given a chance by central banks and politicians, if a recovery in world prices of primary products increases the buying power of the agricultural countries, and if the free flow of capital, instead of being frozen hard because an ample stock of gold is reduced by gold-scrambling tactics, is allowed to stimulate development, the surplus of exports that Germany has to find should easily find a market. But if governments continue to raise tariff barriers and central banks resume the gold-hoarding habit, the Young plan will soon come up for revision."

The widespread fears of a gold shortage can be offset by intelligent co-operative central bank management. Incidentally, for more than a year, Canada has been off a strictly gold basis.

BANK CHIEF SOURCE

With the sharp rise in brokers' loans in recent weeks, it is important to remember that the funds have been supplied mainly through banking channels, whereas before the panic, bootleg non-banking lenders were important contributors. The banks themselves were partly responsible for the pre-panic loss of control of the situation because of their policy of keeping the interest rates on deposits at artificially low rates fixed by custom, instead of reflecting to some extent prevailing tendencies in the price for money as European banks do.

W. Randolph Burgess, of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, has wisely called attention to the banking need of recognizing speculation as a legitimate function and setting up a mechanism for better controlling the flow of funds into the security markets.

Crucible Steel Co. Gets Tax Refund

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The Champion Spark Plug Company has been awarded abatements of taxes and credits totaling $222,159 for over-assessment of taxes in 1918 and 1919, reports the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

A refund of $84,218 and a credit of $66,968 has been awarded to the United States Industrial Alcohol Company for over-assessments in 1924-25 and 1926.

The Crucible Steel Company of America has been credited with $62,865 against future payment of taxes and refunded $3,288.

Young Upholds Pole System at Inquiry

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Governor Roy A. Young of Federal Reserve Board, told House Banking and Currency Committee that he did not believe result of extension of branch banking as proposed by Controller of Currency Pole would tend to draw money away from small communities to larger centers, which has been one of chief complaints against extension of branch banking. He said, on the contrary, extension of branch banking would aid the borrower in small western towns rather than hurt him.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 9.—Investment bonds moved irregularly in today's market. Gains and losses of about half a point were well mixed during the earlier dealings, especially in the rail group, which has been unsettled in the last fortnight.

STEEL TREND INDEFINITE

NEW YORK, April 9.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

With tendencies mixed and in many instances neutralizing one another, the iron and steel market lacks a definite trend. Open weather has brought a rise in seasonal demands and a further expansion is seen in the requirements of the automobile industry, but specifications from the railroads are being curtailed and heavy construction work is subnormal.

Steel ingot output for the country at large has receded to 76 per cent, compared with 78 per cent a week ago. The Steel Corporation average has declined from 81 per cent to 77 per cent of capacity.

This setback, after two weeks of moderate expansion in production, is partly a reflection of retrenchment by the carriers.

Fabricated steel awards, at 33,000 tons, are not impressive, although 11,000 tons larger than a week ago.

Favorable influences include expanding business in gas and oil pipe lines, an increase of 10 per cent in motor car production and a large amount of prospective highway and other public work.

Further expansion of motor car production, will be conditioned by dealers' sales, and, while these have not been notably large, they are expected to respond to more favorable weather. Shipbuilding, which has been active for several months, promises to continue to take a steady volume of steel. Twelve mail contract vessels will soon be placed.

The steel corporation's report of unfilled orders as of March 31 to expected to show little change, since reduced bookings were matched to a large extend by curtailed shipments.

Scrap markets continue to weaken, and heavy melting steel has declined 50c a ton at Philadelphia and 25c at Pittsburgh and St. Louis. Finished steel prices have not yet stabilized.

WEEK'S FREIGHT LOADINGS UP

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP.)—Freight traffic volume on American railroads is showing some signs of recovery from the slump into which it was projected during the early weeks of 1930. Figures which follow—furnished by the American Railway Association—give the total number of cars loaded with revenue freight for the latest week estimated and comparable periods: Week ending March 29, 885,158 cars; preceding week, 875,542 cars; same week last year, 969,196 cars.

Miscellaneous freight loadings for the week ended March 29 aggregated 355,460 cars, a decrease of 63,502 cars below the corresponding week of 1929; loadings of merchandise less than carload lot, 215,121, decrease 21,018; coal, 147,600, increase, 21,164; forest products, 55,664, decrease, 15,491; ore, 9,254, decrease, 2,634; coke, 10,431, decrease, 1,140; grain and grain products, 38,056, decrease, 1,396; livestock, 23,573, a decrease of 20 cars.

Illuminated and Powered By Natural Gas

The most spectacular public utility development in this country during the next decade promises to be in natural gas. Great companies are to become super corporations. Smaller companies will become giants.

The owner of shares of a well-managed natural gas company holds opportunity at the maximum. Two billion dollars are already invested in the industry. From coast to coast natural gas lines are pushing out in every direction. Millions of potential users assure a market for every cubic foot that can be produced and piped.

The next phase of American progress is likely to be illuminated and powered by natural gas.

Would you know more about the opportunities in natural gas developments, and natural gas stock?

We will send you a booklet on the subject together with the history of a company whose security offers an opportunity, for participation in an established, progressive natural gas enterprise, backed by proven and potential reserves, and serving a territory which might well be termed in the industrial heart of the nation.

Spectacular Trading in R-K-O Revives Rumor Of Loew's Tieup.

SPECTACULAR trading in Radio-Keith-Orpheum, which rose more than 4 points to new high levels for the year yesterday, served to revive reports which had been current some months ago that the company would ultimately wind up with a considerably larger interest in the theaters field. At that time it was reported the company would acquire the Fox Film Company's holdings in Loews, Inc., and yesterday that report was in the air again, with the market relations of the stocks of Radio-Keith-Orpheum and Loew's, Inc., being looked upon as at levels which indicated a possible exchange of shares on the basis of two Radio-Keith-Orpheum for one Loew's. Radio-Keith shareholders approved an increase in authorized "A" stock to 4,500,000 shares from 3,500,000, of which 1,808,409 shares were outstanding.

Selling which came into steel common yesterday was attributed largely to the belief that the tonnage statement for March due at noon on Thursday will show something in the way of a decrease in the total of unfilled orders on hand. If a decrease is shown and the high ratio of mill operations and shipments during the month would tend to support such expectations, it would be the first drop in the backlog of business reported by the corporation since last August, when a falling off of 429,966 tons was shown. The Street had been disposed to look for a drop in total tonnage a month ago, when the February figures came to hand, but found a pleasant surprise in the increase of 11,038 tons then reported.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH was inclined to reaction with selling here influenced in a measure by reports that the management is not contemplating any special action such as a splitup of the stock or a distribution of any part of its assets. The statement attributed to the management, however, appeared to lack the full degree of finality that had marked denials of such reports on occasion a year or so back. Wall Street has not been anticipating any immediate action of the sort, but still hold persistently to the belief that some means of bringing the stock down to more attractive price levels must be undertaken in the reasonably near future if the aim of the company for ever widening distribution of its shares is to rule.

The automobile shares were returned to greater speculative favor during yesterday's session under the leadership of General Motors which moved into new high ground for the year on the heaviest turnover in some weeks. Chrysler, responding to a strong bull tip, was also heavily bought moving ahead smartly. Strength in these two leaders was the more interesting in view of the fact that their reports for the March quarter should be available shortly. Bullish operations in the motors which, for months, have lagged behind the general list on the recovery, undoubtedly had its basis principally in the expectation that more open weather now prevailing will tend to stimulate sales which until now have been rather disappointing with most companies.

SO far as the bulls were concerned yesterday, they found reason for consolation in the evident slackening of the pace of activity when selling got the upper hand. The volume of trading ran well under that of recent days. When the market turns reactionary, it is, according to precedent, accepted as indicating that no heavy pressure of liquidation is threatened. Against this the faction which has been looking for a substantial setback which it believes warranted and necessary to restore technical strength, held to the belief that the more frequent periods of reaction during the last few days indicated the market is tired and in need of such correction.

Wall Street is deeply interested in the identity of the probable successor to the place of the late Nicholas F. Brady as chairman of the board of the New York Edison Company and director of the Consolidated Gas Company. For some time past it has been contended that the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, together with the banking interests behind it, now represent the largest single interest in the Consolidated Gas Company. Election of a man, representative of such banking interests, would be accepted in local public utility circles as more or less confirming this changed situation in Consolidated gas and as suggesting an early deal between that company and Niagara Hudson.

Penna. R. R. in Alliance With F. E. Taplin

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THAT F. E. Taplin, president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company, has been working in close cooperation with the Pennsylvania Railroad has been made certain through the disclosure of the holdings of the Pennroad Corporation. An alliance between these rail interests has been believed to exist for the past year in spite of several denials.

The Pennroad Corporation, controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad, holds 222,930 shares of Pittsburgh and West Virginia stock. This amounts to a 73.7 per cent interest. But instead of voting the stock, the Pennroad Corporation has left the shares in the name of Taplin. This has been done under an agreement, that Pennroad would do nothing to interfere with the Taplin management.

So far as Taplin is concerned, it appears to be a case of having his cake and eating it too.

Hold On Fifth System

THE holdings of Pennroad Corporation were made public at the investigation of the House Committee on Interstate Commerce into the relationships of holding companies to railroad consolidations. Unless this investigation results in new legislation which will put holding companies under Interstate Commerce Commission regulation, the Pennsylvania will have a dominant interest in the proposed Wabash trunk line system.

Pennsylvania has about 43 per cent of the voting stock of Wabash. It also has a large interest in Norfolk and Western. This road and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia are both slated to go into the Wabash system under the Interstate Commerce Commission consolidation plan. It is certain that the commission would object to one of the five eastern trunk line systems controlling another.

Wabash Plan

THE alliance between Taplin and the Pennsylvania Railroad first became apparent when the Wabash filed its consolidation plan with the commission. This plan proposed to make the Taplin Great Lakes to Seaboard trunk lines a part of the Wabash. The Wabash plan has since been replaced by the official Interstate Commerce Commission consolidation program.

The Taplin line, which is also scheduled to go to the Wabash under the commission merger plan, would be formed by the consolidation of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia with the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland. The extension of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia to Connellsville, now under construction, will make such a step physically possible.

Pennsylvania Sues Itself

THE fact that the Pennsylvania owns the Pittsbugh and West Virginia but does not manage it has resulted in a peculiar situation. The latter road recently asked permission to build a 6½ mile branch of its new extension from Jacobs Creek to Baird. This would tie the line to the Donora and Southern which serves several important industrial plants. At present the Pennsylvania is the only line able to handle freight in the vicinity.

On March 24 the Pennsylvania filed a petition in the federal court here asking an injunction restraining the Pittsburgh and West Virginia from building the branch. For all practical purposes the Pennsylvania is taking legal action against itself.

Apparently the agreement made with Taplin does not prevent him from expanding his road in competition with the Pennsylvania. While the action resulted in much surprise among railroad men, it is quite logical. The Pennsylvania will be assured of the traffic in the locality so long as it is the only line there. While the extension would help the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and incidentally improve the Pennsylvania's investment, the relationship between the roads may sometime be severed by legal action if legislation is passed giving the commission control of holding companies.

PAPER REPORTS LARGER NET

NEW YORK, April 9.—The International Paper and Power Company, in its annual report issued today, shows a deficit after the payment of preferred and Class A common dividends of $4,822,748. This compares with a deficit, after payment of dividends, of $4,706,404 in 1928.

Net earnings, before dividends, for 1929, equaled $4,011,762, or $4.41 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock, against $3,949,206 reported for 1928. This was accomplished, the report points out, despite the fact that newsprint prices in such markets as New York and Chicago averaged $5.50 a ton below the prices of 1928.

International Hydro-Electric System, International Paper's power and utility holding company, reports for the period from April 1 to December 31, 1929, consolidated net income of $1,837,541, after all charges equal to annual rate of $4.25 a share on average Class "A" stock.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Cheer Leader

"THIS year it will be a dance," Beatrice Erskine said to her father.

"Why a dance, Bee? Dances are nothing unusual."

"Now, Dad, you are awfully keen about little trifles like merging railroads and shipping lines, but when it comes to this sort of thing, well, you're rather hopeless."

John G Erskine playfully pretended to hand his daughter an upper-cut which she stopped and countered with a poke in his ribs that tickled all of which was a sure sign that multi-millionaire John G and his charming only child, Bee were still extremely fond of each other.

"I'll diagram it for you," Bee said. "The object is to raise money for Whitestone's community fund. This season it happens that there are more than the usual number of young people out here in the colony and the two hotels also run to young folks more than veranda gossips. Young people prefer dancing to bazars, charades or what else, and I'm out for money."

So it was arranged.

There were perhaps 30 handsome summer homes in the colony on the headland. These summer visitors kept rather to themselves with their own private beach.

In Whitestone were two immense summer hotels.

The result was that the sleepy little fishing village awakened to great activity during at least three months of the year. And ever since Bee Erskine was 16, which means for four summers, she had arranged some sort of an event at which rather stiff prices were paid and all of the proceeds went into the village community fund.

The summer home owners in the colony all responded by taking tickets and many of them attended. At the two big hotels the guests grabbed the tickets—it was one chance where the two-week vacationer could mingle with the wealthy, and it was worth it to them.

Plans Go Wrong

On the south terrace of the Erskine place a temporary but excellent dancing floor was put down. The grounds were gay with banners and illuminations.

At the very last minute word came to Bee Erskine that her orchestra from the city couldn't play—some sort of musicians' strike. Bee was frantic.

Bee went over to see Mr. Spaulding, owner of the big Cliff House.

He would be very glad to let her have the small hotel orchestra, he said, only the leader had that afternoon broken his arm in a tumble from the rocks.

"It is a perfect night, we've taken in a record amount of money for the community club and I can't fail," Bee wailed. "I just must go through with it."

Bee was talking with Mr. Spaulding in his small office. As she said this a young man came to the open window.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Spaulding," he said. "I wasn't eavesdropping, but mention of an orchestra caused me to overhear. Perhaps I could help the young lady out—"

He turned and looked at Bee. Instantly he became a trifle embarrassed. Other girls had never embarrassed him, but other girls had never appealed to him like this.

"Oh, would you? Could you?" Bee said, flashing a smile at him. Then she stared a moment and lowered her gaze. Here was a young man who interested her at first sight.

"You are a musician, Mr. Destin?" Mr. Spaulding asked. "Could you lead my hotel orchestra?"

"Why, yes. I am a musician of sorts, a violinist. I believe I could pinch-hit for the evening to help the young lady—to help in a good cause."

Mr. Spaulding introduced Miss Beatrice Erskine and Mr. Carl Destin.

"I'll go and see the boys," Carl said, "and look over their music. What time shall we show up, Miss Erskine?"

"We start the dancing at nine, Mr. Destin, and it is certainly kind of you to break up your vacation by doing this when I suppose you came here just to rest and get away from that sort of thing."

Spaulding's Theory

Carl murmured something polite and went to find the musicians.

"Know nothing about him, Miss Erskine," Mr. Spaulding told her, "except that he is here for a month's vacation, has been very quiet and gentlemanly and I hope he isn't so amateurish that he spoils everything. You know he might be offering this just to get in over at the colony—so many try—you know what I mean."

"That's so, but what am I to do? He looks trustworthy." Bee almost said that he looked "interesting."

The rear windows were open. Bee went around and looked in. Carl Destin was talking to the five musicians. He tapped with his bow and they started playing. They played well. They seemed to be able to follow every gesture of Carl. When they finished he came down to the open window.

"It won't be a Vinton Whitely orchestra, Miss Erskine," he said, "but I think we can manage well enough for the dancing."

"It was really splendid—how can I ever thank you, Mr. Destin?"

He wanted to say that she might continue to smile on him forever, but he murmured something and went back to his rehearsal.

Bee Erskine's open-air dance was a huge success. The music was all that was necessary and Carl Destin seemed to be an accomplished player. Twice he rendered a solo that won big applause and personal thanks from Bee.

The next day Bee met him in town as she was turning over the big profits to the local treasurer of the community club. Bee was clever. She told him frankly enough that she wouldn't be so crude as to offer him money for his services, since he had volunteered, but she felt that the other players should be paid.

He thanked her and said that it wouldn't be necessary. A little later Bee learned that Carl Destin had paid the men himself.

That was the way the friendship started.

Carl, she learned, was leader of an orchestra in a modern "cathedral of modern pictures," as it was advertised.

Bee Is Disappointed

Back in the city Bee went one evening to hear him play.

She went again and again.

One evening Carl wasn't conducting. She was disappointed, and was going to leave when Carl appeared and took the seat beside her.

"I—er—changed for tonight," he explained, "because I hoped you'd come. I wanted to see you," he explained, honestly enough. "I saw you so often, you know, you are fond of pictures, aren't you?"

"Oh, yes, but more fond of music. You have a wonderful orchestra," Bee confessed.

After that Bee had Carl at her home for many an afternoon tea. He played some of his own compositions for her and confessed that he was saving money to study abroad, as his ambition was the concert stage and the symphony orchestras.

They went to afternoon concerts together quite often and of course John G. Erskine took notice of it.

"Just who is this chap I find underfoot around her so frequently?" he asked his daughter.

She told him.

"Oh, yes, the fiddler chap who helped out last summer, eh?"

Somewhat later John G. Erskine, who never beat about the bush in anything, said: "Look here, Bee, you aren't getting too interested in this chap, are you?"

Bee looked her father in the eyes.

"I'm in love with him," she said.

He laughed uneasily. "Oh, that. You girls fall in and out of love regularly—"

"Not that kind of love. I want to marry him."

"Nonsense—he's after your money!"

"He hasn't proposed. I know he loves me—it's the darn money that scares him—"

"Scares him? You mean he's afraid he won't land it?"

"I'm going to marry him, if I have to do the proposing. I tell you I'm in love for the first time, Dad, and—"

"Snap out of it, Bee. Use your head! I won't permit you to marry a cheap fiddler."

Bee got red in the face.

Trouble Forecasted

"He is an artist, not a cheap fiddler!"

"He is a cheap fiddler—you can't marry him." Erskine barked. He seldom refused her anything. When he did, he meant it.

"The irresistible force has met the immovable body—looks like trouble, Dad." Bee said, and hurried up to her room for a little cry.

But she continued to meet Carl, and her father decided that he would investigate. He was sure that Bee was silly, because Destin had yellow, wavy hair and conducted gracefully.

He went to the theater one night, trailing Bee, who had gone ahead in an ordinary taxi.

Erskine could see Bee staring at this orchestra leader. He hated him, he hated his profession. He muttered, "Poser, cheap fiddler—I'll buy him off."

People became uneasy. There was a smell of acrid smoke in the house—then smoke was visible. Cries of "Fire!" were heard and a stampede started. Erskine tried to get down [illegible] reach Bee but couldn't. [illegible] fool started to lower the or[illegible]ra platform.

Carl Destin stepped up on the outer rail and proceeded to play. He smiled and played as the orchestra disappeared, as smoke curled around him.

People stopped to stare. Carl played and smiled. People stopped fighting to get out. The crowd quieted. The smoke disappeared. The manager announced that a small blaze below the stage had been extinguished.

People cheered Carl. The lights went down and the picture went on—a sound picture, no orchestra was used. Erskine saw someone come down the aisle and take Bee out. He followed and met them outside.

"Dad," Bee said, with tears in her eyes, "what do you think of my cheap fiddler?"

John G. Erskine turned and put his hand on Carl's shoulder.

"Great stuff," he said, "and you are my idea of a great guy—son!"

MY STARS IT'S GETTING SO THAT EVERY TIME A PERSON TURNS AROUND THEY HEAR THAT MAN NEXT DOOR RAISING A FUSS IN THE HALL.
IT'LL BE DIFFERENT FROM NOW ON. THE TWO MEN HE PUSHED AROUND LAST WEEK CAME BACK TO COLLECT FOR LETTING HIM DO IT.
WHEN HE REFUSED TO PAY THEM $30 THEY KNOCKED ABOUT $80 WORTH OF DENTISTRY LOOSE. AFTER THEY LEFT I HELPED CARRY HIM INTO HIS FLAT AND LAY HIM ON A LOUNGE.
IMAGINE! HOW SILLY! HIRING TWO MEN TO LET HIM STRIKE THEM. SUCH A BUSINESS!
I KNOW HIS WIFE IS THE ONE WHO TALKED HIM INTO DOING THAT. SHE'S JUST THE SORT WHO'D THINK OF A LOW AFFAIR LIKE THIS.
THEY BOTH LEARNED A WONDERFUL LESSON. ONE OF HIS EYES LOOKS LIKE THE BIG END OF A TELEPHONE RECEIVER.

WE have been asked by the Health Department to say that there is an epidemic of spotted fever, or measle rash, breaking out locally. In fact, the health commissioner kindly consented to pose for the above picture, to show people how to recognize this malady at a glance. Lower Market Expense Would Please Tax-Payer

Council has received from Edward G. Lang, director of public works, a plan for the improvement of Diamond market which would cut the cost of operation from $75,000 a year to $44,300. It involves tenants furnishing their own refrigeration and service alterations that will result in reduction of heating and illumination expense. There also will be a saving to the city in the labor item of maintenance.

The report represents three surveys, one by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, which revealed that the building was a burden to the city because of being expensively operated. That condition is to be remedied, it appears, which will be pleasing to taxpayers.

A Dangerous Criminal?

Her Case Explains the Dreadful Overcrowding of State and Federal Prisons.

THREE POLICEMEN AND AN INFORMER TOOK 80 YEAR OLD MRS. CALDERON TO JAIL FOR SELLING A PINT OF WHISKY—AND HERE SHE IS

The little old lady in this photograph is a dangerous person, one of those "enemies of society" who must be sent to prison if we want to make this country safe for the law abiding.

She sold a pint of whisky in California a few days ago, and violated the enforcement act of that state. She is 80 years old, her name is Mrs. Lamberto Calderon, she speaks only Spanish—and it took three policemen and an informer to persuade her to sell the whisky. The informer told Mrs. Calderon her employer had sent him for the whisky. So she sold it to him and then the three policemen walked in and took the old lady off to the Los Angeles jail.

She was guilty, of course, and she admitted it. So the judge set her bail at $500 and remanded her to the county jail because she didn't have the money. The photograph shows a young matron helping feeble, bent and bewildered Mrs. Calderon from the courtroom to the jail.

Fortunately for her, the newspapers made quite a fuss and when she appeared for final sentence two days later, the judge gave her a 30-day suspended sentence and ordered her, through an interpreter, not to have anything to do with liquor in the future—and, he might have added, with undercover agents who make a great show of doing their duty by persuading 80-year-old women to break the law.

He could also have told the informer to spend more time on big bootleggers and less on such cases as Mrs. Calderon's.

Here, you may logically deduce, is ONE of the reasons for the over-crowding of our jails and our penitentiaries.

This is why federal prison population has increased from 10,000 to 12,000—20 per cent—since the summer of 1929, with its ghastly convict riots.

This is why state penitentiaries nearly everywhere are jammed with men of all ages—immature boys, men in their twenties, grown and hardened criminals, and aged, shuffling prisoners.

It would be absurd to assume that all or any large part of those federal and state prisoners were sentenced on charges as ridiculous as the ones brought against old lady Calderon, but it IS fair to say at least one-fifth of them are there because of the mad theory held even in high places that the way to solve the crime question is to "lock 'em up in jail and throw away the key."

We are sending boys to prison, to be hardened and made vicious.

We are sending harmless old ladies to jail because they sell one pint of whisky.

Our prison population is bound to increase beyond all rational limits as long as we continue with this senseless procedure—and every overcrowded prison is a ghastly confession that this enlightened country does not yet know how to handle its crime problems with humane and scientific understanding.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Wet, Dry or Medium

THE Alcoholic Digest continues its poll of the nation's fume inhalers. Most of the big cities voted wet, including paints, oils and ginger extract.

Spokane: The citizens in the town are for modification in habit-forming quantities.

Bismark: Everything is still. "Bugs" Baer

Elgin: We're willing to call it a draw.

Norfolk: Why bring that subject up again?

Wilkes-Barre: We are for enforcement, modification and repeal. In fact, we are for anything that will not change the present situation.

Chicago: We don't believe in order but we must have law to frighten the police.

Toledo: The string busted years ago but the government is still flying a kite.

St. Louis: Never heard of it.

Erie: All of our citizens marked their ballots in lead pencil because it's dangerous to trust 'em with ink.

San Francisco: Out here the schools use the Eighteenth Amendment for a memory test.

Broken Gears: This city is for the Eighteenth Amendment. Why, we even voted to enforce the weather forecasts.

Los Angeles: If this is a beauty contest then the Eighteenth Amendment will be elected Missed America.

Glen Falls: Why encourage ancient superstitions?

Flatburgh: At the seventy-sixth ballot the boys were still putting all their weight on their elbows.

Bleetville: What amendment?

Round Shoulder: There's only six citizens in this town but 11 votes were cast. The letter of the law is all right but it's great to get a souvenir postcard once in a while.

Swimsport: The voting contest between the drys and the wets might have been settled if the Indian dice hadn't rolled off the bar.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

THEY tell about a Scotchman that was buying an overcoat. He was a little guy, about five feet four.

'Canna ye give it to me cheaper that I'm so sma?" he says.

"Oh, no," says the salesman. "We sell all sizes at the same price. This here coat will cost you twenty-five bucks."

"In large or sma' size?"

"Sure."

"An' if I was six feet tall and weighed two hundred pound, it would be a' the same?"

"Sure. The biggest size we got would cost you the same."

"Weel, gie me the biggest size. I can ha' enough cut aff it to make a coat for the wee bairn at home."

Don't Croak With the Crows

By Herbert Kaufman

IN 1921 our ports were clogged with merchandise assembled in expectation of Europe's resumed buying power.

Sugar, wheat, leather, lumber, cotton, fats and meat were massed in elevators and warehouses for invasion of old world markets.

War had stripped Europe's shelves and gutted her larders.

Undernourished millions yonder, desperately clamored for our foodstuffs—and foreign factories, at last demobilized from military service, frantically signaled local cotton and oil fields, tanneries, granges and copper mines, to rush delivery.

But unfortunately for all concerned, overseas purchasers were short of the ONLY sort of money we could PROFITABLY use.

So WE kept our goods and THEY kept inflating the franc and mark and krone, until the shrewdest financier in Threadneedle or Broad street couldn't estimate trends of exchange even between dawn and dark.

THAT'S when the American business man lastingly learned not to grill his meat until the customer was seated.

Costly and depressing EXPERIENCE designed the brakes which now restrain employment and restrict commercial credit.

The gigantic losses which banks suffered in the process of thawing the billions in frozen inventories at that time, largely account for their continuing tendency to hobble expansion and halt loans until consumption reduces the dead loads that so many balance sheets inherit from the RECKLESS enthusiasm of 1929.

The country's working capital isn't impaired, but it STILL inclines to linger on islands of safety, watching for the green lights to flash "clear thoroughfare."

MONEY'S cold-foot attack will be cured as soon as the sun takes charge and waves construction back to its interrupted job of erecting skyscrapers, building postoffices, laying highways and hatching new suburbs.

The replacement of winter wardrobes with spring fripperies will FURTHER loosen purse strings. Every increase in retail volume, steel output, wheat shipments, and automobile sales, will open more cyclone cellars—correspondingly encourage financial confidence, and buckle MORE browsing dollars back into work harness.

You can't see the silver lining behind the clouds because it's tucked away in a SAFE DEPOSIT box. But by fall, prosperity will be hanging it in the skies again. Nothing can keep a good country DOWN or DOWN-HEARTED.

FOLK, who in the space of a single century created, out of a sheer wilderness, wealths to meet fifty-two billions of war obligations without stinting opportunity a STIVER, can and WILL promptly meet any problem which the robot, the 50-year deadline, and all the other consequences of TOO-SUDDEN efficiency may thrust upon their collective wit and conscience.

This is STILL a poor man's land—STILL a land of fair fields and open games. Administrative vision and federal preparedness may spasmodically be caught napping, or legislation occasionally prove dilatory in selecting proper remedies for a critical moment—but tradition and the record bear witness that our GET-BACKS invariably cover more ground than our SET-BACKS.

Like Antaeus, the fabled giant who rose STRONGER from every knockdown, America has never YET failed to emerge from a muddle, better qualified to manhandle the NEXT one.

Take J. P. Morgan's advice and quit selling the United States short. This is a BULL pasture, not a BEAR den.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

YOUNG Mrs. Perkins is all of a pout. Here she's gone and given up a perfectly good position to marry Jimmy, and what does she get in return? Just another job, that's what she gets. Dishes to wash. Socks to darn. When naturally she expected at least one maid and a good closed car.

"Of course I knew he wasn't getting very much at first," she sniffs, "but he said that was just a streak of bad luck. But it's three years now, and his luck hasn't changed. He's still plugging along in that same old office, making $30 a week and expecting me to get along on that! A man has certainly a lot of nerve to expect a girl to marry him when he can't do any better than that!"

On and on goes Mrs. Jimmy, accumulating more rage at James and more pity for herself, with each fresh recital of her wrongs. And thousands 'n thousands of other indignant ladies will agree with every word she says. Some of them worked before marriage. Some of them didn't. But, regardless of their previous status or present ability, they're all profoundly convinced that they've been short changed in matrimony.

WHY IS IT THAT A GIRL WHO COULD NEVER ACHIEVE MORE THAN TWENTY-FIVE PER WEEK IN HER OWN WORKING LIFE WILL SCORN HER HUSBAND IF HE DOESN'T PROVIDE HER WITH AT LEAST THREE TIMES AS MUCH?

She usually does. Which same is considered one more proof of feminine cussedness. But, as a matter of fact, it's generally the Big Boy's own fault! He "made her what she is today"—and in most cases, he worked overtime on the job.

Nine times out of ten, the Ouly Girl is plugging at some switchboard when John Henry comes a-courting . . . or taking dictation at $20 per . . . or busting her aches on a school room floor . . . or selling lingerie tape. Naturally she doesn't think that her job represents her real value. And John Henry hastens to agree with her. According to his enthusiastic estimate, she should be occupying all the best thrones. Which is a line of sales talk any girl will accept without one moment's hesitation. Encouraged by his success, John Henry thereupon promises to install the throne and pay for the up-keep, if she'll just move over and sit down. Not being crazy, she promptly complies—

AND THEN WAKES UP TO FIND HERSELF WITH A WEDDING RING ON ONE HAND AND A DISHPAN IN THE OTHER.

Of course, she feels that she has been two-timed. And says so. Whereat John Henry gets all smoked up at the thought of her ingratitude and greediness.

Why is divorce? That's why. You can't get very far, in any business, on watered stock.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

WHEREVER the evidence from comparative anatomy is clear, this new chemical evidence is in agreement with it. The anatomist, for instance, tells us that seals and sea-lions are carnivores which have taken to life in the sea; and their blood-proteins are chemically more like that of dogs, cats and bears than of any other creatures.

The anatomist puts man in the same group with the apes monkeys, and tells us that he is more like apes than tailed monkeys, more like tailed monkeys than lemurs, and more like any of these than he is to all the rest of the mammals.

H. G. Wells

His very blood-proteins reinforce this conclusion. The blood of a rabbit previously inoculated with human blood gives a heavy precipitate when tested with chimpanzee's blood, less with a baboon or an organ-grinder's monkey, still less with a South American spider-monkey, but next to nothing with any animal from other mammal groups.

Occasionally anatomy gives a dubious verdict, and then the blood-test may throw fresh light. The whales, for instance, have points of resemblance both to carnivores and to ungulates, and anatomists have hesitated between the two alternatives.

Blood-tests seem to show that they are more akin to the ungulates—a valuable classificatory indication.

We have spoken so far only of animals; but anti-bodies are produced equally well against plant-proteins, and the method can be, and has been, successfully used with plants. The rabbit can be injected with an extract of some plant tissue, and its blood later mixed with similar extracts from other plants.

The results, from plants equally with animals, can be summed up in a sentence: likeness of chemical plan goes hand-in-hand with likeness of anatomical plan. Likeness is intrinsic and touches every aspect of the living thing.

Living things resemble or differ from each other in thread and texture as in plan and form. This falls in with the idea of Evolution, but it is reasonless on any other assumption.

2. Vestiges: The Evidence of the Useless.

There are certain facts of anatomy which have proved not merely difficult, but impossible to explain on any other assumption than that of Evolution.

These are what are called vestiges, organs which are useless to their possessor, but resemble and correspond to useful organs in other creatures. Such organs are often loosely called rudimentary organs; however, since they seem definitely not to be the beginnings of something better, but rather to represent the ruins of past usefulness, it is better to style them vestigial.

Perhaps the most striking vestigial organs are the legs of whales. Whales have, in their flippers, well-developed fore-limbs; but externally they show no trace of hind-limbs.

However, if they are dissected, one or two little bones are to be found embedded in the flesh in the region of the hind-limb. In some whales, a pair of long rods is all that remains, representing the vestige of the limb-skeleton, while the limb is altogether gone; in others, the vestige of the hip-girdle has a vestige of a thigh-bone attached.

These bones are wholly useless—there is no trace of limbs for them to support, and they have not been turned to other uses. If we believe in the special creation of each kind of whale, or even of whales as a group, we must confess that these limb-vestiges spell nonsense. But if whales have evolved from land mammals, their presence is not only natural but full of significance.

Leviathan we realize is not a perfect, immaculate whale, made as a whale and as nothing else, but the descendant of a land animal doing its best to swim.

Very similar vestiges of limbs are found in some snakes. No snake has any trace of a fore-limb, and most lack hind-limbs, too. But in the boas, pythons and one or two others, vestiges of hip-girdle and hind-limbs are to be found.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 9.—New York seems to have a specious idea as to just what constitutes celebrity. In any event it would appear it is not extremely difficult to attain the distinction. Hundreds of men and women along Broadway, for no reason whatever, are pointed out with accompanying whispers.

They may be merely regular patrons among heavy luncheon crowds at the Algonquin, Forno's, Sardi's, Dinty Moore's and similar haunts. Or they may be among those invited to drop in for tea at Muriel Draper's, George Gershwin's, Theodore Dreiser's or Robert Chanler's.

Yet in a jiffy they are accepted as People of Importance. They Go All the Places and Do All the Things. Ready conversationalists with a "bright line," they are in no time at all calling H. L. Mencken "Menck" and Arthur Hopkins "Hop." And they cannot be squelched.

They have the successful look of the Blue Train and will pay top price for choice tables at "testimonial" dinners. Between acts at the theater they join lobby and sidewalk crowds for cigarets and are easily familiar with critics and professional first nighters.

A cynic once observed that to be famous along Broadway one had only to be greeted by Texas Guinan before a big night club crowd with "Hello Sucker!" or have a sandwich named for you on Reuben's menu. This is not the exaggeration it might seem to be.

It is an ancient but true story that at an auspicious first night a master of ceremonies picked out "celebrities" in the audience to take a bow. Among those introduced were: Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Frisco, the stuttering comedian, Harry K. Thaw, Imogene Wilson and the late Arnold Rothstein.

In a right hand stage box sat a lady in curtained obscurity. If the announcer knew she was there he did not introduce her, yet she was the most celebrated of all. Perhaps not a dozen in the entire audience would have recognized her. She was Maud Adams.

The amazing number of delicatessen stores in New York is not so much due to the popularity of the pickled and tin mode of living as to the demand for the recent household commodity, gin. Following prohibition, almost every block has a half dozen delicatessen stores. As soon as a customer becomes known to the proprietor the latter usually concludes booking an order with: "And how many bottles of gin?"

Recently I notice few opera glasses are used at the theater. The explanation is in remarkable improvements in stage lighting. On the other hand, increasing interest in outdoor sports has ballooned sales of field glasses.

And it occurs to me the theater no longer offers those dime-in-the-slot chocolate machines once adorning backs of seats. I could look that up, too, if I didn't have to take one of those bald preventive treatments, merry optimist that I am.

Easthampton, L. I., is to be the summering spot of scriveners this season. Among those who will grace the various verandas are Ring Lardner, Percy Hammond, Grantland Rice, Irvin Cobb, Walter Trumbull and John N. Wheeler.

A richly dressed lady entered the subway at Fiftieth street in heavy mourning and with her face lined with grief. Sitting down, she opened a brightly-jacketed book and began to read. The title was "Silent Murders." Several somehow shuddered.

Roe Fulkerson tells of a cowboy ordering a steak in a Broadway restaurant. It came to him rare—very rare.

"Take that steak back and cook it," he thundered.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you a disappointed social climber?

Have you entertained extensively and lavishly, considering your income, without being able to count yourself a part of the social set you wish to enter?

Why are you so anxious to be listed with the society leaders of your section? Would it mean anything more than gratification of a selfish or vain desire?

Have you lost all desire to advance mentally by study and reading? Is there nothing more important in your life than social diversion? Are you willing to give up all chance of improving your mind if only you could be accepted by the social clique? There isn't time for both.

One of the most foolish worries is the one that is caused by inability to become a part of any social crowd of high social standing.

If your thoughts are entirely of a frivolous nature then go in with all your might for prestige in the social whirl. But if you have some common sense and depth of thought you will furnish your mind before you do your house and make so much of yourself from a standpoint of intelligence that the right crowd cannot afford not to ask you to their social gatherings and you won't know it if they don't.
